ANTI-WAR PROTESTS MARK SUB LAUNCHING

BARROW-IN-FURNESS, England (UPI) — The Queen Mother Elizabeth today launched Britain's first Polaris submarine while protestors paraded with anti-war placards.

A stiff breeze blew sprays of champagne and glass on shipyard workers as the Queen Mother smashed the traditional bottle against the side of HMS Resolution and sent the $76 millilon pound ($212.8 million) nuclear submarine sliding into the water.

On her drive to the Barrow-in-Furness shipyard she passed orderly demonstrators bearing placards saying "Work for Peace, Not War" and "Arms Race Over Human Race." Albert Booth, Labor Party member of Parliament for the area, also stayed away in protest.

Column of Pilgrims Mowed Down by Car

DOMODOSSOLA, Italy (CP) — An automobile today mowed down a line of Roman Catholic students walking along a mountain road on a night pilgrimage to a nearby shrine. Five were killed and seven were injured.

Thirty-eight students were walking in single file when their column was struck by the automobile shortly after midnight.

The seminarians, ranging in age from 15 to 23, were all Italian.

Police said they were hit by an automobile coming from the opposite direction which ran into the line of marchers head-on. Reason for the accident was not known.

Police! said the 24-year-old driver of the car was in hospital. He was not injured but was described under shock.

Divorce Law Debate

ROME (AP)—A dozen persons carrying placards saying 3,000,000 Italians want divorces demonstrated today near Parliament, where the justice commission of the Chamber of Deputies began debate on a controversial "little divorce" law. Italy has no divorce law. Legal separation is allowed but the separated cannot remarry.

Hydrofoil Contract

COVENTRY, Eng. (Reuters) —Bristol Siddeley, the British aero engine-maker, announced today it has won a contract for the Marine Proteus Gas Turbine to power a new type of American hydrofoil gunboat.

SPACE CENTRE, HOUSTON (UPI) — Gemini 11 astronauts Charles (Pete) Conrad and Richard F. Gordon splashed almost perfectly into the Atlantic today at the end of one of the most successful space flights yet.

Conrad and Gordon used a new "no-hands" automatic re-entry and floated down under an orange and white parachute, watched by millions of persons on television.

The splashdown was about 700 miles east of Cape Kennedy, about 2½ miles from the recovery carrier Guam, and between 1½ and two miles fom their target point.

A space agency official on the carrier called the landing "the best one we've ever had."

●

"This old world looks good from the deck of this carrier," Gordon told welcoming navy officials. "But I'll tell you it really looks great from 750 miles."

Conrad and Gordon shot to a space altitude record of 850 statute miles—750 nautical miles—early Wednesday.

"We had a very good flight," Conrad said. "With a good night's sleep we'll be ready to go again."

Conrad told newsmen the view from 850 miles was "just fantastic" and their Agena target vehicle "so good I almost hated to leave it."

Then the astronauts walked to the Guam sick bay for check-ups and rest. Their physician, Dr. John Droescher, said, "They look better than I do."

Conrad and Gordon will fly to Cape Kennedy Friday afternoon to begin a long series of first-hand reports on their mission. They are scheduled to return to their homes in Houston Sunday or Monday.

The automatic re-entry and the altitude record were two of the successes of a flight in which almost everything went well. The one exception was Gordon's Tuesday spacewalk, which was cut short when he was partially blinded by his own sweat.

Gemini 11 also carried out a rendezvous with an Agena satellite in record time following Monday's launch on the first orbit, and crews launched the Gemini in the tightest launch "window" ever—a matter of a few seconds. The astronauts also demonstrated a promising new "cartwheel" technique with the two vehicles on a 100-foot tether Wednesday.

●

Conrad and Gordon also increased the U.S. total of man-hours in space to 1,733 hours and 16 minutes, compared to Russia's 507 hours and 16 minutes.

"We had an excellent flight," said Dr. George E. Mueller, head of the U.S. civilian manned spaceflight program.

"The mission objectives were accomplished, and more."

Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the manned spacecraft centre in Houston, said the significance of Gemini 11 was that it again proved mastery of the rendezvous techniques.

But he said Gordon's trouble spacewalking showed "we still have a lot to learn" about man's ability to work in space.

Mueller also disclosed after the splashdown that the last mission in the Gemini series—Gemini 12—has been lengthened

WILSON
. . . acclamation

Ex-Mayor New Uvic Chancellor

Former Victoria mayor Richard B. Wilson has been named chancellor of the University of Victoria, president Dr. Malcolm Taylor announced today.

Mr. Wilson, who retired from civic politics last December, will succeed Judge J. B. Clearihue when his term expires at the end of this year.

He was elected by acclamation when nominations closed Wednesday for the university's most honored position.

In a tribute to Judge Clearihue, President Taylor said: "His contribution to university development over the past 60 years will not soon be forgotten and its effect will be felt for many years to come.

"His efforts toward enlightenment in the community have been untiring since he was a member of the first class of Victoria College in 1903."

Nominations also closed Wednesday for candidates for six positions on the university senate.

Fifteen candidates have been nominated for the three-year terms.

They are: Mrs. Olivia Barr, a former president of the Alma Mater Society; Canon Hilary

Woman Proves Voters Look to No. 1

By MICHAEL DROSNIN
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Agnes B. Hatfield had a theory: First on the ballot, first in the minds of the voters.

Voters, she reasoned, are "political aardvarks." Many, she believed, enter the polling place with absolutely no knowledge of the candidates and cast their votes for the first name on the ballot.

Tuesday night her name was first.

Mrs. Hatfield:

—Did not make a single campaign speech.

—Did not spend a penny on her campaign.

—Did not want to win.

—Endorsed another candidate in the same race.

But she ran second in the Republican congressional primary in Maryland's fifth district.

The 45-year-old professor of child development at Maryland University, with no political aspirations, received 20 per cent of the vote to edge out the man she supported and swamp another serious contender.

According to election law, the names of candidates are listed in alphabetical order on the ballot. And Hatfield came before Hogan, Martin and Viau, her three primary opponents.

Indeed, Mrs. Hatfield entered the race only to protest the ballot's alphabetical despotism. At the same tme, she hoped to run interference for "peace candidate" William R. Martin by ensuring that Lawrence J. Hogan's name would not head the list.

Martin, who was crushed by winner Hogan anyway, and also ran behind Mrs. Hatfield, commented ruefully, "she sure proved her point, didn't she."

Non-candidate Hatfield, bemused by her coup, said her surprisingly large vote "demonstrates the strength of irrelevant voting."

Her alternative to alphabetical listings: print up a series of ballots, each with a different name first, "to at least distribute the irrelevant votes evenly."

TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT

Sharp Won't Back Down

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The federal government's proposals for revised five-year fiscal agreement with the provinces have been put forward as a package on a "take-it-or-leave-it" basis, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp indicated Wednesday night.

The federal proposals, he stressed at a press briefing, after the first session of the federal-provincial tax structure committee, have been submitted as a package deal to be considered as a whole.

However he objected when reporters suggested that the attitude of the federal government appeared to be "unyielding" or "inflexible."

NO CHANGE

It was not possible for the federal government to go any further than it has in the new proposal in withdrawing from important tax fields, the finance minister emphasized.

Inflation is at the top of the agenda for the finance minister and provincial treasurers, including several provincial premiers, at today's sessions. Mr. Sharp did not anticipate there would be much difference of opinion between the premiers and Ottawa over the measures taken to curb inflationary pressures.

As to Ottawa's position on its new equalization tax sharing formula, Mr. Sharp said he had outlined the proposition to the premiers in his statement. They had been made public with no reason to believe that the new five-year fiscal agreement would be accepted by the provinces at this conference.

Mr. Sharp told newsmen that to the best of his knowledge no federal-provincial conference in Canadian history had produced a fiscal agreement.

NOTHING SOLVED

Committee To Study Differences

OTTAWA (CP) — The current meeting of the federal-provincial tax structure committee is likely to make only one major decision — to appoint another committee, delegation leaders said today.

The second committee would study wide differences of view between Ottawa and the provinces and report back to the next meeting of the full committee in October.

Federal Finance Minister Sharp and the premiers of Quebec and Ontario reported at a noon break in the session that nothing is being resolved.

Mr. Sharp said "serious differences of opinion" will still exist when the two-day meeting breaks up later today.

The best that might be hoped for was a "clearer understanding" of the disagreements, especially on the sharing of taxes between Ottawa and the provinces.

The committee's job is to negotiate a new set of five-year tax agreements between Ottawa and the provinces. On Wednesday Mr. Sharp summarized federal proposals that would change radically the basis of sharing direct taxes and the costs of major social programs, and revise the formula for redistributing tax revenues through equalization payments.

Hull Splits

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI)—One of Adolf Hitler's last killer U-boats, rebuilt after being scuttled at the end of the war, split open and sank in a North Sea storm Wednesday night with 21 persons aboard for a training cruise.

There was one known survivor, Chief Petty Officer Peter Silbernagel, 23, the cook on the small (282-ton) training submarine Hai (Shark). He reported the Hai sank in seconds like a stone after a storm cracked open her hull.

TWO BODIES FOUND

The bodies of two of the crewmen were plucked out of the choppy seas by helicopter, but a huge sea and air rescue operation was hampered by high winds and squally seas and it was feared the 20 others had drowned.

The U.S. Navy was sending the rescue submarine Kittiwake from Holy Loch in Scotland but it was expected to take 40 hours to reach the disaster scene just south of the Shetland Islands, 200 miles east of Tynemouth, England.

ON SURFACE

Silbernagel said the submarine was on the surface at time of the sinking and that eight or nine members of the crew who were on deck or on the U-boat's streamlined conning tower jumped overboard when the captain gave the order to abandon ship.

The cook was rescued by the British trawler St. Martin today after he had been in the chilly waters more than 12 hours. He was transferred to the German destroyer Barvaria.

Silbernagel said the submarine's hull cracked during the storm and water burst into the engine room. The captain ordered the crewmen to don lifejackets and abandon ship but most were trapped when the U-boat plunged swiftly to the bottom.

CUT HIMSELF LOOSE

Silbernagel was in a group of four men bound together with a lifeline but that he cut himself loose and swam for hours when he saw his shipmates lose consciousness. He said another group also bound together with a lifeline were in the water.

"The seas were very high — about 18 feet I would say — and three of the others had no lifejackets. I don't think they lasted very long. We lost contact in the rough seas and I kept myself afloat for 12 hours before I was picked up."

Canada's Role Praised For Saving Commonwealth

(Special to The Times)

LONDON — Canada is getting the credit for closing the gap that threatened to split the Commonwealth wide open.

A draft communique by Prime Minister Pearson and the Canadian delegation formed the basis of the agreement reached here Wednesday night on future handling of the Rhodesian situation.

While the communique was approved unanimously, there was not unanimity in the views expressed in it. In the compromise reached, Britain gets an opportunity for another try at negotiated settlement with rebel leader Ian Smith.

But it ties Britain to a deadline by the year's end. The rest of the Commonwealth got reinforcement from Britain that there is no possibility of independence being granted against the wishes of the Rhodesian people as a whole. British Prime Minister Harold Wilson was moved by pressure of opinion, headed by the Afro-Asian block, to go further than he intended.

The "last chance" deadline for Smith was not originally in the British scheme.

Britain also agreed to go along with the Canadian initiative of selective mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia through UN action, but not until the deadline for a negotiated settlement has passed.

While they signed the communique, the Afro-Asian group, and particularly the majority of the African countries among the 22 represented at the talks, would have liked stronger language.

The communique pointed up their belief that force was the only sure way to bring down the illegal regime. The agreement was reached after seven days of critical talks here at which the whole future of the Commonwealth as a multi-racial organization was in the balance.

Some British editorial criticism is that even the compromise communique puts

FRANCE, CHINA N-TESTS RAPPED

LONDON (Reuters)—Leaders of 22 Commonwealth nations in a surprise move today condemned France and China for holding nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

In a communique issued after a 10-day conference here, the leaders of 750,000,000 people—a quarter of the world's population—called on all countries to ban all types of nuclear tests and urged France and China to join international disarmament talks.

The communique also said:

- The whole Commonwealth should continue to do what it can to get peace in Viet Nam.
- Most Commonwealth members believe the United Nations should revoke South Africa's mandate over Southwest Africa and take over its administration until it gets independence.

TURNING POINT

Will Party Survive Bennett?

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

The 1966 provincial election featured a relatively quiet campaign, no major issue and probably a record low turnout at the polls that returned the same number of government suporters, yet it was anything but dull.

I think it will be analyzed for years after the great donnybrooks of 1956, 1960 and 1963 are forgotten because, in a smaller way, it could be a turning point as was the 1952 election which barely brought the Socreds to power as a minority government.

In 1953 Premier Bennett had seized the opportunities of that turning point to sweep into unchallenged command of the province.

They may be harder to see but similar opportunities now exist in the political situation and the major question is: will the Socred administration survive Premier Bennett?

It may not be probable but it certainly is possible that if the New Democratic Party and the Liberal Party obtain leaders as aggressive as Mr. Bennett, the next election may be fought to see which of them will form the government and which will be the official opposition — with the Socreds bringing up the rear.

To doubters I can only say that up until Monday night the present composition of the legislature seemed improbable but certainly was possible.

The government's inability to increase its standing during a prosperous period after an enormous amount of publicity all last year in praise of the premier's record in office means Social Credit has reached either a plateau in B.C or actually has crossed the watershed of its ascendancy and now has started down the reverse slope.

But there are too many able politicians in the Social Credit ranks for that party to slide down the slope as have the Conservatives. Although some internal divisions have begun showing, it has not reached the self-destructive proportions that has rent the Tories to tatters.

Every effort will be made by the Socreds to climb back at the next election and the only reasons I think it safe to suggest it could be a struggle for them is that the premier had some reason for calling a snap vote this year. Despite all the oratory of a political campaign, he still has not revealed his reason, so I can only assume he saw some difficulty ahead for his party.

The election results cannot be read as a victory for the opposition and a protest against the government. The light vote, traditional with an electorate that is satisfied on the whole, and the slight increase in the government's share of this smaller vote both point to that.

The increase in actual numbers of opposition MLAs also happens to be the result — predicted long before the election — of redistribution which gives a more realistic number of seats to the urbanized, lower mainland where the anti-Socred vote always has been concentrated.

The most significant thing about the election is that the premier failed in his objective of eliminating the Liberals once and for all and of rolling up a massive majority. This proves the NDP and Liberals have terrific staying power, which few anticipated.

•

It also is the second great miscalculation by the premier this year and shows that, for all his efforts to hypnotize the province into believing him invincible, he is not a supernatural wizard.

The premier lost his chance for the massive majority not during the campaign but during the last session.

He tried repeatedly to manoeuvre the opposition into creating an issue during the session but they outsmarted him. So he had no issue — the real secret of his success in past elections — to bring out a determined vote for his party when he still felt compelled to call for a mandate.

Mr. Bennett's failure has immense implications both within and outside his party.

•

It was obvious in this campaign that the 'smart money' was mesmerized into believing there would be an Alberta-style Socred sweep so they simply gave all their campaign donations to that party. The results undoubtedly have given them pause and the next time they'll cover their bets which means smaller donations to the Socreds so that respectable ones can be made to the Liberals

(I doubt very much that. having dropped out of the habit of even considering the Tories, they'll ever give them any money again.)

The NDP also can look forward to more financing than the paltry help they got this time from an equally-mesmerized organized labor movement.

But money isn't enough and it isn't everything either — as the premier proved in 1952 when he sparked the Socreds (with some Alberta help in the money and organizing fields) into winning 19 seats where they had none before.

I'm sure that the new and quite vigorous blood brought into the opposition ranks by Monday's vote will be aware of the opportunities and also the fact that if they want the Socreds to go downhill they'll have to do a slot of pushing.

So I expect to see early attempts at replacing both Mr. Strachan and Mr. Perrault. It was interesting to read their responses to questions on just this point after the votes had been counted — both said they felt they expect to continue as leaders "for the present."

government enter into a one-year deal.

Mr. Sharp said it was too much to expect the 11 governments in Canada to come to an agreement on such complex financial problems.

After today's final session there would likely be another meeting in October. The federal and provincial finance ministers would then report to the regular federal-provincial conference of prime ministers in November, said Mr. Sharp.

He said the federal government's new approach to federal-provincial relations was deliberately designed to encourage provincial tax initiative and independence. It was aimed at reducing "paternalistic aspects" of federal-provincial relations. He believes the new equalization formula was a bold new experiment in redistribution of tax capacity based onprinciples of fairness and equity.

Equalization arrangements are one of the four central features of federal-provincial fiscal relations, he said. They represent one of the dividends of Canadian unity, designed as they were to enable all Canadians to enjoy an adequate level of provincial public services.

from three to four days to give astronauts James Lovell and Edwin Aldrin time to perform 16 experiments.

Mueller said the Gemini 12 mission is scheduled for November.

Conrad and Gordon fired their retro-rockets 176 miles over the Pacific at 9:24 a.m. EDT to start the re-entry.

They splashed down exactly on schedule 35 minutes later, and 24 minutes after that were on the carrier.

In pioneering pinwheel flight, Conrad and Gordon got off to the shakiest of starts but finished with colors flying.

At first, the separation set up wild, flailing, skip-rope behavior by the twin satellites.

"Hang on," cried Conrad at one point, "here goes the jerk! "Boing . . ."

But the pilots were able to jockey their craft around until the tether was tight, and the two vehicles went turning around each other at a rate of about once every nine minutes.

After some slow pinwheeling, the rate was speeded up, and at first the vehicles careened wildly. But the pilots were able to stabilize them again. The cartwheeling caused a gravitation pull.

"We put a camera or something up against a bulkhead and it floats back down . . . every time," Conrad reported.

The experiment completed, Conrad activated explosive bolts that blew the tether loose from Gemini 11 and left it flapping loose on the Agena.

"Now the tether is slowly wrapping itself around it (the Agena) like a Christmas present," Conrad said.

"It wraps itself around one end and then wraps itself around the other end and it's going around the big engine now."

At another point, he said, "the tether is just slowly flailing away—all 100 feet out one way and then all 100 feet out the other way."

Varied Proposals At Nigeria Parley

LAGOS (Reuters) — Nigeria's crucial constitutional conference today faced three different proposals to split the country's present four regions into a fereration of eight, nine and 12 states.

Chief Anthony Enahoro, leader of the midwest region delegation, introduced a 25-page memorandum Wednesday night calling for a dozen states with a central government much weaker than in the former Nigerian federal system, conference sources said.

The western and Lagos delegations submitted a joint proposal for eight states, favoring a strong central government without saying in details how it would work.

A northern delegate, J. S. Tarka, representing the middle belt area — a minority and mainly non-Moslem region in the southern part of the vast Moslem north — told delegation heads he would like to see nine states created.

The midwest move came after the conference — called to try and heal some of the wounds left by the two tribal-inspired coups which have shaken the nation this year—was thought to be heading toward some kind of loose federation comprising four strong autonomous regions.

Crash With Car Injures Cyclist

A 10-year-old cyclist was treated for bruises and shock about 8 a.m. today after a car-bicycle collison at Blenkinsop and Cedar Hill.

Saanich police said Martin Oliver, 1647 Cedar Hill Cross-road, was released after a checkup at Royal Jubile Hospital.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A weather disturbance just off the outer coast has spread cloud into the entire coastal area. Rain fell overnight over the Charlottes and will spread eastward slowly. Gale force winds are still blowing in the north coast region and will spread slowly southward today. The interior was clear overnight with fog forming in the central portions.

The coast will remain cloudy Friday with scattered showers as the disturbance moves inland.

SPACEMEN PHOTOGRAPH RUSSIAN SATELLITE

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The "wingman" astronaut Charles Conrad spotted from the Gemini 11 spacecraft Tuesday turned out to be Russia's unmanned huge Porton III satellite.

The satellite was identified by the North American Defence Command after it studied tracking records kept on all orbiting objects.

"We had a wingman flying wing on us here, off to my left, tumbling about one revolution per second," Conrad said when he reported the object. "We got some pictures of it."

'WILL GO AHEAD AS PLANNED'

Sharp Just Bluffing On Medicare—Bennett

By JOYCE FAIRBAIRN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Premier Bennett predicts when the smoke clears from the Liberal caucus medicare will be in effect as originally planned next July.

Flexing his muscles after recent victory at the polls, the outspoken B.C. premier felt the federal government would back down on Finanace Minister Sharp's announcement that the starting date for medicare had been deferred until July 1, 1968 because of inflationary pressures.

"If it isn't changed there will be a revolt in the Liberal caucus — it will be more than just rumors," he said.

"You'll see. When it is all over medicare will be in as planned on July 1, 1967."

WON'T GET VOTES

Bennett said that if the minority Liberal government failed to meet its medicare commitment it wouldn't get any votes in another election.

The premier took strong issue with Sharp's contention that deferment of medicare would help ease pressures on the economy.

"I have yet to hear anyone explain to me in any way that this cutback has anything to do with inflation or anti-inflation," he said.

Medical bills still have to be paid, whether the money comes from individual pockets or government coffers, Bennett added.

Sharp's warning for national restraint were all part of a standard federal bluff leading up to the premiers conference in November, Bennett said.

DIRE STATEMENTS

"Before these conferences the federal government always issues dire statements to show it is really in bad shape, which it's not," he said.

On the whole, Premier Bennett was highly critical of the government's philosophy towards a future federal-provincial tax agreement.

On the policy of equalization payments which the government hands out to help fill the gap between poorer provinces and the top revenue earners, Bennett said the approach was all wrong.

Assistance should be offered in a way that would directly help low income citizens.

He suggested that the federal government was "opting out of confederation," by wishing to turn shared programs such as hospital insurance, national health grants and aid to the blind, old, disabled and unemployed over to the provinces.

SHARED PROGRAMS

Instead Ottawa should be entering into more shared programs which would directly benefit individuals, he said.

Specifically, Bennett suggested:

- Ottawa should match on a national basis British Columbia's $110 homeowner grants designed to help pay individual taxes. Some other provinces had already indicated they were considering plans similar to the B.C. grant, he said.
- The government should also match, or improve, B.C.'s $500 homebuilding grant which helps individuals to purchase their own homes.

"The best thing anyone can do for a settled economy is to enable people to own a piece of their country," Bennett said.

OTTAWA BLAMED

The premier placed the main responsibility for inflation on the federal government.

Ottawa had been driving the economy now with "a whip and a tight rein," he said.

The premier also scoffed at a federal proposal that the provinces take in more personal income and corporation taxes to facilitate financing of the shared programs being vacated by Ottawa.

Rail, Hydro, Road Aid Sought by B.C.

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett Wednesday sought federal government financial aid to help pay for current hydro-electric, railroad and highway projects in British Columbia.

In a brief prepared for the federal-provincial conference of finance ministers in Ottawa, the premier said "British Columbia has received no federal financial assistance for its vast hydro-electric developments on the Peace and Columbia rivers."

"It is going it alone although great benefits will accrue from its efforts for all of Canada," he said.

Imposition of the 11-per-cent federal sales tax on building materials had increased construction costs on the Columbia Dam project by $30,000,000.

The federal government provided more than $77,000,000 in subsidies to the South Saskatchewan River development and is contracting initially to build and pay for the entire $120,000,000 transmission facilities from the Nelson River hydro-electric development in Manitoba, he said in the B.C. brief.

The Atlantic Development Board will pay $20,000,000 towards construction of the New Brunswick Mactaquac hydro power project, federal government funds are used for the $160,000,000 nuclear power plant near Trois-Rivieres, Que., and Ontario receives $70,000,000 a year for nuclear development, the brief said.

"As an equal partner in Confederation, British Columbia is entitled to the same fiscal considerations as received by other provinces from the government of Canada."

Nor had the federal government accepted its full share of Trans-Canada Highway costs in B.C. despite the fact that the average per-mile cost od construction in the province is almost double that in the rest of Canada, said Mr. Bennett.

The federal government was also $19,747,500 short of its share of construction costs of the provincially-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway, the brief said. The PGE was entitled to receive an operating subsidy on the same basis as the two national railways and regional railways, including United States-owned railway systems operating into Canada.

Pride of Canadians Evident to Americans

BALTIMORE, Md. (CP) — Canada's highly developed and "almost obsessive" sense of national pride should make Americans more aware of its neighbor's sensitivities, federal Health Minister MacEachen said today.

This pride should also make Americans more tolerant of and sympathetic to Canadian efforts to achieve and maintain an acceptable degree of independence in political, economic and cultural fields, he said.

"Unfortunately, this tolerance and understanding is not always evident and the danger is that years of frustration and erosion of the Canadian identity may lead to actions detrimental to both countries."

Mr. MacEachen spoke at the fall convocation of Loyola College here after he was awarded an honorary doctorate in humane letters.

Pitted against the common denominators in both countries is the "ever - present and all-pervasive disparity in power and population."

It affects every aspect of the relationship and "will continue to place some pretty heavy strains on the bonds that have served to unite us," the minister said.

"No U.S. government, at least in modern times, has made any calculated, conscious, overt effort to interfere with our independence or to thwart the development of a Canadian identity.

"Yet to many Canadians, there is a nagging awareness that this danger does exist. In fact, some will claim that it is already a fact that our independence has already been eroded, our distinctive identity frustrated, by U.S. influences."

Punished for Picture

SAIGON (AP) — Two of Saigon's three English-language newspapers were suspended for three days Thursday by the government after publishing a picture of a striptease dancer and saying she was at a party for Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Huu Co., deputy prime minister. The Saigon Post and the Saigon Daily News printed public apologies, saying the stripper did not perform at Co's party and that the wrong caption information came from a photo agency which supplied the picture.

MINE 'HELL FIRE' KILLS 3 WORKERS

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Efforts to rescue three missing miners were abandoned early today and a burning coal mine was sealed in efforts to halt the "hell fire" in which they are presumed to have died.

The end of round-the-clock efforts by about 80 would-be rescuers came about 7 a.m. after attempts to put out the fire with a foam-making fire-fighting machine failed.

Given up for dead were Tom Terretti, 43, of Wheeling, W. Va.; William Adams, 33, of nearby Barnesville, Belmont County, and Keith Spicer, 22, of Dillonvale, Jefferson County.

They were lost in a fire touched off Wednesday morning by a snapped power cable.

Rescuers Recover Bodies

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (UPI)—Rescue workers, digging out tons of rock, dirt and coal through the night, uncovered today the bodies of two of the three men trapped 700 feet underground by a cave-in of an anthracite mine.

State Mines Secretary H. Beecher Charmbury said the third man also probably died in the cave-in.

DAWSON

ENVOY OUSTED

East-West Tensions Increased

MOSCOW (Reuters) — New gloom was cast over U.S.-Soviet relations Wednesday with the expulsion of an American diplomat, the announcement of the arrest of a Peace Corps worker on Russia's border with Iran, and a Moscow press attack on American tourists.

At the same time, the Soviet foreign ministry told U.S. officials that a former Roman Catholic priest from Chicago, Harold M. Koch, who asked for political asylum here in protest against the Viet Nam war, has refused to see a U.S. embassy representative.

The diplomat, Donald Lesh, 35, a fluent Russian speaker and the embassy's cultural affairs specialist, was apparently expelled in retaliation for a similar move against a Soviet embassy official in Washington.

Hours before demanding his withdrawal, the Soviet foreign ministry confirmed to the embassy that a U.S. Peace Corps worker, Thomas R. Dawson, 24, was being held on Soviet territory under investigation as a "border violator."

Dawson, who was with the Peace Corps in Iran, was arrested by Russian border guards while walking near the Soviet border town of Astara on the Caspian Sea Sunday.

RELEASE SOUGHT

The U.S. embassy asked for his release Tuesday, saying he headed towards the border "in all innocence," but Wednesday's Soviet reply gave no indication he was likely to be released soon.

Lesh was accused by the Russians of "activities incompatible with his diplomatic status." The charges were rejected by the U.S. embassy, which said the foreign ministry gave no details to support them.

The expelled Soviet diplomat, Valentin Revin, was charged by the U.S. state department with trying to buy classified information from an American citizen. He returned here last week.

The press attack on U.S. tourists came in the youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda, which warned its readers against American visitors asking questions that could provide answers useful to the Central Intelligence Agency, the U.S. spy service.

It claimed some U.S. universities worked for the CIA, and asserted some American university scientists have collected intelligence material in the Soviet Union.

Rights Bill Beaten

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's open housing civil rights bill received its apparent death blow Wednesday when the Senate refused to invoke closure and shut off debate on the controversial measure.

'REPEAL BAN'

Voters Defeat Margarine Foe

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Butter's last bastion was melting today after the election defeat of Wisconsin's 74-year-old arch opponent of colored oleomargarine.

LEVERICH
. . . long fight over

OLEO SIGN
. . . roadside bargain

Age, reapportionment and fellow Republicans retired dairy farmer Earl Leverich, crusty chairman of the state Senate's agriculture committee, in Tuesday's primary election to pick candidates for the Nov. 8 general election. A legislator predicted today repeal of the sole surviving ban in the United States on the sale of the colored butter substitute might come quickly now.

"I know that they would have quite a job to pass it if I were there," said Leverich, who launched his political career by leading a farmers' march on the state capitol during the depression to back taxes on uncolored oleomargarine.

Today, however, Wisconsin is no longer the dairyland domain that it once was. Population changes brought court - decree legislative reapportionment that sapped rural power.

BEATEN BY LAWYER

Leverich, running for renomination for the first time in a realigned district, was beaten in the Republican primary by Raymond C. Johnson, a 29-year-old lawyer from urban Eau Claire.

Wisconsin's butter - margarine battle, which erupted in the 19th century and never has abated, has an economic ancestry. Farmers contend they can't afford to compete with the colored spread. For the consumer, there is another side to the coin.

Butter sold at 87 cents a pound Wednesday at a supermarket in a Madison shopping centre. At another supermarket 70 miles away in Rockford, Ill., colored oleomargarine was priced at 26 cents a pound.

Gas stations along the Illinois-Wisconsin state line abound with signs shouting, "last stop for oleo." Bootlegging to beat the ban is a standing joke.

"It's sort of ridiculous to be the only state in the nation that forbids the sale of colored oleo," said Assemblyman Harold Froehlich.

Froehlich, a Republican leader in the legislature's lower house, promised a renewed effort at repeal in the 1967 session of the legislature. He predicted "I think we've got the votes to pass the bill."

Colored oleo has been banned in the state since 1895.

Sentence Boosted In Brutal Robbery

EDMONTON (CP) — A two-year sentence of Raymond Desjarlais, 21, of Barnegat, Alta., was increased Wednesday to 10 years and two lashes by the Alberta supreme court's appellate division on the ground the original sentence was "quite inadequate."

Raymond and his brother, Gordon, 20, earlier this year were convicted of robbery with violence after a Lac la Biche, Alta., man was punched, kicked, beaten, hit with a shovel and abandoned on a highway in below-zero temperatures. The victim lost an eye.

Plan Delay Shocks Sask.

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan governmentt was shocked at the decision to postpone a national medical care program Health Minister D. G. Steuart said Wednesday.

Mr. Steuart said he had written a letter to federal Health Minister Allan Maceachen urging the federal government to reconsider its move.

"Our government was shocked to hear of the federal government's arbitrary decision. In our opinion health programs should be of top priority in Canada's development and although we recognize the dangers of inflation, we consider there are more preferable ways of holding the line in our national planning," Mr. Steuart said in the letter.

'Individuals Should Know New Roles'

MONTREAL (CP)—Air Vice-Marshal James B. Harvey said Wednesday the government should clarify the roles that "individuals" will play in the proposed unified armed forces.

Lack of clarification, he said, had led to general distrust and the fear—justified to date by what has not been said instead of by what has—that the country "will lose more than it will gain".

The former vice-marshal now is assistant to the president of Miner Rubber Co., Ltd.

He told a meeting of the Number 306 Maple Leaf Wing of the RCAF Association that he is not a "traditionalist" but had some serious reservations about many of the integration measures.

"If major changes can bring benefits then we should not stand in the way of progress. But we must ask ourselves if what is being lost in the way of tradition and intangibles is being sufficiently compensated for. . . ."

LAWNS

A beautiful, well-groomed, year-round, green lawn is a valuable asset to any home and neighborhood. That's why so many homeowners spend every year much effort and expense for fertilizers and weed-killing ingredients in order to obtain a first-class looking lawn. Unfortunately the results are, as a rule, disappointing because lawns, even when constantly well-watered and looked after, can only stand up to the impact of hot, dry summer weather if they are protected by a heavy layer of turf. Top-dressing of existing lawns is the only way to obtain such a layer of turf.

Contrary to general belief, summer is the best time for lawn top-dressing. For a free estimate and expert advice regarding the top-dressing of any particular lawn area, we suggest you contact the Layritz Nurseries. If they take on the job they guarantee results.

Slicing the Pie

FINANCE MINISTER SHARP'S new tax sharing policy, announced on the eve of the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa, has apparently roused consternation among provincial premiers and has been described variously as "revolutionary," history-making" and "unworkable."

In essence the proposal is based on two main theses: That the government which spends must be prepared to take the responsibility for taxing; and there must be provision for uniform opportunities for all Canadians from one end of the country to the other. In broad outline the federal government wants to collect only sufficient taxes to carry out its federal responsibilities (including the equalization function) while giving the provinces fiscal responsibilities commensurate with their constitutional obligations.

If this is "revolutionary" then it is a revolution which is probably long overdue. The annual pilgrimage of provincial premiers to Ottawa to demand that the federal government give each and every one a larger share of tax receipts has meant that in order to do so the federal government has had to increase its taxes. The provinces have thus avoided the onus of higher taxation by placing it on Ottawa.

The generally unfavorable reaction of the premiers to Mr. Sharp's new plan may lessen as the conference explores more fully all its implications. They obviously had no hint of the scheme and went down to Ottawa with prepared briefs based on the usual method of tax distribution. This left them, unfortunately, looking rather foolish and it could be charged to Mr. Sharp that this was less than tactful. The premiers have to some degree been placed in a position where they seem to be resisting what so many of them have long demanded—greater autonomy in running their own affairs. Perhaps the realization that they can no longer take credit for spending, particularly in certain areas of social welfare, without also taking the responsibility of imposing the necessary taxes, comes like a chilly breeze on a hitherto balmy day.

Mr. Sharp's proposal for maintaining uniform national standards through equalization grants appears to be basically sound although there is no doubt that it is complex. Working out a formula by which all the provinces can be rated on a "prosperity index"—roughly akin to a gross provincial product—will not be easy. But in theory at least it seems more equitable than the present system of simply selecting certain taxes and then attempting to bring all provinces up to the standards of the two wealthiest, Ontario and British Columbia.

One thing is clear: the expanding public demand for services from government, particularly in the field of social welfare, is more and more dominating federal and provincial politics. If it achieves nothing else, the forthcoming federal-provincial conference will remind the public that its calls for services must be paid for—and the basic source of funds for this purpose is the public's earnings.

A Light at London

A COMPROMISE PROPOSAL steered by the Canadian delegation has done much to alleviate conflict in the Commonwealth conference on Rhodesia.

Britain has made two recessions from its earlier stand. It will refuse consent to Rhodesian independence before majority rule is established, unless the people of that country wish otherwise. Since 90 per cent of Rhodesians are Negro, this is tantamount to saying that majority rule must prevail from the beginning. Secondly, Britain signified its willingness to agree to a Security Council resolution for effective and selective sanctions against Rhodesia if the rebel regime does not capitulate. There would have to be full support from Commonwealth members of the United Nations for this step.

The two points seem to go far to meet the requirements of the African members of the Commonwealth. These have been calling for much harsher measures, including military force. But with insistence on majority rule as a prerequisite to granting independence, and the increased effectiveness which economic sanctions could have if enforced by the United Nations rather than merely by Britain, an acceptable procedure may have been established.

There will still remain, of course, some doubts as to whether economic sanctions can prove successful even if given the weight of UN enforcement. The ability of Rhodesia to survive so far—granted numerous leaks in the oil embargo and other measures — suggests that even a tighter ostracism might have to be a long-term project.

But some advance has been made through the latest communique. If accepted it will demonstrate a very statesmanlike job, for continued disagreement over Rhodesia threatened the unity of the Commonwealth itself.

A Careful Approach to Sunday Sport

A WIDE-RANGING EXPLORATION of Sunday sports and entertainment for which admission fees could be charged, may be in the offing for British Columbia municipalities.

A recommendation which, in effect, calls for an informed public survey of the issue has already received endorsement by Saanich Council as it prepares for the annual UBCM convention. This approach to the question appears sound. It is the outcome of a study by municipal affairs department officials and members of the UBCM executive, to determine legislation that would be required.

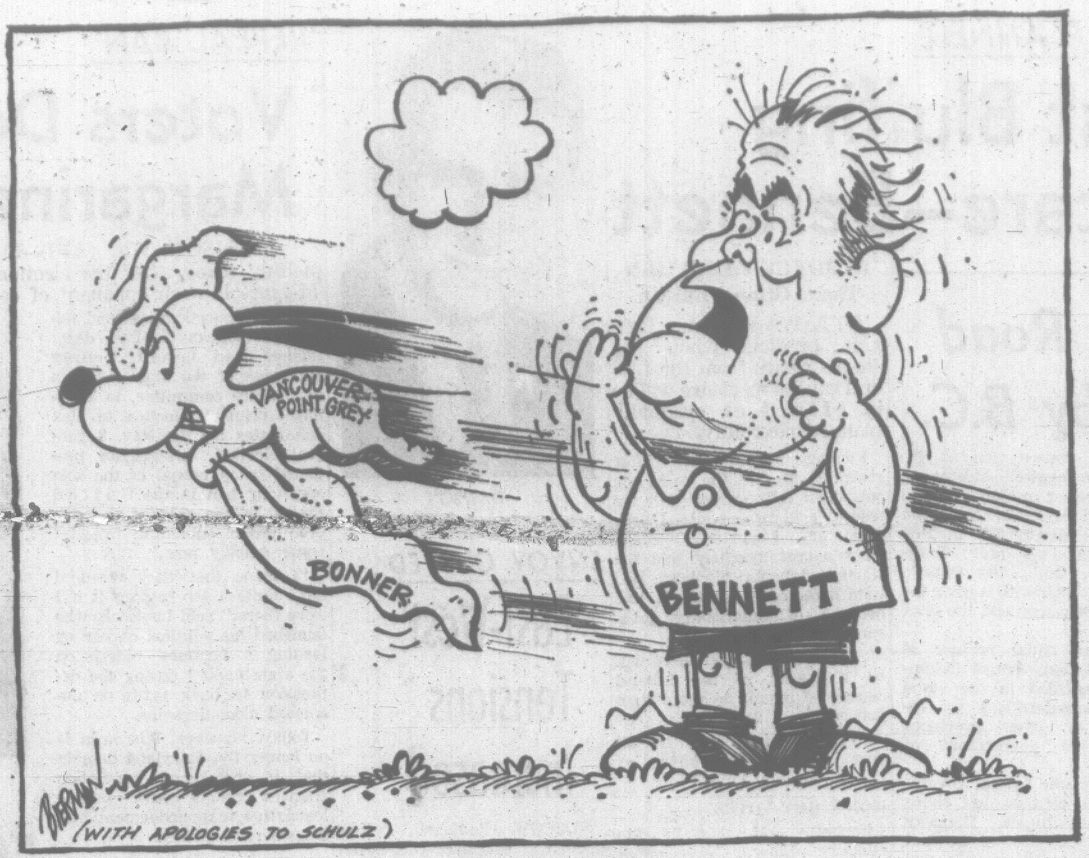
Involved is a possible Municipal Act amendment which would empower councils throughout British Columbia, after a favorable referendum, to permit fees to be charged for sporting events and other entertainments on Sunday afternoons.

Should the Union of British Columbia Municipalities approve the suggestion, the approval would eventually go in the form of a UBCM recommendation to the provincial government, perhaps in time for legislation in 1968. The procedure, as Saanich understands it, would be a general canvass of individuals and organizations over a period of perhaps a year to determine public opinion for or against Sunday sport and entertainment admission charges.

Only if a favorable public consensus was apparent would action advance to the stage of new legislation. A year should provide adequate opportunity for those who desire or reject Sunday sport and entertainment to present their views.

But, under the plan as it has been prepared in this instance, the eventual jury would be the public at large.

At present Vancouver, through its special charter, has the legislation which might be incorporated, with suitable adaptations including a local option clause, into the Municipal Act. The other organized parts [illegible] are being offered a chance to decide, without hurry, if they want similar privileges.



"MY BLANKET!"

FROM CALGARY

By JAMES H. GRAY

The Farmer and the Freight Rates

AS Parliament moves from the immediacy of the railway strike to the consideration of the proposal to take the curbs off the freedom of railways to raise freight rates, the rest of the country better get its ear plugs ready. It is due for another verbal assault from the prairies on an issue on which we think with our blood—freight rates.

Gray

The rest of Canada can treat freight rates with casual indifference. Not the people or the governments of the prairies. Alberta, for example, maintains J. J. Frawley, QC, the greatest extant authority of freight rates, in Ottawa just to keep his expert eye on the railways.

Nothing has been investigated oftener in Canada than freight rates and until now most of the efforts to unhobble the railways have foundered on prairie intransigence. So before all the shouting starts and the insults begin to fly, here is what the clamor will be all about.

Caught Both Ways

In a sentence, the prairie people claim that they have to pay the freight for everything they buy and the freight comes out of their income for everything they sell. The farmers in particular become especially vehement about freight rates and when Parliament gets down to business it will be farm consituency members who will be most irate.

The trouble arises from the basing point system both of freight rates and selling prices. The latter is perhaps most important to the west. As a general thing the prices of livestock sold in Calgary are usually about $1.50 to $2.00 a hundredweight less than the prices which prevail in Winnipeg. Winnipeg prices are similarly lower than those in Toronto.

This works out to $12 to $15 a steer less for Alberta farmers than for Manitoba farmers, and $12 to $15 a steer less for Manitoba farmers than for Ontario farmers. It doesn't matter to the stockmen that the railways are not getting rich on what they get for moving cattle. It matters a great deal that they are indisputably paying the cost of getting their production to market.

So what's wrong with that?

Process Reversed

When it comes to westward movement, the system goes into reverse. Then the price of whatever is sold is exclusive of freight. The farm machinery people quote their prices f.o.b. their plants. What it costs to move a combine, truck or car from Weston, Windsor or Hamilton to Buccleugh, Sask., is added to the price. Or if the product happens to be ladies' girdles instead of binder twine, the same facts apply.

Freight is deducted from the selling going east and is added to the cost price coming west.

It can be argued, with some validity, that the problem may be partly one of semantics. For example the end result might be the same if the Toronto meat packers offered a flat price for beef on the cars in Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and Winnipeg and paid the freight charges themselves. Similarly, the price of tractors might be standardized for all Canada to convince the customers that the manufacturer was absorbing the freight charges.

This arithmetic might not fool the prairie farmers for long, but it would disguise the fact that they were paying freight both ways. The trouble today is the freight fact is dinned into them all the time.

Wheat prices are always quoted "in store Fort William or Vancouver." The figure may look pleasantly plump, but it shrinks immediately when the farmer reminds himself he has to deduct 20 odd cents a bushel for freight. If he could just be allowed to forget that for a while, his reaction to railway freight rates might not be as belligerent.

Higher on Prairies

One other factor bugs westerners, and the presentations to Royal Commissions are full of tables to emphasize this point: ton rates per mile are much higher on the prairies than in the east.

Easterners have water and highway transportation to compete with the railways and keep their charges down. On the prairies, there is no competition. This, we argue, militates against prairie industry and adds to the cost of living.

Unhappily for the prairie critics who rely on this argument, it can be turned against them quite effectively. The long freight haul into the west has resulted in the establishment of a lot of secondary industry on the prairies. Some of the examples that come to mind are steel making facilities in Regina, pipe mills in Alberta and Saskatchewan, fertilizer plants in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the huge garment industry in Manitoba.

Invisible Tariff

It may well be that the long freight haul has created a sort of invisible tariff barrier around the prairie and saddled it with a growing but high-cost industrial development. Nevertheless, the industrialization that has taken place has taken some of the spotlight off freight rates on industrial production.

But that is not true of farm production. There passions are as white-fired as ever, as the rest of the country will be told, ad infinitum, for as long as the transport bill is before Parilament.

FROM WASHINGTON

By RICHARD PURSER

When Santo Domingo Runs the Show

THE inter-American peace force that has been guarding the Dominican Republic against a relapse into chaos is due to depart by Sept. 28. If it leaves on schedule, the world will will learn the extent of domestic dangers facing the freely elected regime of President Joaquin Balaguer, and from what direction those dangers come.

Purser

There is possible danger from the right — from the clique of officers in the country's inflated military who profited under the long Trujillo tyranny and who view social reform as a threat to their status. And there is possible danger from the left — from the scattered possessors of the many weapons stolen and distributed during the revolution of April, 1965, if the country's handful of dedicated Communists can establish leadership over them.

It was the U.S. government's conviction that Santo Domingo's revolutionary street mobs were falling under Communist control which prompted the controversial U.S. armed intervention last year. But whether there was sufficient justification for Washington's conviction, is a question unlikely ever to be settled to the satisfaction of all.

"Ammunition for the pro-interventionalists has recently come from an academic, and therefore presumably respectable source. It is contained in a special report from the Center for Strategic Studies at Washington's Georgetown University. The report concludes of the events of April last year that "a coup had been planned for a later date, but was precipitated by a series of unforseen events. Communists were linked with the earlier planning. Although suprised by the timing of the rebellion they quickly assumed a leading role in the disorders that broke out. Progress in the Communist effort to dominate the revolt became increasingly evident."

Claim Objective Attained

Based on this, the report further concludes that the U.S. attained its objectives, which included "the prevention of a Communist seizure of power" and "the opening of an option to the Dominican people to choose their leaders in a free election."

As for the latter objective, the report neglects to stress that the Dominican people had already exercised their option of choosing their leaders in a free election. They elected Juan Bosch as president in 1962. He was inaugurated early in 1963 and was ejected by a military coup seven months later.

Last year's revolution was for the restoration of the legal president. In preventing this from happening and in arranging a new election (in which Mr. Balaguer defeated Mr. Bosch), the United States was in effect formalizing the nullification of a legitimate election.

Mr. Balaguer was elected freely. He is respected and may turn out to be a far better president than was Mr. Bosch. But, and it is almost impossible to find any appreciation of this in official Washington, Mr. Balaguer's qualities are not the point. The point is that the election in which he was victor had no business taking place until after his illegally ousted predecessor had been restored to fill out the term for which he was originally elected. In other words, the U.S. preserved Mr. Bosch's ouster as a fait accompli.

Thin in Detail

On the Communist issue, the report stresses Communist self-insinuation into the pro-Bosch force and the increasing predominance of Communist agitators in crowd leadership as the revolt continued. It is thin on detailed evidence of this, relying largely on opinions and on classified information. But it is at least a counter to the anti-interventionists, whose denials of a major Communist role in the revolt are also difficult to back up solidly.

But Americans on both sides of the controversy neglect another point that appears obvious to non-Americans: that the Communist threat in the Dominican Republic, if any, was purely domestic. The Georgetown University report prints information on all 77 of the Communists said by U.S. intelligence to have been involved in the 1965 revolt. Virtually all of them turn out to be Dominican citizens. Similarly, U.S. pro-interventionist writers have frequently cited an article by two Dominican Communists in last December's issue of World Marxist Review as justification for U.S. action, although the article says that "our party found itself unprepared for uprising and was unable to head it."

Dominican Communists

In any event, the two Communists were Dominicans. They were not Cuban, Russian, Czech or Chinese — neither were the others, who in the two writers' words tried to take "a firm and resolute part" in the revolt they could not lead. Whatever the domestic situation in the Dominican Republic, it was domestic and did not involve foreign Communist aggression of any kind. If the U.S. is henceforth dedicated to prevent forcibly Communist threats of internal as well as external origin, one might hope this policy would be brought into the open and debated more than it has been to date.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"HEY, LET ME HELP YA!"

Looking Back

From the Times of Sept. 15, 1906:

Victoria's welcome to Their Excellencies the Governor-General Earl Grey and his lady yesterday afternoon did credit to the city. It was not a reception of the formal kind, but hearty in all respects. The vice-regal party arrived in the yacht Quadra and were met by a contingent of local militia and the collegiate cadet corps. Earl Grey delivered an address at the Parliament Buildings and was taken by carriage to various parts of the city. The Governor-General, with his arrival here has now traversed Canada coast-to-coast.

Planning

Toronto Daily Star

ONTARIO municipalities today cannot keep up with the demand for services.

One day it's a new school, the next a hospital, then a water main for a new factory on the outskirts of town, or a new road through a housing sub-division.

Where to build them? How to pay for them?

Municipal Affairs Minister J. W. Spooner, addressing the annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Association, has once more shaken a finger at the municipalities, blaming their development problems on lack of planning.

But lecturing the munciipalities is a poor excuse for action. Mr. Spooner should be much more aggressive in leading the way . . .

Instead of waiting for the municipalities to come forward with their own plans, Mr. Spooner should offer some direction. Those areas in southwestern Ontario, where town is meeting country in a clash of land-use priorities, should be tackled first.

We have had enough lectures on the virtues of planning. Mr. Spooner should now take the municipal malingerers by the scruff of the neck and push them into the modern age of planning.

'Get to Bed'

Ottawa Journal

WHO would have thought that early to bed and early to rise could make Jack a dull boy?

Dr. Hugh Jolly, superintendent of the children's department at London's Charing Cross Hospital, doesn't go quite so far but says parents can stop worrying if children won't go to bed early, or do so only after a struggle.

"To parents who complain that their child won't go to sleep and only wants to play, one must explain that a child learns by play and that this is the young child's equivalent of school." He adds that the child who wants to play after dark is usually a bright child. "He's really giving himself the advantage of extra hours of schooling."

Parents whose children dutifully head off to bed at the mere suggestion of the idea needn't fear they are raising a brood of dullards, however. Chances are these children have packed more playing into a shorter period and are weary enough to sleep.

As for the larger varieties of children, there's something about the sight of a gangling body propped up on a chesterfield, fortified with soda pop and potato chips, eyes glued to the late movie, that leads a parent to doubt that the learning process is at work. School days, fortunately, help ease those staying-up problems — or should.

Besides, important as a child's development is, the parent's mind must also be nourished. There's nothing like a bit of evening peace and quiet to keep a grown-up bright and cheerful the next day.

To the Editor

For the Unthinking

The Bennett S.C. Government is undoubtedly popular among unthinking people in B.C. For our Finance Minister has borrowed right, left and centre and particularly from America. He spends lavishly these huge sums on enormously costly projects in the hydro electric field and elsewhere which are distinctly problematic in results. Projecting the present boom into the future may easily prove disastrous wages and prices are at an all time high and still soaring. Columbia, Peace River and the Museum costs are far exceeding estimates. Is it to be boom and bust?

The Premier is quite frank. He wants the opposition parties wiped out. Yet sensible electors know that good government needs capable and wise men in opposition as well as on the government benches. —DISENCHANTED.

Malcolm Muggeridge As 'Intellectual Shiv'

By LAURENCE STERN

Mr. Stern, national editor of the Washington Post, reviews "The Most of Muggeridge" (Simon and Schuster).

In the vast mid-cult audience of Esquire readers and late-night television addicts, Malcolm Muggeridge has earned a reputation as an intellectual shiv — the thinking man's Groucho. He has brought the stiletto from salon into the family room.

I can recall a television program several years ago when guest-panelist Muggeridge pulled a pair of jockey shorts over his head and leered at the studio audience with a smile of saturnine smugness. The underwear (a lot must have been sold that night) over the heavily ridged pate and the sharply peaked Muggeridge mandible gave him the look of a formidable insect on the verge of a pounce and a bite.

His Specialties

Both the pounce and the bite are, as a matter of fact, the specialites of Muggeridge's art. Chomp! Down goes the Royal Family. Crunch! There topples Sir Winston onto the democratic pyre of Muggeridge's victims. Munch! Down go Lawrence (both D. H. and of Arabia) as well as FDR, JFK, Lord Snow, Lady Chatterley and Fanny Hill.

The carnage is almost unrelieved through page after page of this journalistic auto-da-fe. The trouble is that it's always an overmatch, as though Groucho Marx were taking on Snow White in a no-holds-barred 15-rounder. And, in fact, by halfway point, the act begins to stale. Muggeridge turns into a rather sad old vaudevillian with a limited routine of leer, gag and swat. He begins to telegraph the action.

"The Most of Malcolm Muggeridge" is a collection of pieces written during the past 10 years — the trophy case of an aging "enfant terrible." There are perversely interesting flashes. The prose is supple and crackling. It is a talent that might be considered precocious, if its bearer were not already well into his sixties. Muggeridge still slings the meanest spitball in his form.

The Muggeridge pounce is most devastating when he strikes at his victim in dotage:

"He was like a poor old performing dog at a circus wearing its little faded skirt, and still able to get on its hind legs — just. Then looking around in the apologetic, melancholy way old animlas do . . ." (after a meeting with the then elderly Max Beerbohm).

"The inevitable cigar, jutting out of his mouth, gave the impression of having been put there by someone else, as children stick an old pipe into a snowman. His face was glazed and vacant . . ." (Churchill during the last days on the Riviera.)

When he strikes beneath the belt, in the manner of the crab louse:

"There would seem to be little doubt that Lawrence was impotent, or suffered under some physical disability which gave him a ludricously excessive sense of the importance of a sexual fulfillment he was constitutionally incapable of ever experiencing." (D. H. Lawrence.)

Sexuality Rages

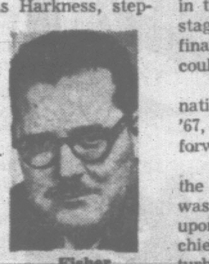
In Muggeridge's world, on the other hand, sexuality rages volcanically in British peers and cabinet ministers, the better to pounce on them for, since passion is respectability's undoing.

For all the cadavers that strew the landscape, there are a few crumpled valentines. Muggeridge enshrines, in the tiny pantheon of his esteem, Gandhi, Stalin and De Gaulle as outstanding 20th century figures. (Churchill he has always found "a slightly ridiculous figure" and he deplores the "appalling banality" of FDR's mind. Lenin is "unreadable.")

Muggeridge also pays homage to P. G. Wodehouse and Dwight MacDonald. The taste is not unrelievedly bad. But with Muggeridge it is not so much a question of taste as his humanity, which seems to lie stifled in his typewriter.

It Wasn't in the Cards For MacEachen to Resign

By DOUGLAS FISHER



Fisher

Cabinet ministers in Canada rarely resign of their own volition, especially on an issue of policy. The case of Douglas Harkness, stepping out over disagreements with John Diefenbaker's defence policy, was an exception.

Such resignations are not in our tradition, perhaps because the assumption among our politicians has been that it is such a disloyal or unfair act toward the party. Thus I couldn't take seriously the stories that Allan MacEachen would resign over the delay of medicare.

One could argue, perhaps, that Mr. MacEachen would boost his own career if he did resign. Since his intention seems to be to run for the Liberal leadership, an exit from the ministry now would let him go to the Liberal convention next month as the leader of the radicals or the leftists in the party.

But his nature is extremely cautious. He recognizes in himself an inability to be bold in the open because he has the habit of convoluted mind which always weighs and turns all the possible alternatives. Once after a television interview I had with him he rapped the table in frustration and asked himself the rhetorical question: "Why am I always so darned careful?"

* * *

Several weeks ago Mr. MacEachen gave a speech to a forum of young Liberals in British Columbia that is relevant to his present situation. He reviewed the history of medicare and hospitalization proposals since first they were put in the Liberal platform in 1919.

It was a careful, reasoned explanation of the delays and frustrations. The specific purpose was to rebut New Democrats who have been hollering since the days of Woodsworth that the Liberals should live up to their promises.

He referred to the 1919 health planks this way: "In fact it was a blueprint for the party in the next half-century, to be put into effect stage by stage as the nation's economy could finance it and as acceptable arrangements could be worked out with the provinces."

Thus, before Mr. Sharp's dictum that the nation's finances could not bear medicare in '67, Mr. MacEachen had put such an argument forward for previous delays.

In truth Mr. MacEachen is very angry over the resignation rumor. He knows its source was not himself or his entourage. He looks upon the suggestion as provocatively mischievous. Indeed, I believe that the rumor disturbs him more than the postponement.

Such a reaction turns one to the paradox of Mr. MacEachen as a contender for the party leadership. He acknowledges that Nova Scotia is an inadequate base for a leadership aspirant. He knows his own lack of verve and panache on television or on the hustings, yet he is ready to make the run.

* * *

One must acknowledge that Mr. MacEachen has been far more industrious in the past four months than any other candidate to succeed Mr. Pearson. He's been churning out speeches, papers and articles, most of them dealing with policy issues.

I draw a double-barrelled conclusion from all this activity. He wants to do certain things if he becomes prime minister, not just fill the office. And he has real doubts about what the other possible leaders want to do or, better, what they seem ready not to do.

Whatever their shortcomings, Mr. MacEachen and Walter Gordon are really the only senior Liberals who seem to have definable intentions. The delay on medicare may seem a harsh setback to both but it does leave them with another major item to fight for.

And if Messrs. Sharp and Winters and the rest of the right-wingers in the Cabinet seem to have won this battle the war is not yet over.

'Mutual Aid Societies' Are Common in Nature

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

Dr. Carl

While we like to think that mutual aid arrangements are relatively recent products of civilization we are now discovering that such systems have been in practice in nature for a very long time. Some of these intimate reciprocal relationships in the animal kingdom have actually been known for many years but others have only just been discovered.

In our area a number of examples of mutual benefit associations are known and others are perhaps not yet recognized because close study is necessary to appreciate their true significance. A common case on the mud flats, though not usually seen above low tide, is provided by a species of hermit crab and a special kind of sponge. Apparently the crab starts off life in the usual way by occupying an abandoned snail shell as a protable shelter as do most of its relatives. But soon a sponge settles upon the shell and grows until it covers the shell entirely. Eventually the sponge dissolves away the mollusc shell so that the hermit crab ends up by living within a sponge moulded to fit the curves of its body. Both animals benefit by this arrangement; the crab enjoys protection afforded by the sponge while the sponge in turn profits by the transportation provided by the crab.

This relationship between two very different types of animals is one of such long standing that the two species concerned can no longer live apart; the crab and the sponge are apparently never found living sepafate lives.

Another intimate association of advantage to both parties is found in the pecten or scallop, a common inhabitant of our waters below low tide levels. This mollusc always has a special kind of encrusting sponge growing on the shell, not on both valves as one might expect but on the shell which is usually uppermost. Evidently the sponge provides a protective cover which also acts as a camouflage to the pecten and in return it receives transportation because its host is one of the few bivalves that actively swims. By vigorously snapping its valves together the pecten jets itself either backward or forward at will in a flapping flight that can carry it to fresh feeding grounds or away from a predator.

As in the case of the sponge and the hermit crab, the question as to how the one finds the other is a bothersome one. Perhaps the young swimming stage of the sponge is so delicately responsive to odor that it can distinguish crab or pecten, as the case may be, from all other types of organisms and so always is able to pick the correct partner. In any case one never finds either of these sponges growing on the wrong animal.

* * *

Another rather remarkable association with advantages to both partners is found in the common green sea anemone regularly seen on the exposed rocky coast of Vancouver Island and elsewhere along the Pacific seaboard. This sedentary creature is conspicuously colored because it harbors within its tissues great numbers of simple green alga. The plant cells thrive on the waste products of the animal, mostly carbon dioxide, and in turn they give off oxygen as a by-product of their own food-making processes. Thus, a reciprocal arrangement exists whereby each partner uses the other's waste products.

The anemone, however, is not limited to the oxygen produced by the alga for it can extract this necessary substance direct from the water as well.

However these highly specialized associations came about they must be the result of "experiments" carried on by nature over a very long period of time. But the sea is almost timeless and its inhabitants have had plenty of opportunity to try out infinite combinations. Only the successful ones persist.

SOUTH AFRICA-- Embattled Nation

White rule in South Africa, a burning issue to black Africans, moves to center stage at the United Nations, on the heels of the assassination of Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd. The death of "apartheid" is the goal.

AP Newsfeatures

Black Africa Impatient For Start of UN Session

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — African diplomats at the United Nations shed no crocodile tears over the assassination on Sept. 6 of South African Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd. They pressed ahead with their campaign to make African issues a dominant feature of the UN General Assembly opening Sept. 20.

To African diplomats, Verwoerd was the mastermind of apartheid, the policy of racial segregation that has been an issue in the United Nations ever since its birth.

South Africa, enormously rich by reason of vast deposits of gold, diamonds and other minerals, is a nation where 3 million whites exercise total rule. The 13 million non-whites are looked after by the whites but have virtually no rights of any kind. The murder of Verwoerd is not expected to shake South Africa in its apartheid policy.

African leaders are bitter not only over apartheid in South Africa but its extension to South West Africa, the 318,000 square mile territory it rules under a League of Nations mandate.

Moreover, they regard South Africa as the main bulwark of the white minority regime in Rhodesia, which the Africans vow must not become another perpetuation of white supremacy on the continent.

●

There have been rumblings from South Africa that it may quit the United Nations if the General Assembly persists in its attacks upon South Africa's policies. Verwoerd did not permit this to happen, but with his successor it may be a different situation.

African resentment reached new heights when the International Court of Justice ruled on July 18 that Ethiopia and Liberia had no legal right to claim that South Africa violated its mandate by introducing apartheid in South West Africa.

African leaders denounced the court decision as a betrayal of the territory's population of a half million blacks and an abdication of the court's responsibilities.

At the United Nations the 34-nation African bloc demanded that the Assembly give priority to the South West Africa issue. They sought immediate full-scale debate on their demands that the Assembly take steps to end the mandate and put the territory on the road to independence.

South Africa has turned a deaf ear to continued UN demands that South West Africa, once under German rule, be made a UN trust territory. There is no indication that they will pay any attention to new assembly demands. The big question is whether the UN Security Council would authorize use of force to end the mandate. Most UN diplomats agree this is unlikely.

Apartheid has been an issue in the United Nations ever since the organization's birth in 1946. The reply from South Africa has been the same — that its racial policies are an internal matter of no business to the outside world.

But with the emergence of the newly independent nations of Africa the campaign against apartheid has been waged with ever greater ferocity in the United Nations. This fall the emphasis will be on pressure against South Africa's big trading partners, among them the United States, to cut down trade and thus deal that country an economic blow. South Africa's economy has been booming, and the response from the trading countries to such pressure will not be very great.

The Africans are also keeping an eye on Basutoland and Bechuanaland, which are about to gain their independence from Britain, and Swaziland. The General Assembly is already on record with a resolution warning South Africa that any attempt to annex these territories would be regarded as an act of aggression in violation of the UN charter.

WHAT HAVE YOU DONE TO INCREASE GNP?

By WOLF VON ECKARDT

WASHINGTON — "People, citizenry, masses, dwellers, resident, voters, consumers. . . ."

The words, accompanied by the cacophonous noises of the urban jungle, flashed on a screen in a hotel here this week to open a two-day meeting on the urban cirsis.

"Cities, megalopolis, metropolis, urban districts, boroughs, towns, slums, ghettoes, societies. . . ." said the words beat out in tune with the taped sound effects.

"Conferences, convocations, council, symposium, conventions, meeting, debate, examination. . . ."

Will yet another parley yield us the answers on how to improve the quality of cities?

He thought not, said John Kenneth Galbraith when the noise stopped, the screen went dark and the spotlight fell on this noted Harvard economist and former ambassador to India.

An Escape

"Discussion without conclusions is an escape from the real issues," Galbraith told the 800 experts at the Urban American conference. His conclusion about the cause of the urban crisis is "that we have made the increased output of goods the prime and in some measure the exclusive goal of domestic policy. . . ."

In the belief of people of all shades of political opinion Galbraith said, "St. Peter has been asking new arrivals only what they have done to increase the gross national product."

There are many problems economic growth alone does not solve, the economist said — to wit, public services, "which make progress a civilized experience," the problems of the disadvantaged and the problems of environment.

As he has before, Galbraith urged consideration "of the one prompt and effective solution for poverty which is to provide everyone with a minimum income."

$80 Billions

"It would cost about $20 billion dollars (in the U.S.) to bring everyone up to what the department of health education and welfare considers a reasonable minimum," he said. "This is a third less than the amount by which personal income rose last year" and not much more than what we will spend next fiscal year on the war in Viet Nam.

Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York, who spoke at lunch, thought Galbraith's "reverse income tax" a "sensible idea."

"But there is no single solution to the burden placed upon our cities by the poor, the disadvantaged or the deprived," Lindsay said in his speech. "If the answer can be stated in a single word, that word is money . . . vast amounts of government funds."

Lindsay said he would not want the United States described by future historians "as a society that stood amidst the filth, the oppression and the violence of the slums . . . and shot rockets at the moon."

THE GALLUP POLL

Canadian Public Split On Lowering Voting Age

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

The Canadian public is pretty evenly divided on the question of whether or not the voting age should be lowered to 18 years in federal elections. Forty-eight percent of the electorate would approve; 43 percent disapprove.

Among those who approve giving teen-agers the vote, one recurring theme was heard right across Canada—"If a person is old enough to go into the army, to fight for his country, he is old enough to vote."

Next important reason for changing the voting age—"Young people are more level headed, better educated, more mature than a generation ago."

It was also said that young people should be encouraged to vote, encouraged to take responsibility and to bring young ideas to politics.

The principal argument against lowering the voting age concerns maturity of judgment.

"Too young, immature . . . too easily swayed . . . inexperienced, irresponsible and uninformed."

Empress Stories Wanted

Wanted — stories about the Empress Hotel.

The Empress has commissioned Victoria author Godfrey Holloway to write a book entitled The Empress of Victoria.

Mr. Holloway has set up an office next to the hotel conservatory and will be glad to hear from anyone who can contribute anecdotes or background information for his book.

"We are publishing this book in response to the general demand for historical data on the Empress," manager Leslie Parkinson said today.

"We've had inquiries from people all over Canada and the United States and it seems a history is long overdue.

"We hope to have 10,000 copies printed by Christmas."

Mr. Holloway is editor of the Empress house magazine Profile, which is widely circulated among hotel guests. He has written a number of articles on the Canadian Pacific Railway and Canadian Pacific Airlines.

His book will be illustrated with pictures of the Empress, past and present.

Close Check On All Meals Promised

Only one Victoria restaurant entered a bid to provide meals for city jail prisoners for the next 12 months.

The Loyal cafe was the lone tenderer offering to provide jail meals for: breakfast 55 cents, lunch 65 cents and dinner 75 cents.

"We shall keep a close check on the meals to see that they vary and provide a balanced diet," said Police Chief J. F. Gregory.

Police commission members expressed some concern over the lone bid and the low price.

They urged the chief to keep a close check on the quality of the meals served.

Other business discussed by the commission included the approval of six promotions.

Const. E. G. Bennett becomes a sergeant on Oct. 1.

Const. R. W. Coste moves up to constable first class, Const. K. D. Dibden to constable second class, Constables D. G. Sleivert and J. Leukefeld to constables third class and Const. T. A. Assaly to probationer two.

Two constables, James Ramsay, a 10-year man, and Ronald E. Holder, resigened from the force during the past month.

Const. Ramsey is taking another position with a private company, Const. Holder resigned for personal reasons.

The commission also approved the purchase of a new paddy wagon and a new police car.

The new car will replace the patrol car wrecked in an accident at Bay and Government.

MONTREAL lawyer and known successful mediator, H. Carl Goldenberg is expected to meet railway union officials this week in an attempt to settle the contract dispute between the two national railways and their non-operating employees.

CARPENTER REPORT FRIDAY

VANCOUVER (CP)—Industrial inquiry commissioner W. E. Philpott Wednesday ended mediation talks in the carpenters' disputes and expects to have a report ready by Friday.

He said he plans no further meetings with either the contractors or the carpenters, although he made it clear he is available if either side wants to see him.

"I hope to have the report completed by the end of this week," he said. He made no comment on a union complaint about delay in submission of the report, which had been expected last Monday.

The union has said it will accept nothing less than a reduction to a 37½-hour week, and the present contract embodies a 40-hour week.

HOME GARDEN

Choose a Sunny Day Then Dig, Dig, Dig

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

Potatoes are fun for the home gardener to dig. There is an element of excitement in discovering fine healthy tubers hidden in the soil.

Early childhood memories of potato digging in the home garden are often cherished throughout one's life, lending to this daily vegetable an interest not understood by the family which has always been big city, or apartment, dwellers.

Now that the tops of the potato plants are almost all yellowed, it is quite safe to lift all the tubers.

During the summer, a few have no doubt been purloined by burrowing with the hands carefully not disturbing the roots, as one takes eggs from beneath a pet sitting hen, but now comes the excitement of the whole crop.

Choose a sunny, or at least a dry day, with a light breeze circulating to dry the surface skin of the tubers rapidly.

A digging fork is probably the best tool to use, for a shovel too often cuts through some of the choicest tubers.

Find the remains of the leaf stems, and start digging well away, about a foot from the estimated centre of the hill.

Care in the actual digging and in the handling of the tubers results in less damage, and consequently better keeping quality.

Even with a small quantity of potatoes, this is worth considering, for tubers with broken skins lose some of their excellent flavor.

Allowing the children to throw them around will cause nicks and scratches, bruises and cracks, and cancels out the pride of producing potatoes which are better than just average.

Hit, Run Driver Loses Licence

Glenn Davis, 2224 Richmond, was fined $140 Wednesday in traffic court on charges of leaving the scene of an accident and careless driving.

His licence was also suspended for three months.

Robert Hamilton, 1340 Finlayson, was fined $100 for driving while his licence was suspended.

Fined for careless driving were:

Evelyn Jancowski, 3000 Cedar Hill Road, $50 and one month suspension; William Bernard, 3136 Jackson, $40; Ian Chard, 3774 Hobbs, $40; Garry Dunaway, 544 Sumas, $40; Arthur Proudfoot, 2829 Knotty Pine, $35; Charles Salter, Nanaimo, $35; Earl Exton, 1106 Balmoral, $35.

'Production First Then Revolution'

By EUGENE LEVIN

TOKYO (AP)—China's leaders today told the Red Guards to end their revolutionary drive which has brought turmoil to the country and criticism from abroad.

The instructions, in an editorial in the official Peking People's Daily, reflected concern that the Red Guard activities might be disrupting agricultural and industrial production.

The editorial warned that "under no circumstances must production be allowed to slow down. During the busy fall harvesting season, you may cease your revolutionary activities."

Whether the Red Guards will be allowed to resume their activities after the harvest is not certain.

After the Red Guards first erupted in August, they were given repeated official warnings to move with caution and without force. Despite these warnings there continued to be reports of clashes between Red Guards and groups of workers and farmers.

The editorial said there was no need for the Red Guards to try to "instill their revolutionary zeal in factories" or to bother farmers. It added that workers and farmers "are magnificently carrying out revolutionary activities of their own."

The New China news agency reported peasants were "working with revolutionary determination to fight against drought and other natural troubles that have occurred in some areas."

The Red Guards emerged about Aug. 18 in Peking. By the thousands they swept through the city changing names of streets, shops, theatres and restaurants they considered revisionist, capitalist or imperialist in title.

The movement swept to other cities. There were reports of clashes involving tens of thousands, with some fatalities.

Britain spent a record £1,485,000,000 on education in 1965, three times as much as in 1955.

Watch the birdie! Each year a growing army of golfers tone up desk-bound muscles by challenging par on B.C.'s famous fairways – and Sahara sand traps. Whether you shoot low seventies or high hundreds, there's a new challenge in every shot and every round – and sometimes sweet success.

Labor Becoming More Explosive

By KEN CLARK

OTTAWA (CP)—The International Labor Organization is helping to cope with a potentially explosive situation in Latin America, David Morse, ILO director-general, said Wednesday.

"The forces under all these societies are getting more and more explosive," he told an interviewer. "Something will have to be done about it."

He said the ILO is right in the middle of efforts to solve Latin American problems.

The U.S.-born official talked to reporters on the third day of a conference of 25 North and South American member countries of the ILO. The regional conference is talking over ways to solve manpower and social security problems.

Mr. Morse said his chief concern about Latin America is to "maximize our effort to assist in the process of economic growth."

TRAIN ADMINISTRATORS

ILO help includes the just-established centre in Lima, Peru, to train administrators.

With a long way still to go, the real problem in Latin America is whether coming changes will be peaceful or otherwise, he said. The ILO aim is to make the changes peaceful.

"If these countries attack their problems energetically, this peaceful transition will take place."

The trend, at least, in Latin America "is in the right direction."

As changes occur, political leaders are being forced to change too, he said. When a country starts to change for the better, the leaders will get into trouble if they don't introduce reforms.

Some of the Latin American ferment and aspirations have sprung to the surface in the words of delegates.

'MUST SERVE MAN'

Alvaro Ramirez Pinillia, a workers' delegate on the Colombia delegation, told a manpower committee meeting "the economy must serve man, man must not be a servant to the economy."

In some countries, he said, the workers still lack the right to organize into unions. The workers are nothing but cogs in the economy, servants of the civilian and military regimes.

400 Attend Church Birthday

More than 400 members and friends attended a public meeting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Tuesday night celebrating the church's 100th anniversary.

Greetings were received from Premier Bennett, Mayor A. W. Toone of Victoria and local church organizations.

A talk on the history of the church was given by provincial archivist Willard E. Ireland.

DECEMBER FORECAST

Parks Football In Vote Game

DUNCAN — Recreation will be a major issue in December municipal elections, Duncan Chamber of Commerce director Will Dobson forecast Wednesday.

He said city and municipal councils must come to grips with the pressing need for playing fields.

Mr. Dobson, also chairman of Cowichan School Board, said it is under constant pressure for the use of its playing field facilities.

He said: "It's strange in this day and age but our school district does not have one first class playing field.

"The school board and councils are faced with considerable expenditure in providing recreational facilities."

Mr. Dobson said: "Youngsters must be taken care of and providing playing fields is cheaper than operating Brannen Lake School (the Island penal institution for young offenders)."

Director Dick Benzies said service club funds are being wasted when facilities are handed over to local authorities for maintenance.

He alleged: "Members of the recreation commission are beating their heads against a cement wall.

"They are just being used as whipping boys. All we hear is the old bugaboo about the city and municipality won't get together.

"We have to get them both to mature in their thinking."

Mel Massey, a chamber director and member of the city recreation commission, agreed recreation is being made an election issue.

He said: "The bickering and back biting won't change till the public attitude changes.

"The public must make up its mind if it wants to spend the money providing proper facilities."

ISLAND DIGEST

INDIANS JOIN CHAMBER IN DUNCAN

DUNCAN—Cowichan Indian band has accepted an invitation to join Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

The band was represented at Wednesday's chamber meeting by Louise Underwood, fulltime secretary-treasurer.

Miss Underwood is the first woman and the first Indian to be a member of Duncan chamber directorate.

Besides serving as a director, Miss Underwood will act as a liaison between the band and chamber.

AUCTION CLOSURE WARNED

DUNCAN — The city's only auction market may not be allowed to do business Saturday.

Council Wednesday issued an ultimatum — make the building safe or be served notice.

The wooden overhang premises on Canada Avenue are the home of Tommy Boyles' Auction Mart.

He rents the premises from Ren-Fro Contractors Ltd.

Ald. Hamish Mutter said: "I'm afraid of an accident there and if the building is unsafe it should be locked up.

"We have a definite responsibility toward the public which gathers there each Saturday to do business."

A spokesman for Ren-Fro Construction said today Mr. Boyles is responsible for maintaining the building.

Mr. Boyles was not available for comment.

Ald. James Saunders told council he is satisfied the banks of the Cowichan River are well able to resist any flood threat this year.

He was reporting on flood control work along the stretch of river which had flooded in past years.

Ald. Saunders said: "The banks have been built up by a bulldozer and the river now follows a straight line through city property."

TIMBER WEEK 'STALE' DROPPED FOR YEAR

KEEBLE
. . . maybe next year

DUNCAN — Cowichan district's National Forest Products Week committee is not planning any celebrations this year.

At a Wednesday meeting of Duncan Chamber of Commerce, president Sam Keeble, said: "The whole concept of National Forest Products Week has gone stale.

"They are looking for something new."

Mr. Keeble said the "week" should not be dropped forever but should be reviewed for next year and could possibly be incorporated with the revived logging sports."

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Plucky Pilot Survives Crash

TOFINO — Pilot Milton Wood escaped with a broken ankle Wednesday when he crash-landed a single-engine airplane on nearby Catface mountain.

The Island Airlines Beaver aircraft was heading back to company headquarters at Campbell River when the weather closed in and it was forced down.

A groudn party of RCMP and loggers brought out the injured pilot when weather prevented an Air-Sea Rescue helicopter from landing at the scene.

The wings and a pontoon were torn from the plane in the crash but the fuselage was only slightly damaged.

The crash was reported by commercial fisherman Fred Thomas of Ahousat.

DISAPPEARED

He told RCMP later he saw the aircraft pass low overhead and he heard a crash after it disappeared.

He radioed the Tofino lifeboat station which alerted the Rescue Co-ordination Centre in Vancouver.

Air-Sea Rescue said visibility was down to 100 feet when the helicopter arrived.

The helicopter was able to drop RCMP within a half mile of the crash.

Five loggers from the Lowry Logging Co., who were working on the other side of the mountain and heard the crash, arrived at the scene to assist RCMP.

Wood was taken to Tofino General Hospital where he is in good condition.

NANAIMO — Vancouver Island residents of Croatian descent are holding a banquet and dance Sept. 27 in the auditorium of Mt. St. Peter's Church, Nanaimo.

The event is to celebrate the 35th anniversary of the lodge San Jelacio and to commemorate the first Croatian Lodge established in Ladysmith in 1903.

Guest speaker will be Ivan Krznario, of Schumacher, Ont., national Croatian president.

Other guests will include Roman Catholic Bishop of Victoria Remi J. de Roo and Nanaimo Mayor Pete Maffeo.

NORTH COWICHAN—Donough O'Brien, assistant treasurer of North Cowichan for the past 10 years, has been appointed treasurer of Campbell River.

He takes up duties Oct. 1.

Mr. O'Brien has had a varied career in banking, as a company accountant and as an agriculturist.

He started the Dairy Herd Improvement Association in the Cowichan district, and is a director of the Cowichan Agricultural Society.

He is a director of the Cowichan Golf Club.

NANAIMO—City council Tuesday turned down a plan to build an apartment block for nurses near the Nanaimo Regional General Hospital.

Rejection followed heated debate between the promoters and residents who say the apartments would direct more traffic down an already unpaved street.

A spokesman for the residents said many had purchased homes in the area on the understanding it would be restricted to single-family dwellings.

He said residents were concerned that such a project would devalue their property.

Seveal council members argued it would be the answer to a serious shortage of nurses'

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most prices on the Winnipeg grain exchange reflected an easier tone in Chicago today. Export interest was quiet in generally thin trading.

Some flax losses were partially offset by relatively steady linseed oil prices on the continent but rapeseed was down in response to lower Chicago soybean prices.

Oats and barley were traded lightly.

Rye was lower, reflecting Chicago prices.

Lakehead prices for IWA, Class two and domestic wheat were unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP) — The grain futures market steadied somewhat today after early declines ranging to about a cent. Trading was generally slow.

September soybeans came under severe pressure at times and lost more than 8 cents but dealers said transactions in that delivery were unrelated to influences elsewhere on the exchange.

Rates Boost Will Hit B.C. Business

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. business leaders and producers of raw materials said Tuesday the freight rate increases announced by the national railways will add substantially to the cost of doing business.

Canadian Pacific and Canadian National railways announced Monday they plan to raise freight rates 10 per cent to help offset rising costs, particularly the 18 per cent wage increase granted railway workers in parliament's back-to-work legislation Sept. 1.

A spokesman for Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. said the increase will affect pulp and paper and building materials shipped to markets elsewhere in Canada. It would also affect materials used in the company's own manufacturing plants.

Syd Welsh, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade said the increase, while it was to be expected, would add to a wide area of costs. He said B.C. is dependent on a variety of goods shipped here from eastern Canada.

COWICHAN COPPER PRESIDENT CRITICAL

'Won't Shut Down Mine'

The refusal of Aetna Investments Ltd., Toronto, to advance more money to keep the Jordan River copper mine in operation will be "an irresponsible and unwarranted act," says Cowichan Copper president Ossie McDonald.

Mr. McDonald made the statement this morning after being informed that Mark Tanz, Aetna president, had stated that the $100,000 advanced this week would be the last.

Aetna has now advanced $950,000 to get the mine into operation.

"We have an agreement whereby Aetna guaranteed to advance $1 million in return for a three-year contract to manage the mine," McDonald said. "I intend to hold them to that agreement. If they want to pull out then let them do so in a businesslike and orderly manner.

"This action is highly irresponsible and completely unwarranted."

Asked what he would do if Aetna made the refusal to pay the last $50,000 stick, McDonald said "raise the money elsewhere."

"They won't shut down the Jordan River operation without burying me first," he said.

"All I can think is that they must have had very poor management out there. After all we were making money from the mine when copper was 25 cents a pound. It's 50 cents a pound now and has been as high as 70 cents a pound. If they can't make a good profit at that price there must be something wrong."

Aetna has a contract to manage the mine until 1968.

In recent weeks Jack McIntosh, Aetna's official at Jordan River quit his job as mine supervisor and manager to be replaced by Hartley Graham another Aetna official.

"In spite of what Aetna says I claim we still have a good mine at Sunro," McDonald said. "We are better prepared than at any other time since before the flood."

The mine was knocked out of action when the Jordan River burst into the workings in 1963. Production recommenced in December, 1965.

SUMMARIES

Lornex Jumps 30c In Dull VSE Session

Lornex jumped 30 cents to $5.50 in pre-noon Vancouver Stock Exchange trading today, leading an otherwise dull market.

Three mining stocks hit lows during the morning. Volume to 11 a.m. was only 493,130 shares.

Among the losers were Coast Copper, off .05 to $9.05, Homestake unchanged at .30 after dipping earlier to .28, and Silbak, off ½ cent to .22½.

Buttle Lake was the volume leader, trading 70,000 shares and dropping .02 to .80. Brenda was off .15 to $8, and Dynasty, on the rise last week, slumped .60 to $9.40.

Silver Titan was off .20 to $1.40.

Industrials were stronger. B.C. Forest added .25 to $21.25, Massey was up $1.12 to $26.37 and Westcoast added a point to $24.50.

AT TORONTO prices continued to advance in moderate mid-afternoon trading.

Industrials and speculatives highlighted activity.

In the main list, Inco climbed 1⅛ to 84½ to pace the list higher. General Motors jumped 4 to 84¼, Massey-Ferguson 1½ to 26⅞ and Alberta Gas 1 to 33.

Area, jointly drilling with Frobex in the Gaspe, highlighted speculative activity, rising 22 cents to 2.80 on 278,000 shares. Frobex eased 9 cents to 2.96 in profit taking.

In other speculative activity, Quebec Mattagami was up 5 cents to 1.12 on 181,000 shares.

AT NEW YORK strength among many blue chips was a feature of the session. Some glamor stocks were strong but others stumbled on profit-taking.

IBM and Corning Glass spurted about 7 each. Emery Air Freight rose more than 4 as did Superior Oil.

Up about two were such stocks as General Motors, Boeing, New York Central and Allegheny Ludlum. Pfizer and SCM (ex-dividend) advanced more than three each.

Profits were taken in some high flyers.

AT MONTREAL the market continued a gradual advance in light trading.

Trading got off to a shaky start with prices milling about within a narrow range but support soon began to strengthen and towards 2 p.m. most major sections had recorded moderate advances. Asbestos was up ¾ at 21¾ and Dominion Textile ¼ at 27½. Massey-Ferguson climbed 1½ to 26½.

AT LONDON the market was quiet with firm undertones.

The Jewish holiday and an uneasy labor-management situation in the motor industry are believed to be factors in keeping the market quiet.

Several sections edged forward.

Undated gilts were sometimes easier but some dated stocks extended Wednesday's gains by a further ⅛ to ⅝.

65,200 Cars Exported By Chrysler

TORONTO (CP) — Chrysler Canada Ltd. exported 65,000 cars to the United States during the last 12 months and imported 26,800 under terms of the Canada-U.S. auto pact, President Ron W. Todham has announced.

During a press preview of Chrysler's 1967 models, he said this year the company will produce 70 different models in the Dodge and Plymouth lines for sale in both Canada and the United States and draw from U.S. plants for Canadian requirements in other car lines.

A total 149 models, the largest number in the company's history, will be available in 1967.

FARMER'S INCOME SHOWS BIG GAIN

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian farmers earned an estimated realized net income of $1,595,800,000 from farming operations in 1965, an increase of 13.4 per cent over 1964, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics has announced.

While farm-operating expenses and depreciation charges rose by more than 6 per cent between 1964 and 1965, this was more than offset by increases in total receipts from the sale of farm products, supplementary payments and income in kind.

The figures do not include Newfoundland.

Total farm net income, calculated by adding the value of changes in inventory of field crops and livestock to realized farm net income, was estimated at $1,660,300,000, about 26 per cent above 1964 and 29 per cent above the 1960-1965 average.

Substantial increases in farm inventories of grain on the Prairies and an increased year-end carry-over of tobacco more than offset decline in livestock numbers to contribute to the increase in total farm net income.

Cash receipts from farming operations reached a record high of $3,775,800,000 in 1965, slightly more than 8 per cent above the previous high of $3,488,200,000 in 1964.

CATTLE RECEIPTS RISE

The bureau said the most important single contribution to the increase in farmers' cash receipts was made by cattle and calves. There were lesser increases for hogs, poultry, dairy products, potatoes, rapeseed, barley and Canadian wheat board participation payments.

The most important offset to these gains was a substantial decrease in cash receipts from the sale of wheat.

Ottawa Won't Call in Bond Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — An option that would cost the federal treasury $55,000,000 isn't being exercised, it was announced Wednesday.

Finance Minister Sharp said in a statement it wouldn't be in the Canadian interest to call in at this time an issue of three-per-cent perpetual bonds made in 1936.

Instead, the government is providing a supplementary set of interest coupons to cover another 30 - year period at the original rate of three per cent interest a year.

The first of the new coupons will be payable March 15, 1967.

The perpetual issue was the first and only one the Canadian government ever made. Perpetual bond issues usually are made during depression years, like 1936, because they are considered attractive buys.

Currently, there are $55,000,000 worth of these bonds in circulation. A term in the 1936 issue provided that the government could call in the bonds after Sept. 15, 1966, if it chose.

The three per cent interest on the bonds is payable semi-annually on March 15 and Sept. 15. The last coupon provided with the original issue is payable today.

The finance department said details of arrangements by which bond holders can make the exchange will be published shortly.

MOLYBDENUM DISCOVERY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Highmont Mining Corp. Ltd. Wednesday reported discovery of high grade molybdenum on its Highland Valley property.

The ore is in the first hole of a new drilling program which follows drilling of 17 holes in the area during 1962.

Steelmen Accept Algoma Contract

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — A general membership meeting of Local 2251, United Steelworkers of America, voted Wednesday to accept a three-year contract with Algoma Steel Corp.

Announcement of the acceptance by the 6,400-man local came after two days of voting.

A strike deadline had been set for midnight Wednesday night.

The announcement said 3,141 voted in favor and 1,963 against accepting the contract which calls for wage increases from 31 to 57 cents hourly depending on job classification.

RETROGRADE—HEES

Capital Gains Tax Warning

Frmer trade minister George Hees Wednesday warned the federal government not to impose a capital gains tax on business.

The former president of the Montreal Stock Exchange told a meeting sponsored by Victoria Young Conservatives the immediate effect of a capital gains tax would be that the United States businessmen would cut back investment in Canada.

"It would be a retrograde step," he said. "It will slow down Canadian investment."

He said he was "pretty sure" the tax would be imposed under Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp's baby budget this fall.

"What the government should be doing is enticing more Canadian investment by increasing the 20 per cent of common stock dividends, which are deductible from income tax, to 50 per cent.

"Without such an additional incentive, our development will continue to be owned and controlled, to a very large extent, from outside Canada."

Mr. Hees said he was convinced that if the government took this step we could win back a far greater degree of ownership and control of our own development.

OUR OWN PROBLEM

"The responsibility for Canadians not owning and controlling enough of our own development interest rests squarely on our own shoulders.

"Each year we invest more than 500 million in new savings bonds and deposit an additional $500 million in savings accounts.

"These are merely two of many examples of how over-cautious we are in investing our savings," he said.

He said it has also become very clear that Canadians generally to not intend to invest without some additional inducement being given to them.

"We are primarily motivated by what's in it for us."

He said foreign capital must receive the same privileges and be subject to the same obligations as Canadian capital so that they will continue to export it to this country.

"It is important that we inform the countries on whom we must rely for outside capital in the years ahead that their money is very welcome in this country."

Mr. Hees said a clear-cut understanding must be made with the United States of how we want to co-operate, and not be dominated economically.

"But when the Liberal government approaches them with a cap-in-hand attitude and indicates that they want to merge our economy more and more with that of the United States, then it is naive to act surprised when they start filling the vacuum and calling some of the shots."

He said if there were some clear-cut guidelines it would have avoided the kind of embarrassing situations which the government has been running into during the past few months. (See also Page 20).

PETROLEUM SUPPLY WARNING

CALGARY (CP)—The North American continent could be facing a crisis in petroleum supply within the next decade, Michael T. Halbouty, president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, said here.

In the next 10 years, he said, the industry will be required to find 55,000,000,000 barrels of oil and 300,000,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas in the United States simply to maintain an adequate reserve position.

Oil discoveries must be doubled and gas discoveries must be trebled, he said. The situation called for new exploration ideas and new incentives and co-operation of efforts by geologists and geophysicists.

Injunction Will Ban Picketing

VANCOUVER (CP) — A court injunction to end the six-day-old pulp mill strike at Prince Rupert was granted Wednesday.

County Court Judge Kirke Smith, sitting as a local judge of the Supreme Court, granted the injunction to ban picketing by Local 4 of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

The dispute involving six men has tied up an $80,000,000 pulp mill extension project and shut down a $50,000,000 pulp mill.

Two companies, Skeena Kraft Ltd., owners of the extension project, and Celgar Ltd., operators of the pulp mill, sought the injunction after 600 pulp workers and 700 construction workers walked off the job when the six men were sent home.

The union claimed the six men were fired for refusing to do carpenters' work while Celgar Ltd. claims the men are merely suspended.

Judge Smith criticized both the union and companies in granting the injunction to end picketing.

He found that the work stoppage was a true and spontaneous wildcat strike for which union defendants were not responsible and was a "fait accompli" by members of the union.

NOT GUILTY

Judge Smith declined to find that the union and its officers were ringleaders in the illegal strike.

In his written judgment, he also was unable to find that four union defendants, J. L. Miners, John R. Watson, D. L. Peterson and George Gardiner had declared, authorized or consented to the work stoppage.

He said the reverse was probably true and pointed out that Miners, president of the local, had been shouted down when he tried to get members to go back to their jobs.

Judge Smith also found that the companies refused to sit down and discuss the status of the men who the companies said were suspended until the union ordered the pulp employees back to work.

Will Make Trade Trip

OTTAWA (CP) — An 11-member Canadian trade mission to investigate marketing potential for lumber and wood products will make a three-week tour of Israel, Cyprus, Greece and Italy starting Sept. 18.

Sponsored by the federal trade department, the mission will leave Montreal Saturday. It will be in Israel from Sept. 18-21, Cyprus from Sept. 23-25, Greece from Sept. 26-Oct. 1 and Italy from Oct. 2-8.

Members of the mission include E. C. Bragg, Cobequid Lumber Co., Oxford Junction, N.S.; J. F. Brigden, Seaboard Lumber Sales Co. Ltd., Vancouver; J. P. Charpentier, Interior Lumberman's Association, Penticton, M. Gerin, Canexco Incorp., Quebec; R. A. Orr, Engineered Buildings Ltd., Calgary.

LABOR FORCE MOUNTS

Biggest Job Gain in B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — A strong surge of non-farm jobs, particularly in manufacturing, reduced unemployment in Canada to 228,000 in August from 244,000 in July. But it didn't get down to the mark of 211,000 reached in August of last year.

A joint report today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the immigration department estimated the August unemployment rate at 2.9 per cent, down from 3.1 per cent in July. Last year's August rate was 2.8 per cent.

The continued decline in farm jobs, off 6,000 in the month to 649,000 and 85,000 lower on the year, offset much of the gain made in other industries.

Growth of the labor force continued at an unprecedented clip.

LABOR FORCE HITS RECORD

During the last five years the labor force has shown an average drop of 21,000 between July and August. But this year it grew by 18,000 to a record 7,805,000. That was 315,000 higher than in August, 1965.

The job picture in brief (estimates in thousands):

	Aug. 1966	July 1966	Aug. 1965
Labor force	7,805	7,787	7,490
Employed	7,577	7,543	7,279
Unemployed	228	244	211

Another 40,000 non-farm jobs showed up in the month although there normally is a dip at this time of year. "More than half of the additional jobs were in manufacturing," the report said.

The year-to-year gain was 383,000, more than enough to match the increase in the labor force if farm employment hadn't taken such a dive.

Largest job gains were posted in British Columbia, where employment rose six per cent on the year, and in Quebec, which showed an increase of 5.9 per cent.

The unemployment drop between July and August was almost entirely accounted for by teen-agers, mainly students who entered the labor force after schools closed. Teen-agers as a group normally show the highest jobless rate.

But, conversely, the year-to-year rise in unemployment was entirely among women, usually the group with low unemployment rates.

'TOO DANGEROUS'

Boxla Coaches Criticize Floor

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Both coach Bob Allan, of Peterborough, and Bob Marsh, of Vancouver, say they will not play another game in the Canadian senior lacrosse final on the wooden floor at the Peterborough Memorial Centre.

The third game in the best-of-seven series for the Mann Cup was played Wednesday night on ¾ - inch thick plywood boards which covered the centre's ice surface.

Peterborough scored three goals in the final quarter to nip the western team 8-6 and take a 2-1 lead in the series. The fourth game will be played here Saturday.

In the dressing room after the game, Allan said: "We won't play on the boards anymore. it's too dangerous."

Peterborough's rookie forward, John Davis, agreed: "Before the game we thought it was going to be all right but even before the end of the pre-game workout the floor started sweating."

The [illegible] ice laid earlier this week for today's opening of the Toronto Maple Leafs' hockey training camp.

'Lucky There Were No Injuries'

"That floor was dangerously slippery," Marsh said. "We definitely will not play another game with that wooden floor.

"The players on both teams were running into the end boards after a hard rush or a breakaway. They just couldn't stop or slow down in time. We were lucky there were no serious injuries."

Marsh also said the slippery footing slowed the pace of the game and shortened tempers. He said the referees, Jerry Ravery of Toronto and Jim McMahon of St. Catharines, were the poorest of the series.

Both officials were inconsistent in their calls, he said, and did not take the condition of the floor into account.

No decision was made immediately on shifting the remaining games to another Peterborough rink which seats fewer fans.

Cervi Handed Game Misconduct

Cy Coombs sparked the Petes' attack with three goals and Bill Armour got two. Brian Keegan, Ken Ruttan and Don Arthurs scored the others.

Bill Robinson paced Vancouver with two goals and Gord Fredrickson, Peter Black, Paul Parnell and Bob Babcock each scored one.

The last quarter was interrupted when Vancouver's John Cervi bumped into Davis just before the final buzzer. Davis fell, both teams rushed on to the floor.

Ceryl received a game misconduct and five minutes for charging.

In the first quarter, Peterborough struck quickly with four goals and built up a 5-2 lead as the half ended. The western club scored four in the third quarter to lead 6-5 going into the final session.

Arthurs, a pickup for the series from Brampton of the Ontario Lacrosse Association, scored the tying goal and Armour got the winner.

Stage Personalities In Canadian Pro-Am

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four leading U.S. entertainers will be among the starters in the Canadian Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament here Sept. 28, to precede the $100,000 Canadian Open.

Bing Crosby, once a two-handicap player and a former winner of the Totem Tournament at Jasper, Alta., will team up with a top professional for the 18-hole Pro-Am.

Crosby now plays to a 10 handicap at Eldorado in Palm Springs, Calif.

He'll be joined by comedian and bandleader Phil Harris as well as televisions "Mr. Magoo," Jim Backus, also the star of "Gilligan's Island."

Robert Sterling, the actor who played the ghost in television's "Topper" series is also scheduled to make the round. He'll be joined by tennis professional Jack Kramer.

The Pro - Am traditionally shows the form of the chief contenders for the Canadian Open title as they tackle the hazards of the new course.

Among the professionals who have entered the open are Jack Nicklaus, Gene Littler, Dave Marr, Billy Casper, Al Geiberger and Canadians George Knudson and Mason Rudolph.

The open starts Sept. 29 with the final round scheduled for Oct. 2.

Indianapolis Dominates All-Star Poll

SEATTLE (AP)—The Indianapolis Indians, who finished third in the Pacific Coast League's Eastern Division, won the lion's share of places on the 14-man all-star team announced today.

The Indians have four men on the team. Two men from Seattle's championahip Angels and two from the Tulsa Oilers, winners of the Eastern Division, won the nods of the league's baseball writers and broadcasters.

Chuck Vinson, Seattle, first base; Marv Staehle, Indianapolis, second base; Bob Schroder, Phoenix, shortstop; Dick Kenworthy, Indianapolis, third base; Walt Williams and Ted Savage, Tulsa, and Rich Reese, Denver, outfield; John Werhas, Spokane, and Frank Johnson, Phoenix, utility; Duane Josephson, Indianapolis, catcher; Bob Heffner, Portland, right hand pitcher; Ron Willis, Indianapolis, and Bill Kelso, Seattle, relief pitchers.

First 20 Were Easiest, Now Perry Has Problem

Phils' Allen Shows Way As Giants Cut Down 2-0

By Associated Press

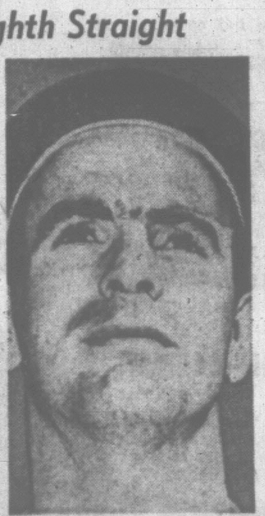
Gaylord Perry, the first pitcher to join this year's 20-victory club, must have forgotten to pay his dues.

The San Francisco right-hander, who reached the charmed circle Aug. 20, failed for the sixth straight time to record his 21st Wednesday when he was outduelled by Jim Bunning as Philadelphia Phillies blanked the Giants 2-0.

It was a costly defeat for the National League with first place Los Angeles and runner - up Pittsburgh both idle, the defeat dropped the Giants a full three games off the Dodgers' pace and left them two behind the Pirates.

Richie Allen was the man who did the offensive job for the Phillies. He was at bat with two out in the first inning when Johnny Callison was thrown out stealing. Then Allen, leading off in the second, walloped Perry's second pitch over the right field fence for his 38th home run of the season. He also drove in the second run with a sacrifice fly in the ninth inning.

Braves Tick Off Eighth Straight



GAYLORD PERRY
. . . still trying

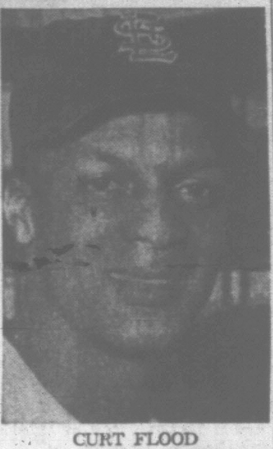
In the only other National League games Wednesday, Atlanta Braves topped Chicago Cubs 3-1 and St. Louis Cardinals downed Cincinnati Reds 6-2.

In the American League, Kansas City Athletics shut out Cleveland Indians 3-0, Boston Red Sox 2-1 and Detroit Tigers edged Minnesota Twins 3-2. California Angels at Baltimore Orioles and Washington Senators at New York Yankees were postponed by rain.

Bunning was in real trouble only once. That came in the first when a walk and an error put Giants at first and third with two out. But Jim Hart fouled out, ending the threat.

The Braves won their eighth straight, scoring two runs on one hit in the 10th inning. Felipe Alou and Ty Cline drove in the deciding runs, Alou on a fielder's choice.

Only 961 Fans Show Up at Chicago



CURT FLOOD
. . . homer helps

Only 961 fans paid to watch the game played in a light rain at Wrigley Field. It was the smallest crowd in the majors this year.

Tim McCarver walloped two home runs and Curt Flood and Lou Brock added one each as the Cardinals ripped the Reds. Ray Washburn got the victory with a six-hitter.

John (Blue Moon) Odom scattered five singles to blank the Indians. Danny Cater's single, a walk, Joe Nossek's double and an infield out scored two second - inning runs that carried the Athletics to victory.

Denny McLain retired the first 13 batters he faced and survived two home runs by Jimmie Hall to nip the Twins. McLain struck out nine batters in recording his 19th victory.

'BELLIES ONE UP

Tight Defence Thwarts Gaels

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — New Westminster Salmonbellies turned a tight defence game into a 10-8 victory over Oshawa Green Gaels Wednesday night to go ahead two games to one in the best-of-seven Minto Cup series for the Canadian junior lacrosse championship.

Wayne Goss scored three goals for the New Westminster squad that lost the first game 20-7 but won 15-4 Monday night.

Barry Bolton and Ken Winzoski scored two goals each for the Salmonbellies Wednesday. Singles came from Ken Henry, Wayne Bellwood and Joe O'Malley.

Gaylord Powless scored three for the visitors. Singles went to Neil Armstrong, Jim Higgs, Dwight Davies, Don Stinson and John Clayton.

PENALTY HELPS

Forward Ross Jones had three assists, but served one of his two minor penalties when there was just over two minutes remaining in the game. New Westminster took advantage of the situation and ran out the clock.

Both goalies played well, with Merv Marshall of Oshawa and New Westminster's Don Wallis both stopping 23 shots.

Bellwood and Bolton opened the scoring, but Oshawa's Armstrong and Clayton tied the score 2-2 at the end of the first quarter.

POWLESS ERUPTS

Goss put the Salmonbellies ahead again as the second quarter opened but Powless hammered in three goals in the next seven minutes to put the Gaels ahead 5-3. Another goal each made the halftime score 6-4 for Oshawa.

Four quick New Westminster goals reversed the lead in the third quarter, which ended 9-7 for the Salmonbellies.

Davies scored for Oshawa and Goss for New Westminster in the final quarter to round out the scoring.

Coach Keith Jackson of New Westminster labelled the victory a "fantastic effort by everybody."

Jim Bishop, coach of the Green Gaels, said: "It's not over yet. We'll be back."

Amateurs on Way Out Because of Subsidies?

NEW YORK (AP) — A committeeman for the United States Lawn Tennis Association charged today that the American Davis Cup team is being subsidized as an experiment toward getting rid of amateur tennis.

"The world is watching," said Joseph P. McLaren of Kansas City, a member of the association's nominating committee. "A fantastic sum — nobody knows exactly how much — is being spent on the Davis Cup team.

"The players are being kept on a per diem allowance of $28 the year round. This amounts to something like $7,500 to $9,000 a man, not counting transportation.

"This doesn't bother me so much, bad as it is. What I am really concerned about is that we have men in the association working toward elimination of the term 'amateur' in tennis. They want to make the tournament player simply a 'player,' not bound by amateur rules.

"The idea will be submitted to the International Lawn Tennis Federation in July, 1967, with the U.S. Davis Cup experiment serving as the guinea pig."

Martin Tressel of Pittsburgh, president of the USLTA, denied the allegation although he admitted open payments to the U.S. Davis Cup players, a fact that hasn't been covered up, and said the USLTA was making a broad survey into all facets of amateur tennis.

"We formed a Davis Cup squad on a more or less permanent basis a year ago under captain George McCall and sent them to Australia on a very profitable campaign," Tressel said.

"We give the boys a $28 per diem in the United States and $20 when out of the country."

Last Major Derby Sunday Offering

If derbies are your dish, the last big one of the summer comes up for offering Sunday.

It's the annual Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association coho and spring salmon derby.

With the coho picture "improving daily," the scramble for prize-winning silvers could be hectic. There will be 10 coho prizes and 10 spring awards offered Sunday.

Fishing is from daybreak to 2 p.m. and the usual VSIAA rules prevail.

Tickets may be obtained at any Saanich Inlet boathouse. Weigh-in stations will be at Hall's, Holders, Adams, Gilberts and Anglers-Anchorage.

Presentation of prizes, including numerous hidden-weight awards, will take place at the Anglers-Anchorage boathouse after the final weigh-in.

The VSIAA's annual executive derby, originally scheduled for last weekend, will be held Oct. 2.

Seattle Regulars Called by Angels

SEATTLE (AP) — California Angels have purchased four players and recalled another from their Seattle farm club in the Pacific Coast Baseball League.

Joining the American League team are pitchers Bill Kelso and Jorge Rubio, infielder Chuck Vinson, and outfielders Bubba Morton and Al Spanger.

Old Lions Spur New Interest in Steelers

The town seems to be talking football, and Victoria Steeler executives are looking forward to a turnout of at least 3,000 fans at the baptism of the Pacific Football League this Saturday.

Spurring greater interest was the announcement Wednesday that at least seven former B.C. Lion players are ticketed to join Steelers for the game against Seattle Ramblers at Macdonald Park.

The ex-Leos expected to give Victoria added oomph for its first home game are Nub Beamer, Ron Morris, Rae Ross, Walt Bilicki, Jerry Janes, Gary Schwertfeger and Ian Hagemoen.

Steelers opened their campaign last week in Eugene, dropping a 42-12 duke to the Bombers.

Ramblers, touted as one of the powers of the six-team league, started out by blanking Edmonds Warriors 17-0 behind the two-touchdown performance of Steve Bramwell, the mighty mite of Washington Huskies last season.

Steeler director Bill Clarke said Wednesday a "maximum of 3,000" seats will be set up in time for Saturday's game. The total includes 1,000 in the permanent, covered stands at Macdonald Park, plus an additional 2,000 bleacher seats.

The covered seats, all located between the 35-yard lines, are reserved for season-ticket holders.

Rush tickets can be purchased in advance at the Steelers' ticket office, 623 Johnson, or at Eaton's third-floor box office. In addition, specially-priced children's tickets may be obtained through Woodward's Booster Club.

Game time is 2 p.m.

Turf 'Invasion' Hits Sandown

An invasion of sorts took place at Swartz Bay today. Don't worry. No Viet Cong or anything like that.

The invaders were thoroughbreds, some 300 worth. Accompanied by a bevy of owners, trainers, grooms and jockeys, they'll be on hand for the opening Saturday at Sandown Park of the 1966 Island racing season.

They closed the doors on Vancouver's Exhibition Park Wednesday after 93 long days. But all the moving parts were quickly pointed to the Island ferry for Sandown's 17-day meet.

The mainland season closed in a flurry of betting — 6,823 fans shoved $358,204 through the windows. The season's total was $23,429,215 wagered by 628,079 patrons.

Count Leo with hard-riding Jimmy Broomfield in the seat took the featured Au Revoir Handicap over 2¼ miles. Wifflaw was second, Fraser Canyon third.

HEALTHY RETURN

Court Glamor, owned by Victoria's Darshan Stable, won the sixth race and with Amazing Message contributed to a $330.20 Exacto.

Early entries for Saturday's feature indicate a full field of 10 will face starter Bill McKay.

Top weighted at 121 is Permano. The five-year-old chestnut gelding has great speed but faces keen opposition in the mile event.

Princess Vega, probably the best mare in B.C., has drawn 119 and is right at her peak.

POST TIME 2 P.M.

J. C. Ingersoll's Sir Keno and Keno's Boy loom as a formidable entry. Sir Keno finished fourth in the Premier's Championship against the best on the grounds.

The balance of the field is expected to consist of George Harknett's Devonshire Cream, doubly tough if it's sloppy; Davie's Magic, Red Royal, Gladys Ann, Bell's Sheila and McGregor Glen.

There should be no shortage of riders for the meeting. Eighteen indicated they would be here including five apprentices and 1965 leading jockey Gene Salas.

Post time for racing on Saturdays, Monday, Wednesdays and Fridays will be 2 p.m. through to Oct. 8.

Minor Soccer Calling

The annual "call to arms" is being sounded by the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Soccer Association.

Player registrations will be held at seven locales—Central Junior High, Lansdowne Junior High, Bullen, Windsor, Majestic, Hampton and Reynolds Road Parks. All boys between 8 to 17 years of age are asked to register at the park nearest their home Saturday, between 10 and 11 a.m.

As well, anyone interested in coaching minor teams in the Beacon Hill Park area is asked to telephone EV4-3938.

Koufax Enjoying Firm Hold

NEW YORK (AP) — Sandy Koufax has taken a solid lead in the National League earned-run competition while shooting for a record fifth straight championship.

The pitching ace of the league - leading Los Angeles Dodgers heads the league with a 1.81 average, figures compiled by The Associated Press showed Wednesday. Gary Peters of Chicago White Sox is the American League leader with 2.02.

Koufax broke the NL mark and tied the major league record last season by leading in E.R.A. for the fourth consecutive year. Lefty Grove paced the American League four straight times starting with 1929.

This year, the Dodgers' southpaw has allowed 56 earned runs in 279 innings, and has pitched five shutouts. He has won 23 games and lost eight.

Juan Marichal of San Francisco Giants is second with a 2.06 E.R.A. Peters, who won the AL title in 1963 with a 2.33 average, has a 1966 record of 46 earned runs in 205 innings and a 12-10 won-lost mark.

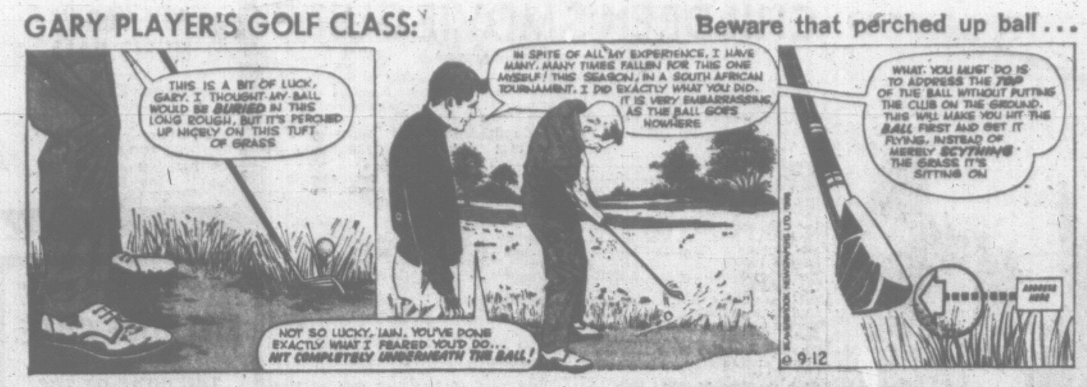
GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS: Beware that perched up ball . . .



THIS IS A BIT OF LUCK, GARY. I THOUGHT MY BALL WOULD BE BURIED IN THIS LONG ROUGH, BUT IT'S PERCHED UP NICELY ON THIS TUFT OF GRASS
IN SPITE OF ALL MY EXPERIENCE, I HAVE MANY, MANY TIMES FALLEN FOR THIS ONE MYSELF! THIS SEASON, IN A SOUTH AFRICAN TOURNAMENT, I DID EXACTLY WHAT YOU DID. IT IS VERY EMBARRASSING AS THE BALL GOES NOWHERE
NOT SO LUCKY, IAIN. YOU'VE DONE EXACTLY WHAT I FEARED YOU'D DO... HIT COMPLETELY UNDERNEATH THE BALL!
WHAT YOU MUST DO IS TO ADDRESS THE TOP OF THE BALL WITHOUT PUTTING THE CLUB ON THE GROUND. THIS WILL MAKE YOU HIT THE BALL FIRST AND GET IT FLYING, INSTEAD OF MERELY SCYTHING THE GRASS IT'S SITTING ON

Percival Carries Battle to Court

TORONTO (CP) — Lloyd Percival of Toronto, one of Canada's best-known sports trainers, filed a $100,000 law suit Wednesday against five officials of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

The suit arises from charges that the former Don Mills Track Club coach gave his athletes stimulants and sedatives.

The statement of claim filed by Percival's lawyers names Fred Foot, Jessie Lightwood, Doreen Davies, Jack Bradfield and George Deniston as defendants.

The five comprise the registration committee of the central Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada.

Percival has denied charges that he gave athletes drugs to improve their performance.

Giants Deal Two For Redskin Ace

NEW YORK (UPI) — New York Giants gave up two players for one Wednesday in a National Football League trade with Washington Redskins.

Coming to the Giants is linebacker Darrell Dess while the Redskins get fullback Steve Thurlow and linebacker Jim Carroll in return.

HUNT SPARKLES

Rugby Shocker —Lions Upset!

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's all-star rugby team Wednesday night defeated the touring British Lions, 8-3, at Vancouver's Empire Stadium.

Inspired by veteran captain Ted Hunt, the B.C. team had the edge over the visitors in every department. Lions showed the wear and tear of their wearying, five-month, 34-game overseas tour.

Hunt applied the victory touch in the game's 53rd minute, when he stole the ball from Lions' fullback Stewart Wilson and raced three-quarters of the length of the field.

Yards from the line, he kicked forward, and when the ball came to rest beneath the uprights, B.C. veteran Peter Graham was on hand to touch the ball down.

BURGESS SCORES

Don Burgess of Victoria added the conversion points to make the score 8-3.

B.C. All-Stars had gone into a 3-0 lead in the first half, when Burgess kicked a penalty goal from 17 yards out after a Lions' obstruction.

Lions' only score came after nine minutes of the second half, when Dewi Bebb took a pass to dive over in the corner. Bert Wilson missed the convert.

After Hunt's game-winning move, the B.C. team's defence never gave the British squad another scoring chance.

SOCCER DEADLOCK

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The local DWS team Wednesday drew 2-2 with Zaglebie of Sosnowiec, Poland, in the quarter-final of the Rappan Cup soccer tournament.

NEW MAN IN CAMP

CALGARY (CP)—Bob Lueck, 230-pound offensive guard from Arizona State, has joined Calgary Stampeders, of the Western Football Conference, on a trial basis. To make room, Stamps have waived end George Carr.

ARTIST STEPHEN LOWE . . . best, largest exhibition

CHINESE ART

Difficulties Forced Major City Showing

By HUMPHRY DAVY

You can call it fate or whatever you like.

But one of the finest exhibitions of Chinese paintings is being held in Victoria because of a series of unforeseen difficulties.

Problems forced Victoria artist Stephen Lowe to cancel three exhibitions during the course of the year — in Winnipeg, Kelowna and finally in Port Angeles.

It resulted in an exhibition being held this week at his 1121 Vancouver studio. It is on until Sunday evening.

The show was scheduled to be held at Port Angeles this week, but Mr. Lowe cancelled it when his wife, still a Chinese citizen, was unable to obtain a passport.

Then this summer, an exhibition at Kelowna was cancelled when his wife fell ill.

Earlier this year, the artist was invited to exhibit in Winnipeg but changed his mind because he felt the trip would be too tiresome for Mrs. Lowe and their three small children.

The exhibition is the best and largest Mr. Lowe has held in the city. There are 73 paintings, ranging from landscapes to bird studies.

As a follower of the Chinese Ling Nan School of painting, the artist is still faithful to its objectives.

The style and techniques are strongly influenced by Japanese and Western art concepts. But the school allows experimentation which is evident in some of the Lowe paintings.

Some of the outstanding works to look for are — The Rose; House of the Mountain, and Foragers, depicting three crows.

One painting which is attracting attention is entitled The Spider. And it certainly ranks as one of the best in the collection.

FALSE TEETH PLAN SHELVED BY DENTURISTS

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. dental technicians have temporarily shelved a proposal to offer the public lifetime false teeth care for $200.

George Connolly, president of the Public Denturists Society, said today no action will be taken on the proposal until the legislature acts on a committee recommendation to broaden the function of dental technicians.

At present, denturists are allowed only to make a full set of dentures and cannot make partial replacements.

A legislative committee has recommended denturists be permitted a broader field of work but the report was not dealt with at the last session.

Meet-Teacher Night Scheduled by PTA

Oaklands Parent Teacher Association will hold its first meeting of the year at Oaklands School auditorium at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 20.

The program for the evening will consist of meeting the teachers and an outlinen of the school program for 1966-67 by the principal, R. N. Forbes. Refreshments will be served.

British Citizen Held Over Killing in Viet

SAIGON (AP) — John Meadows, a British citizen, is being held by South Vietnamese police on a charge of manslaughter and is seeking to raise bail [illegible] freedom while awaiting trial, [illegible] said today.

Meadows, who formerly lived in Oakville, Ont., and came to work for a civilian communications company, is alleged to have shot and killed a South Vietnamese man June 12.

The British embassy said Meadows made a statement to authorities that he went to the rescue of a girl who had been attacked by a gang of hoodlums. Meadows himself was attacked, his statement said, and he fired his pistol at random when one of his assailants menaced him with a knife. One of the group was hit and died the following day.

In addition to a manslaughter charge, Meadows faces a charge of carrying an unlicensed firearm, an embassy spokesman said.

No date has been set for trial.

The embassy said Meadows comes from Leicester, England, and his brother lives in Oakville.

High-Steppers Begin Stomping This Week

Victoria country-style high-steppers and their ladies will begin strutting their stuff on local hardwood Friday.

Broken Spokes convene at the Obed St. Hall with Doug George as caller, Mavericks will meet at Royal Oak Hall with Wilf Anderson calling the steps, and Jack Muir will lead the Singing Squares around the floor at St. Matthias Hall Friday.

Saturday, Dave Routley will do the honors for the Belles and Beaux at Gordon Head Community Hall and the Double D's with Curly Crawford calling the steps will meet at Royal Oak Hall.

Round dancers will have their chance to warm up for winter Monday when the Ring-A-Rounders get together at the Obed St. Hall with instructor Hud Graham and at St. Christopher's Hall with Art Bolster masterminding the Rounders.

All clubs have been adjourned since May so says a club spokesman "this could be called brush-up weekend."

Most city callers and instructors will have beginners' classes starting in late September, times and places to be announced later.

He Misled Police, Pays Fine of $100

Failure to tell police the truth cost Melvin Smith, 851 Sevenoaks, $100 in central court Wednesday.

Court was told Smith told police he was not the driver of a motorcycle involved in an accident on Carey Road, July 31, when in fact he was.

Police spent some time searching for another injured driver of the motorcycle. He didn't exist.

Smith pleaded guilty to a charge of public mischief.

'MOLLY GOLDBERG'

Stage, Radio Star Dies in N.Y. Hospital

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mrs. Gertrude Berg, the incomparable Molly Goldberg of stage, television and radio, died today. She was 66.

Mrs. Berg succumbed of a heart ailment four days after entering Doctor's Hospital for what was described as a routine checkup before going on vacation.

The actress, who created the role of Molly Goldberg, portrayed the character of the witty Jewish housewife who fractured the English language for more than 35 years. Her trademark was the line which began, "Yoo Hoo . . ."

Mrs. Berg had been scheduled to appear on Broadway this season in The Playgirls, a comedy written by Leonard Spiegelglass. Her earlier hit shows included A Majority of One with Sir Cedric Hardwicke, and Dear Me, The Sky Is Falling, which was based on a story written by the actress and James Yaffe.

A spokesman said funeral arrangements were being made and services probably would be held after sundown Saturday, the end of Rosh Hashonah, the Jewish new year holiday.

Mrs. Berg is survived by her husband, Lewis; a son, Cherney; and a daughter, Mrs. A. David Schwartz.

CBC Strike Feared If Demands Rejected

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 3,500-member Association of Canadian Television and Radio Artists has threatened a nation-wide strike against the CBC unless it accedes to union demands for preferential hiring of Canadian performers.

A union spokesman said here Wednesday ACTRA has given the corporation until Friday to "reconsider proposals pertaining to the preferential employment of Canadian resident performers."

ACTRA, with 500 members in Vancouver, 2,000 in Toronto and chapters in Montreal, Halifax, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary and Edmonton, has jurisdiction over all radio and television performers and some news personnel.

The union says the CBC should give Canadians first shot at any jobs available to shore up the steady drain of talent to the U.S.

The Vancouver spokesman said earlier proposals submitted to the CBC pertaining to use of Canadians as part of a general agreement now under negotiation were flatly refused.

Fined for Mischief

Thomas Heppell of 900 Runnymede was fined $50 after being found guilty of mischief when he appeared in central court Wednesday. Court was told he threw a 25-pound concrete block out of a car window doing $90 damage to another car July 30.

THE LOVED ONE
Off-Beat Satire
Coronet Theatre

Evelyn Waugh's bitterly satiric novel on the funeral business has been brought to the screen with only partial success.

The novel was delicately ironic and often devastatingly witty. The film is ironic but far from delicate and some of its sledge-hammer humor is in bad taste.

However, Metro Goldwyn Mayer's version of The Loved One does provide some hilarious moments, as when the funeral director decides to fire bodies into outer space so they won't take up room in his private cemetery.

This wasn't in the novel, but it gives a lift to the film script. The master mortician (Jonathan Winters) finds there is more money in providing a home for the aged than supplying expensive funerals.

"How can I get those stiffs off my land?" he inquires of a directors' meeting.

The jet-propelled casket, rocketing bodies into outer space, seems to be the answer.

* * *

Advertisers of The Loved One assure us it contains "something to offend everyone." But Wednesday's audiences at the Coronet showed no signs of being offended. They laughed at the bitter jokes and responded amiably most of the time.

Possibly our movie-makers imagine we take their products more seriously than we do.

Waugh's novel was aimed at the hypocrisy of making funerals as expensive and theatrical as possible. The film version piles on jokes about the American Mom, Hollywood's desperate courtship of television and the monkey brass of the Air Force.

The result is a wildly chaotic satire which tries to do too much and goes too far too often.

Anjanette Comer is delightfully naive as the first lady embalmer of Whispering Glades cemetery, and Rod Steiger is the embodiment of Mr. Joyby, the happy embalmer, who wants to marry her.

Robert Morse is the poet hero who competes for Miss Comer's favors. He wanders wide-eyed through an insane world, sometimes chuckling, but never revealing any clear-cut antagonism.

VERWOERD HELD PARTY, NATION TOGETHER

His Enemies Bowed Before His Power

By BRIAN BARROW

CAPE TOWN (CP) — Dimitri Tsafendas, Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's assassin, was a surly psychopath with an ill-defined grudge against society.

It has been established beyond all doubt that there were no political motives behind his lethal knife thrusts.

Yet it is already evident that his crime will have a deep and far-reaching effect on the political situation in South Africa.

Tsafendas removed from the scene the one man whose presence meant strength, stability and an unswerving continuity of purpose. No Afrikaaner leader since Paul Kruger enjoyed as much veneration and loyalty among his people as Verwoerd.

His stature in this country, even among his political enimies, was gigantic. He was the most astute politician South Africa has ever had. To the Afrikaaner and indeed to all his Nationalist followers he was a revered father figure who did more to realize the Afrikaaner dream than any other man alive.

It was he who severed the link with Britain and took South Africa out of the Commonwealth and it was he who fulfilled the greatest of all Afrikaaner aspirations — the establishment of an Afrikaaner-dominated South African republic.

He had in fact become a living legend. And he was going to be there for another 10 to 15 years, infallible and indestructible. Everyone looked up to him and this made him the greatest single unifying factor in the Afrikaaners' history. But now he is gone and his disappearance has struck at the very roots of the Nationalist party's existence.

Three weeks before his murder his Nationalist party never seemed more solid. Then suddenly there were signs of a deep rift between the more moderate Nationalists of the Cape and the extremist right-wing groups in the north. No matter how deep this rift, Verwoerd had the power and moral authority to keep his party united indefinitely. When he cracked the whip, all obeyed.

His successor as prime minister will not have nearly the same strong hold on the situation and it now seems likely that the long-awaited split in the Nationalist ranks will come into the open at last. The result could be new and deeply significant moves in South African politics.

The rethinking was already in progress before the asssination. There was a ferment in the Nationalist party which was generating a lot of emotion, with well-defined factions in the Transvaal and the Cape jostling for positions of inluence.

The struggle began after the massive Nationalist victory at the last general election and it became more intense after the easing of international pressures following the favorable judgment in the Southwest Africa case.

The conflict was forced into the open only two weeks ago when the Nationalist newspapers of the Cape launched a bitter attack on a right-wing journal called the South African Observer which in a series of articles questioned the loyalty of a number of prominent Cape Nationalists known for their moderate views. The journal was conducting a kind of McCarthy inquiry of its own.

This clash however was only the top of the iceberg. It became much more significant when the fact leaked out that sponsors of the journal were a right-wing group of Nationalist parliamentarians led by the minister of posts and telegraphs, Dr. Albert Hertzog. This meant that the rift was not only among the rank and file but existed at top cabinet level.

LONG STRUGGLE LIKELY

One of the main differences between the two groups is over racial policy and concern that too much energy is being devoted to petty apartheid (such as not allowing a white fooball team to tour Japan) and not enough to the larger and more moral concept of separate freedom for the various races.

Each faction has been busy preparing its own leader—a man who best represents its idea of a successor to Dr. Verwoerd.

His disappearance from the scene has come so suddenly however, that neither side is sufficiently prepared for a trial of strength. Thus the new prime minister might well be a stop-gap leader who will keep the ship on course while the struggle for Verwoerd's real successor intensifies behind the scenes and eventually grows into a full-scale clash.

That clash might come sooner than many would care to think. When it does there will be a new regrouping among the various political parties which will draw even the opposition parties into the vortex and eventually see the beginning of a new deal in South Africa.

MARK OF EXCELLENCE

The mark of excellence

This is the General Motors mark of excellence. Within a short time, it will appear on all General Motors products—from automobiles to refrigerators, from trucks to aircraft engines.

We will use it in the same spirit with which craftsmen, through the centuries, have used a personal mark to identify the products of their skills. We are proud of the things we make, and we want our customers to be able to identify them easily and to know that we stand behind them.

Whenever you see this mark of excellence, you can be certain that it represents our very finest in design and engineering...that it has been built with care and dedication...and that it offers all the quality, reliability, safety and value that you have come to expect from General Motors.

We hope you will get to know this mark—that you will learn to look for it—and that you will come to recognize it as a symbol you can trust.

It is the mark of General Motors, and it is our way of promising you our very best.

HEES TELLS CHAMBER

Unified Force Just Nonsense

Dressing Canada's armed forces in "Coca-Cola uniforms" as a unified service would be "damned nonsense," according to ex-army major George Hees.

The Conservative MP told Victoria Chamber of Commerce annual meeting at the Red Lion Hotel Wednesday there is nothing to be gained in the defence minister's proposals for a single service.

The test of armed forces effectiveness he said was to put men in front of an enemy, not to dress them in a single uniform in an effort to cut costs.

Traditional factors are necessary to instill men with the courage to place themselves where death could come any second, the former cabinet minister said.

"If you are going to take a bunch of men and turn them out in Coca-Cola uniforms you are going to take away some of the things that make them do such things," he said.

PRIDE TAKEN AWAY

Pride of country, of service, of unit and of self are identifying factors to a soldier, he said.

"The only thing a potential enemy can understand is that we can hit him harder than he can hit us," and to be successful a unit must achieve its objectives in the face of action.

The single uniform idea Mr. Hees called "the damndest nonsense I ever heard."

He was roundly applauded.

Earlier, in light-hearted vein, the speaker relayed "latest word from Ottawa" on a new name for the unified forces — FINKS, which, he said stood for Flying Infantry with Naval Knowledge.

IMPROVE QUALITY

Mr. Hees made his remarks in a lengthy question period following a speech on making Parliament more effective.

He said Canadians have got to take politics more seriously to improve the quality of government.

Reeve Allan Cox of Oak Bay asked whether the best persons can be obtained for Parliament if people think politics is "a dirty thing" and candidates are nominated by a small minority of the people.

Mr. Hees stressed government is only as good as the 265 persons sent to Parliament and urged citizens to get out to work at the constituency level.

If the person elected through their efforts fails to do a good job, "then throw him out."

PROVINCIAL 'REVOLT'

Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis asked if he was also concerned for the federal system in Canada, which showed weakening this week with a "revolt" by the provinces against the national government's taxation policies.

The provinces must stop treating the federal government like a milch cow, to be milked of as much as possible for the people of a province without the province raising supporting taxes, Mr. Hees said.

Federal-provincial meetings have "turned into a kind of slugfest," he observed. It was time provincial premiers found out whether their people really want new programs and whether they would pay for them.

The federal government was "getting wise" to "taking the rap for increased taxes," he said.

Lagoon Sought As Park

A serious bid to acquire Witty's Lagoon as a regional park will be made this month by the Regional District of the Capital of B.C.

The offer will include a cash payment for the land plus the appraised value of the timber now standing on the 40-acre site.

Negotiations for the site have been underway for some months but the Wednesday decision of the district board marks the first time a solid offer has been made.

If the offer is accepted by the Witty family the lagoon will become the fifth park site acquired by the board since its inception eight months ago.

Other land purchased for park purposes includes: Coles Bay, North Saanich, five acres;

Horth Hill, North Saanich, 14 acres of wooded hilltop plus a 55-acre Crown grant nearby;

Island View Beach, Central Saanich, 62 acres of waterfront;

And eight acres already purchased at Witty's Lagoon.

The balance of the lagoon property lies just south of Albert Head.

Schools Urged To Help End Ghostly Bangs

All school boards in the Regional District will be asked to co-operate in making this year's blanket ban on Halloween firecrackers complete.

Members of the Regional District of the Capital of B.C. decided Tuesday to advertise the ban extensively and to solicit the support of school boards and school teachers to spread the word.

This year only organizations armed with special permits will be able to provide the traditional bang on the night the ghosts march.

NEW TREASURER

Board members also approved the hiring of a full-time secretary-treasurer to look after board business.

His duties will start on or about Jan. 1, 1967.

Oak Bay Reeve Allan Cox objected to the hiring of a full time man saying the work-load was not yet heavy enough to warrant the cost.

Board chairman Reeve Hugh Curtis, Saanich, said that while the work load was not too heavy now it would be heavy enough within a few months to warrant the hiring a full time secretary.

At the same time pro-tem secretary A. H. Roberts has been instructed to look for suitable permanent headquarters for the district organization.

Ram's Horn Sounded To Mark New Year

Victoria' Jewish population is now celebrating Rosh Hashannah, the beginning of the year 5727, according to the Jewish calendar.

There will be services in Congregation Emanuel Synagogue, Blanshard and Pandora, tonight and Friday at 8 p.m. and Saturday at 9:30 a.m. They will be conducted by Robert Levinson of Portland, Ore., assisted by Charles Kalfon of Victoria.

In eight days. time the day of atonement, Yom Kippur, will be observed.

"These are our holy days," Mr. Kalfon said. "They are the most important in our calendar."

Thr ram's horn was blown at the close of a service in Congregation Emanuel Synagogue this morning and will be blown again at the end of the Yom Kippur service next Thursday.

A holy symbol in the Jewish faith, the ram's horn is blown on the Sabbath and at all religious festivals.

Seven People Pay $275 On Drink Charges

Five minors and two adults were fined a total of $275 for offences against the Liquor Act when they appeared in central court Wednesday.

Fined $35 each for being minors in possession of alcohol were:

Kenneth Cottini, 3103 Glasgow; Douglas Beasley, HMCS Mackenzie; Barry Bruce, 1126 Oxford; Robert Obenhauer, CFB Esquimalt; Terry Orr, 547 Manchester.

Brian Burbridge, 1421 Wende, and John Matte, 850 Lampson, were each fined $50 when they pleaded guilty to charges of consuming liquor in a public place.

Radiation Record 'Excellent'

Canada's industrial radiation accident record is "execellent," says the assistant director of medical services for Ontario Hydro.

Dr. R. B. Trewin of Toronto said there have been no deaths within recent years and virtually no serious exposure to ionizing radiation.

In a paper read to the International Association of Industrial Accident Boards and Commissions convention here Dr. Trewin said "the atomic energy of Canada has not had a lost-time accident in their history."

"The Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board has had 11 claims, all but one extremely minor, in two years.

"We have, by a wide margin, the safest record of use in any industry in the world due largely to the care, patience, knowledge and forethought of those concerned . . ." he said.

"We can never completely eliminate risk, both at work and at play, but we can keep those risks to our profit as low as is practicable."

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, SEPT. 15, 1966 —PAGE 21

Arthur Mayse

There are in this town any number of gruff fathers and butter-hearted mothers who realize with a touch of sadness that life's going to be different for them when their children are such no longer.

No more family vacations and picnics, they brood. No Christmas Eves of high excitement, no school open houses with florid artwork pinned on the walls for inspection. Nothing, in fact, but memories of happy days gone by.

Well, we have reached that time at our place and it's wonderful. What at a distance may look like loss turns out to be gain, and life takes on new dimensions. There are, however, certain parental adjustments to be made.

We will, for instance, get a chance in due time to visit the classroom where our son spends his days. But his desk is the big one up front now and the artwork he labors over is the sort teachers use for visual instruction.

★

Naturally, this reversal of the earlier order takes some getting used to. It is disconcerting, at first, to know that the young person you once patiently taught snakes-and-ladders can take you — zip, zip, zip, like that — at checkers.

Contrariwise, you aren't going to get called a meanie or other such at the close of an emotion-fraught argument. What you get instead, is points made with cool and usually unassailable logic.

Then there is the matter of family holidays; and if there's any department of human association in which sentiment tends to mist the view, this is it.

We have had some very fine family vacations and if our young didn't enjoy them they have been polite enough not to let us know. However, in retrospect, I can see full well that our two had their best fun when Win and I were away down at the other end of the beach or off viewing the instructional exhibits.

Excessive togetherness has its flaws. Like most fishermen, I get pretty single-minded when engaged in my sport; a condition which an indulgent wife will tolerate. but children are completely unable to.

For about 15 minutes, or maybe half an hour on the slow days, I did well enough as the kind and attentive mentor. But one brisk tug at my lure and any such childish request as, "Daddy, is this a toad or a frog?" was more than likely to go unheard.

Circumstance has now done in the shared holiday; the juniors in our house can't get away when we do and our mutual regrets are tempered by the increased freedom which the change has brought with it.

★

The nature of Christmas does change somewhat as a family grows older. The stockings may vanish but you can be darn sure that some substitute container will be available for the smaller gifts. We have not found, either, that Christmas morning is robbed of its magic by the fact of a proper night's sleep.

It used to be that we were wakened at spaced intervals from three in the morning on. These golden years, we sleep late, enjoy a leisurely cup of coffee and don't wake our young until curiosity over what they've given us becomes too strong.

One recent afternoon, Ron strolled in and without preamble tossed us a question.

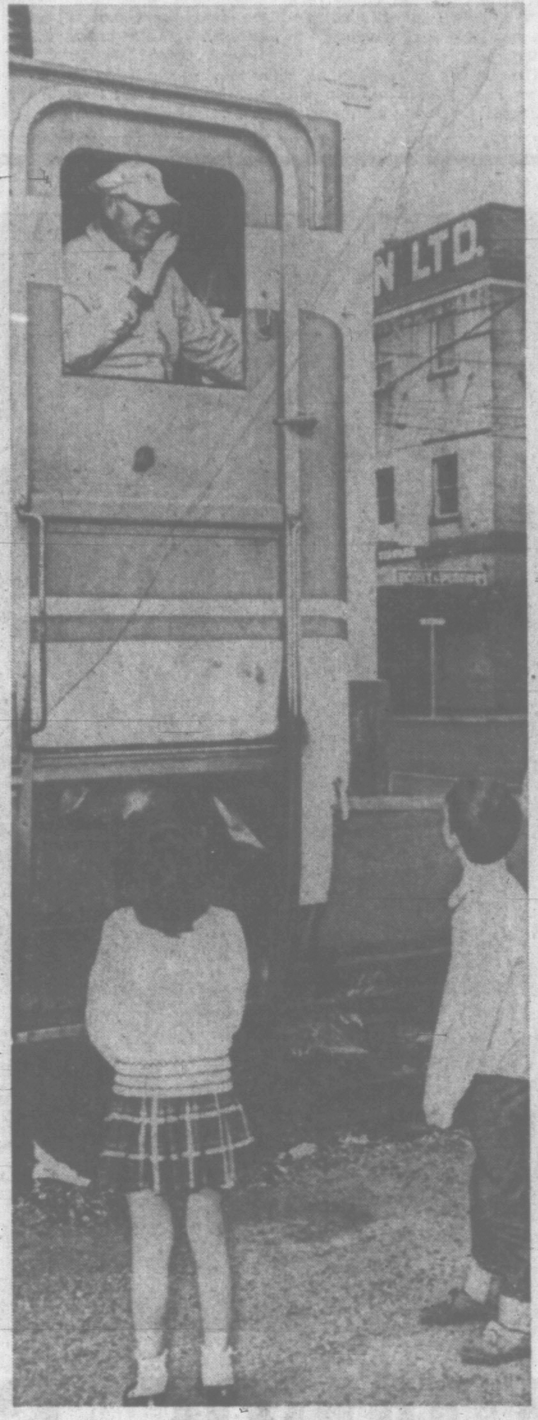
"What about a lined sheepskin coat? They're only $79.50."

You are familiar, I imagine, with that 'only,' the weasel word of the eager juvenile. Parents become so allergic to it that merely to hear it spoken releases an extra jolt of adrenalin into their bloodstreams.

This, however, was no juvenile, not any more, and as we promptly learned, his intent was to give, not get.

We won't take him up on his offer. A new young teacher has plentiful needs of his own to fill. Still, it leaves us with the good feeling which is one of parenthood's ultimate rewards.

They grow up. Even if you would, you can't stop them. But the new horizons are no less pleasing.



Engineer Willey Greeted at the End of the Line

WHEELS GRIND TO HALT

By GLEN ALLEN

Every live-long day for nearly half a century Ernest Willey rode the main line.

Wednesday he pulled into a siding — for good.

A man who wore out railway tracks like a postman wears out shoes, Ernest Willey retired after 49 years on the E & N Victoria-Courtenay run.

Watchman of towns, guardian of rivers and forests, overseer of a whole island, he came to know every backyard, every trail, from here north.

"They could cut down a few trees and I would miss them," said Mr. Willey today, his first day in the roundhouse.

A lot of trees have been cut down and a lot of buildings have gone up in 49 years.

Ernest Willey started his life on wheels at the age of 16. After being a wiper, he was fireman, then, for 25 years, an engineer.

DAYLINER CAB

When he left his Dayliner cab for the last time Wednesday his family, wife Dorothy, daughter Mrs. Shirley Collis and her family (a son Alvin is an RCAF sergeant in France) and friends were there to meet him.

"I didn't want a fuss," he said. "None of this gold watch stuff for me."

He's going to spend his time now at his Hereward St. home in Victoria West and at a Shawnigan Lake cottage.

Both homes are well off the tracks.

"If I'm going to miss anything it will be the old steam engines and they're long gone anyway.

KEEP PUFFING

It was hard work to keep them puffing but they had a music to them."

"Those coal-burner days were the days when kids used to stand and wave."

"Now they just throw rocks."

VISITING Victoria Sept. 27 will be Ronald E. MacBeath, Dominion president of the Royal Canadian Legion. While in the city, Mr. MacBeath will lunch with Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, then be guest speaker at an all-member meeting of Vancouver Island Legion zones at Trafalgar branch, 7 to 8 p.m. During his week-long visit to the West Coast, Mr. MacBeath will speak at Vancouver, Kelowna, Abbotsford, New Westminster and Surrey-Delta.

Saanich Youth Pleads Guilty To Break-In

A 20-year-old Saanich youth making his third court appearance in three weeks pleaded guilty today to breaking into a city service station overnight.

Terrance Ryan, 647 Ralph St., also admitted causing a disturbance at a drive-in 11 days ago by swearing and using obscene language. He was jailed for a month on this charge and will be sentenced for the break-in Sept. 22.

The accusad was arrested early today after two youths were spotted near the Humber Green B-A Service Station at Douglas and Hillside.

Officers found two panes had been smashed in a door and the cash register had been dumped on the floor but nothing had been taken.

TWO SUSPECTS

The pair fled when they saw the police cruiser. Two suspects were arrested by other officers a short time later.

"It's clearly no use fining you," Magistrate Ostler told Ryan after hearing he had been fined $50 and $75 for two recent convictions for causing a desturbance.

Court was told the accused had taken a hamburger from a counter at the A and W Drive-In, 3335 Douglas on Sept. 4, then swore at a waitress and the manager when questioned. Ryan threatened to return to the drive-in the following week and shoot the manager.

Police also arrested a 16-year-old in connection with the overnight service station break-in and he will appear in juvenile court.

BEGINNING OF END?

Mayor Nudges Health Board

Victoria took its second firm step towards an independent public health organization this morning.

The city's health committee endorsed a suggestion from Mayor A. W. Toone that he be appointed to act in direct liaison with the Victoria Medical Society on "matters pertaining to area health problems."

The suggestion came in the wake of a spate of criticism of the operation of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health.

Latest critics were members of the Medical Society who claimed that Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer, was attempting to duplicate or usurp the services of the Vancouver Island Speech and Hearing Assessment Group.

OBSTRUCTION

In a letter to city council the society said "the active obstruction of this group by public medical health officers is deplored ... the voluntary contributions its members (the Group) should receive co-operation rather than active obstruction from the Metropolitan Board of Health. If this attitude continues in this and other fields a great loss will be sustained by the community."

Several months ago Victoria, Esquimalt and Oak Bay served notice of intention to quit the metro organization in December of this year.

The charges at that time were that the metro board was going beyond the bounds of its authority and making a strong attempt at empire-building.

The charges have been consistently denied by Reeve Gordon Lee, Central Saanich, chairman of the board.

But this morning Mayor Toone hinted that the charge still stood and added further criticism of his own.

CO-OPERATION

"It is evident from the Medical Society protest that the board is unable to meet the needs of the community," he said. "We are going to need a great deal of co-operation from the society in the future as we plan for the community's health needs."

The remarks were construed as expressing Victoria's firm intention to withdraw entirely from the metro organization.

Dr. Whitbread came in for a second sharp rebuke during this morning's meeting.

He had applied to council for permission to attend next Tuesday's annual meeting of the British Columbia Associated Boards of Health in Penticton.

Permission was denied.

HEALTH BOARDS

Earlier this week at the monthly meeting of the metro board a resolution was endorsed calling for the associated boards to establish a committee to review legislation regarding the establishment and administration policies of health boards throughout the province.

The resolution, to be introduced by Greater Victoria delegates to the one-day convention, is in direct contravention of a request made to the board earlier by Victoria council.

That request ordered the board, financed by Greater Victoria municipalities to concentrate on health work and leave legislative matters to municipal councils.

At that time the board was reminded that it was "the child of the municipalities, not the parent."

"In essence this resolution is doing exactly what the council asked it not to do," said city manager Dennis Young. "We asked them quite clearly not to get involved in matters outside their jurisdiction."

Ald. Clyde Savage asked if Dr. Whitbread would have been given permission to attend the conference if the earlier resolution had not been endorsed by a majority of board members.

"He has not attended these conferences before," replied Mr. Young. "I don't think he could gain too much from it anyway."

Sweet Adelines Form Here

Female barbershop quartets will soon be heard in Victoria.

They will be part of an international organization known as Sweet Adelines—women who enjoy singing for pleasure in four-part barbershop harmony.

A Victoria chapter of Sweet Adelines will be formed at the home of Mrs. Jay Galbraith, 199 Island Highway, at 2:30 p.m. Saturday.

MOST HUNTERS were bringing home venison but two young Victoria hunters, Larry Parker and Rick Bell bagged a cougar on the Malahat Wednesday. Rick's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Bell, 609 Lambie, posed with the pussycat today. The hunters plan to have the head mounted.

DEER KILLERS BEAT '65 MARK

Between Victoria and Campbell River some 3,000 hunters killed 514 deer in the first weekend of the hunting season.

Figures were released Wednesday by Don Blood, regional game biologist, Nanaimo.

He said the statistics were available from eight Island checkpoints.

Mr. Blood said: "Hunter success was much better than last year, and in many areas it was twice as good."

He said: "Hunter success in the order of 20 to 25 per cent in a buck-only season can be considered very good indeed.

Total deer kill on the first hunting weekend was: Campbell River 207; Wolf Lake 24; Alberni 33; Northwest Bay 33; Copper Canyon (Chemainus) 49; Cowichan Valley 137; and Victoria (Sooke) 31.

At the same time the 2,903 hunters who passed through the checkpoints bagged 334 grouse.

Mr. Blood said: "The checkpoints are to assess the buck harvest and collect essential management information."

One Big Chamber Plan Catches Fire

Union of all Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce groups into a single organization is being studied by the incoming executive of Victoria Chamber.

The suggestion, made at the chamber's annual meeting Wednesday by Mayor A. W. Toone, was applauded today by president Courtney Haddock.

"Absolutely excellent. Tops," Mr. Haddock said.

"I think Reeve Curtis of Saanich has been mooting this for some time. It is one of the first things the Chamber of Commerce executive will study," the president said.

It was his view that ultimately the southern end of Vancouver Island might be united by a single chamber, although this has never been discussed and he wanted to have a chance to talk it over with other chamber groups before it becomes a serious prospect.

ACT TOGETHER

"But certainly Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt should act together," he said.

Mayor Toone Wednesday night cited the benefits achieved in Victoria city with Chamber of Commerce support — downtown paint-up, urban renewal programs, Centennial and Bastion Squares and underground wiring.

"Which, incidentally, could be extended to other parts of the city," he added.

"Without such organization as this, the city would stagnate," he told his audience at the Red Lion Hotel in Saanich.

LIKE TEA BAGS

"Am I too bold to suggest you should be the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce?" he said as businessmen from the capital region and the reeves of Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt listened.

"People are like tea bags — they don't know their own strength until they get into hot water," the mayor said.

He looked forward to "many more years of co-operating with the chamber."

Retiring president R. J. Bower paid tribute to the mayor's role in ending a "sort of state of undeclared war" existing for years between labor and the chamber.

After a meeting in the mayor's office early in his term a new line of communication between business and organized labor was established, providing a "new peace or tolerance on the labor-management front which we hope will extend to the community at large," Mr. Bower said.

COMMUNICATION

This had underlined a basic problem in Canada, the lack of communication between people.

He said similar improvement of relations on the national scale would be a fine centennial gift to the country.

Mr. Bower urged the chamber to undertake an in-depth study of the value of tourism to Victoria.

All businessmen pay lip service to the industry, he said, but few facts are known about it.

HONKY TONK

Mr. Bower said proper study would show how tourism could be developed while preventing Victoria "from becoming a honky tonk type of town," and how best to finance a visitor's bureau.

Incoming president Haddock, manager of Woodward's Mayfair, and vice-president William Armstrong, manager of Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, were installed by Mr. Justice Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake.

Ask The Times

Q. When did a Bennett government first get a clear majority and what were the standings? J.C.

A. The vote that gave Premier Bennett a majority government was held in the summer of 1953. Of 48 seats in the house, Social Credit won 28, CCF took 14, the Liberals had 4, and Progressive-Conservatives and Labor had one each. Social Credit had formed a minority government the year before.

Q. My daughter is marrying a man from the town of Macon in the United States. Where is it, how big is it and how is the name pronounced? B.M.N.

A. Macon (pronounced May'con) is a town of 80,000 at the head of the Ocmulgee River in the centre of Georgia, about equidistant from Atlanta and Savannah. It was formerly a cotton centre, and is now of general commercial and industrial importance.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Mt. Douglas Fire Suspects Remanded

Two 13-year-old boys charged in connection with the Mount Douglas fire last week had their cases remanded when they appeared in juvenile court today.

They will face delinquency charges in the closed court next Wednesday.

A bush fire which broke out nine days ago burned about 100 acres of parkland.

Leaving Scene Proves Costly

A 65-year-old carpenter who admitted leaving the scene of an auto accident on Cadboro Bay Road Sept. 1 was fined a total of $450 in court today.

Gordon Roberts, 3915 Cadboro Bay Road, pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the accident scene and to driving while his right to obtain a driving licence was under suspension.

Court was told accused gave a false name and address to the other driver in the accident before he drove off because he had no insurance. He admitted two previous convictions for impaired driving, one of which had resulted in his licence suspension.

Roberts was fined $300 on the first charge, $150 on the second and barred from driving anywhere in Canada for three years.

Canopy Pipes Not Playing Council's Song

Merchants on the 700 Block Yates Street will be ordered to remove piped music amplifiers from the steel canopy covering the south sidewalk.

The decision was made this morning by the Victoria finance committee.

It gave W. G. Smith, a retired contractor, at least a partial victory in his fight to ban piped music from city streets.

Mr. Smith picketed Yates Street for several days last month protesting that the continuous stream of music was an infringement of his rights.

But the victory may be only short-lived.

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady pointed out to the committee that though music could be construed as noise and therefore banned from city streets under the municipal act, such a law would be impossible to enforce.

"The prosecutor in such a case would be faced with the responsibility of proving that the music was a nuisance," he said. And it could still be played from doorways.

"And this is what you end up with", explains a mill supervisor to the students.

'CANADA AHEAD OF WEST INDIES'

Visiting Unionist Likes It Here

An international group of union leaders took a peek into the workings of a Victoria plywood plant Wednesday.

And they liked what they saw.

Said Cleve Butler, of Dominica, British West Indies: "The setup in Canada is ahead of our own country — both industrially and unionwise."

Cleve is one of 50 foreign unionists taking advantage of the federal government-sponsored Colombo plan tour.

Twelve of the students visited the B.C. Forest Products plant in Victoria as part of their 5½-month Labor Leadership course.

It was one of many such tours throughout the country, including a copper mine and a logging camp in B.C.

Among the group were representatives from Kenya, Guyana, the West Indies and South America.

Heading the tour is Bill Gauld, general representative of the Canadian Labour Congress.

In addition to studying industry and Canada's union setup, the students spend two months at McGill University's labor college in Montreal.

While they enjoy the pace of Montreal they all agreed on one thing — the weather's much better in the west.

Keep China 'Alive' With This Organizer

By Penny Saver

The climax to one of my tea parties came while I was cleaning the dishes. I was stacking saucers neatly in a crammed cupboard and hanging the cups on those little hooks. Not watching what I was doing, I bumped the stack of saucers and knocked a few cups off their hooks on the rebound. As a result, my china collection has diminished considerably. I tried a set of plastic cups and saucers on two good friends of mine, but the outcome was not very promising. My set consists of square cups, and judging by the comments, they're quite awkward to drink from.

Now I'm on a frantic search for more china. I found an item that has careless people like me in mind when it comes to preserving the lifetime of delicate cups, saucers and plates. It's a double-decker cabinet organizer.

This consists of two cylinders nine and one-half inches in diameter. Both rotate on a turntable. The top part of this device is for stacking plates or saucers, and the lower part is for hanging cups.

This provides safe storage for eight plates or more. Cups can be removed with ease. Another feature is that this takes up so little space in your cupboard. It stands only six-and-one-quarter inches high. Price is $3.49.

Coffee parties are a big social event in our neighborhood. On our block, we all take turns entertaining the "clan" for mid-morning coffee break.

The latest accessories to my coffee-party equipment include a large ceramic coffee pot. This earthenware pot keeps coffee hot for ages. At $12.50, this coffee pot is ideal for using at parties or as a gift item.

Sets of ceramic cups and saucers sell in this shop for $3.95. Use these for exotic teas or for everyday use. If you're like me, there's nothing like a good old mug. Tall, clay mugs, glazed, with strong grip-handles, are priced at $1.50 each. Start collecting now.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Dowager's Hump Most Usual of Figure Defects

Lowman

The spine has a tendency to settle and shorten as the years pass. Add to this the tendency of humans to give in to gravity, fatigue, and careless posture, and you have a kettle of figure defects. One of the most usual ones is a so-called dowager's hump. You know, that bump at the base of the neck.

Many women who have a straight back, no round shoulders or protruding abdomen have this figure fault. They "give in" at the back of the neck with their chin leading the way to a dowager's hump. This defect sneaks up on women who are otherwise careful about and interested in their posture. When sitting or driving a car, it is almost certain to happen unless you deliberately guard against it.

This is perhaps one of the most usual and most aging of all those defects you would like to skip. If it has already slipped up on you, try the following techniques. In the first place check yourself many times a day when standing or sitting. Be sure that you stretch the back of your neck by holding your chin parallel to the floor, then try these exercises.

1. Stand with your back to the wall, hips, shoulders and the back of your head touching the wall. Be sure that your chin is parallel to the floor. Keeping the chin in this position, and the back of your head still on the wall, push up toward the ceiling with the top of your head. Hold the stretch for a few moments. Relax and continue.

2. While sitting, place your hands on the back of your head and interlace your fingers. Pull back with your head and resist with your hands. Be sure that your chin is parallel to the floor when you do this. Hold the stretch for a few moments. Relax. Repeat five times.

If you would like to have my "Isometric Exercises" which I selected especially for women send 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

OkanaganHoneymoon Follows City Wedding

Following their recent wedding in Christian Reformed Church, Mr. and Mrs. William Spyksma left on honeymoon to Prince Rupert and the Okanagan.

The bride, the former Jacoba Maryke Bomhof, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Bomhof, 4353 Wilkinson Road, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. Spyksma, 630 Agnes Street.

Rev. D. Pierik officiated. The church was decorated with arrangements of gladioli and chrysanthemums in white tones.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin. The bodice featured a round neckline and sleeves ending in lily points. Her detachable train extended from two bridal bows. A white tulle rose held her two-tier, shoulder-length veil. She carried pink delight roses, stephanotis and miniature ivy in her cascade bouquet.

Miss Margaret Bomhof was maid of honor for her sister. Her gown of shocking pink satin was styled similarly to that of the bride. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink delight roses, white carnations, and white heather. Her headpiece was pink tulle petals.

Junior bridesmaid was the bride's sister, Miss Christina Bomhof. Her empire gown was of the same shocking pink satin, with a circlet of ribbon at the waist. Her headpiece was similar to the maid of honor's. Both wore crystal necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Robert Spyksma was best man. Ushering guests were Bill Bomhoff, Hans Bomhoff and Wernart Van Deventer.

At the reception following in the Gay Nineties Banquet Room of the Colonial Inn, the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake which was made by the groom's mother. J. Post proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling on honeymoon, the new Mrs. Spyksma chose an Italian knit suit in black and plum plaid, complemented by black patent accessories and black whimsie.

When they return, the couple will live at 801 Vernon Avenue.

WALLER-CLUTESI VOWS

Jewelled Lace Is Accent On Dainty Organza Gown

An overlay of jewelled lace highlighted the gown of silk organza over taffeta, worn by Carol Margaret Clutesi when she became the bride of Herbert Rodger Waller. The gown, styled along classic lines, featured a fitted bodice with a sabrina neckline. The elbow-length sleeves were of the same jewelled lace. Her train of matching lace extended back from the waist. Her veil of Mantilla lace misted to shoulder-length and she carried a bouquet of talisman roses.

Rev. G. H. Faraday officiated at the double-ring ceremony in the Church of St. Andrews, Canadian Forces Base, Esquimalt, uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Clutesi of Alberni and the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Waller, Moose Jaw, Sask. The church was decorated with baskets of white and yellow gladioli for the ceremony. Mr. Clutesi gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Irene Foster was the bride's only attendant. Her apricot-toned dress featured a bell-shaped skirt. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of tangerine carnations.

Doug Schulties was best man. Ushering guests was George Clutesi Jr., Daryl de Goesbriand was ring bearer.

At the reception following in the home of the bride's brother, George Clutesi, the newlyweds cut a three-tier wedding cake that was decorated with white and yellow roses. Telegrams were read from the groom's parents, and from Miss Pat Lebald in Rome. Hugh Watts proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple is now living at 490 Sturdie Street, following their honeymoon trip to the Okanagan and Saskatchewan. For travelling, the new Mrs. Waller chose a salmon pink suit with beige lace trim, complemented with beige accessories.

THE KIANI CROWN, used by the Qajar dynasty, was made in Iran in 1793. It is studded with diamonds, emeralds and Oriental pearls. The present Shah wears the Pahlavi Crown.

LUM-LOUIE MARRIAGE

A white lace dress and coat ensemble was worn by Susan Moi Louie, recently, when she became the bride of Michael Kum Yew Lum. Accenting her outfit was a gold chain, the groom's gift, and a pendant and ring, a gift of her mother. A corsage of red roses complemented her outfit.

Rev. Ha officiated at the ceremony in the Chinese Penticostal Church, uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Yee Yin Louie, 2618 Blanshard Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sin Hee Lum of China. Mr. Louie gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's attendant, Miss Lynn Slater, wore a pink suit accented by white accessories and carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

Yuen W. Mow was best man.

Vases of pink and white carnations decorated Ming's Kitchen for the reception which followed. Wayne Mew proposed the toast to the bride and Lynn Slater proposed the toast to the groom.

Fulfilling a Chinese custom, guests shared the bridal tea with the newlyweds in their home on Victor Street following the dinner.

For travelling on honeymoon to San Francisco, Calif., the new Mrs. Lum chose a pink suit with a white hat and white accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley O'Donnell, of Fort Smith, N.W.T., have announced the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Geraldine Alfreda, to Mr. Brian David Carmichael, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. David D. Carmichael, 1931 Mayfair Drive. The wedding will take place on Saturday, October 8, at 2 p.m., in St. George the Martyr Church. Canon George Biddle will officiate. (Mr. Carmichael's photo by Craftsmen, Prince George.)

Belonged to Bride's Great-Grandmother

HEIRLOOM BROOCH AS TALISMAN

Her great-grandmother's pearl and amethyst brooch was "something old" for Anne Heather Clayton when she became the bride of Kenneth Bruce Lawley in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. The bodice and lily point sleeves of her floor-length gown of white silk faille were accented with lace, touched with seed pearl embroidery. The skirt was en train. A seed pearl coronet held her veil, which had been worn by her mother at her wedding. White gladioli formed her cascade bouquet.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Clayton, 2538 Killarney Place, and Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Lawley, 1928 Ashgrove Street. Mr. Clayton gave his daughter in marriage.

Dr. J. L. W. McLean officiated at the evening service. The Communion table was decked with white candles in candelabra and an arrangement of pastel-toned chrysanthemums. During the signing of the register, C. C. Warren played Chopin's Nocturne No. 9, Opus 2, and Bach's "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring."

Floor-length gowns of turquoise taffeta, fashioned on empire lines with chiffon "birdcage" overskirts, were the choice of maid of honor, Miss Lynda Brand, and bridesmaid, Miss Valerie Ford. Debbie Neal and Dawna Brand were flower girls in floor-length frocks of the same material, accented with white lace. All had toning tulle veils, held in place by floral coronets, and carried colonial carnation bouquets.

Bill Anderson was best man and ushering guests were Ken Kidd, Guy Anderson and Ian Fraser.

Ivor G. Guthrie, Vancouver, proposed the toast to his niece's happiness at the reception, held in the War Amputations Hall. Candles flanked the three-tier wedding cake which had been made by the bride's mother.

Mrs. Guthrie also attended the wedding. Other out-of-town guests were Mrs. Ann Antoski and Larry Antoski, both of Hamilton, Ont., and Clyde Beatty, Prince George.

Leaving on a honeymoon trip up-Island, the bride donned a white and yellow boucle dress and coat ensemble, complemented with toning accessories. The newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

Sum of $1,300 Realized

Salt Spring Island residents turned out in force, many before the doors were opened, for the annual rummage sale under the sponsorship of the Women's Auxiliary to the Lady Minto Gulf Islands Hospital. The successful affair was held in Mahon Hall at Ganges and realized $1,300.

Conveners were Mrs. Ernie Booth and Mrs. E. A. Jarman. Henry Giegerich made the quilt which was won by Mrs. Anna Thompson in a raffle convened by Mrs. P. H. Lazenby. A doll, dressed by Mrs. R. T. Cook, and doll's furniture went to Mrs. S. A. Thompson and an electric blanket was won by Mrs. H. W. Harris.

GYMNASTICS FOR GRACE

TORONTO (CP) — Gymnastics is the activity for girls who want grace, charm and poise, says the coach of the Canadian women's gymnastics team which left Monday for world championships in Dortmund, Germany.

"I've had girls come into Grade 9 as real ugly ducklings and leave Grade 13 poised and feminine thanks to gymnastics," Marilyn Savage of Toronto said in an interview.

"Gymnastics makes the average girl physically fit, gives her poise and helps her develop in a feminine way."

DEAR ABBY . . .

Boy Needs More Than a Friend

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and every boy I have ever liked has had a bad reputation. My family says, "Stay away from him! He is no good and everybody knows it!"

Abby, no one is perfect, and just because these guys make a mistake or two and get in trouble with the law, no matter how hard they try no one lets them forget their past.

You may ask, "Why don't you forget them and find a decent kid?" Well, I'll tell you why. I don't want a decent kid. He's got it made. His nose is clean and he has all the friends he needs because he's a "good" kid.

I want a NO GOOD kid who needs me and will appreciate my sticking by him and helping him go straight. "Bad" kids need friends more than "good" kids. Please print this. If my parents see it, it may soak in.

WANTS TO HELP

DEAR WANTS: A kid in trouble is usually a "troubled" kid. And in order for him to "go straight" he needs more then friendship. If you are truly motivated to help "bad" kids, do it right. Finish high school and then take the professional training required to become a clinical psychologist or a social worker.

Then you will be qualified to do the type of missionary work you have your heart set on. But don't, at age 15, attempt to rescue one from troubled waters, unless you yourself are an expert swimmer. You could both go under.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to this fellow who can't keep his eyes off other girls. What he does when he isn't with me can't hurt me because I don't see it, but when we are together and he stares at other girls, it hurts me. He says blondes are his weakness.

I offered to dye my hair blonde, but he says he likes me the way I am. Abby, do you think he will change after we are married? He says he will, but I don't know whether I can believe him. Any suggestion?

HURT

DEAR HURT: Take a good hard second look at this man. Don't expect him to change after marriage. Blonde-watchers usually get worse after marriage—not better.

DEAR ABBY: I just want to know if I am as "childish" as my husband makes me feel whenever I have brought up this subject. I have been married for 19 years and I still don't have an engagement ring. When we were married a ring was out of the question, but my husband is a very shrewd business man who has done extremely well over the years and he could easily afford to buy me one.

He knows how much I've wanted a diamond because I have told him, but he says it's too late for an "engagement" ring now. I would still love to have one. Thanks for letting me tell this to someone, Abby. Do you think I'm "childish"?

BARE FINGERS

DEAR BARE: No. It may be too late for an "engagement" ring, but it's never too late to give a woman something she's always yearned for. Doesn't your "shrewd" husband know that diamonds have been a man's best investment as well a girl's best friend for years!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "MUST KNOW NOW": In the eyes of the law, the common law marriage, under certain circumstances can be as legal as a formal wedding! If the relationship is given full legal recognition, the parties have full legal rights and obligations toward each other, and the common law marriage must be dissolved like any other marriage. Laws differ from state to state. Ask your lawyer to advise you.

Veteran Honored

President Mrs. W. W. Walker presented Miss Marne Hearne with a life membership in Victoria Ex-Service Women's Branch No. 182, Royal Canadian Legion, when the group held a recent meeting. Miss Hearne is well-known by veterans, having served as a nursing sister in both world wars. She belonged to the Great War Veterans Association, joining the Royal Canadian Legion when it was formed in 1925.

During the business session, the branch voted to adopt an underprivileged child or family in one of the Commonwealth countries.

It was decided to create a memorial fund in memory of former branch members who had died of cancer. The fund will be used to assist in cancer research.

Plans were finalized for the semi-annual Ex-Service Women's dance, to be held at the Britannia Hall on Saturday, Sept. 24.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Association

Often the simplest bridge hands produce some of the most violent arguments. South opened the bidding with six clubs. He ruffed the opening spade lead. Then he led a diamond to dummy's queen and a diamond back to his own king. Then he ruffed another diamond with dummy's one trump, returned to his hand with another spade ruff, drew trumps and claimed his contract.

Opening lead—♠K

How did the argument start? East mentioned something about horseshoes. South said his bid was correct. Did anyone have any complaints about the way he played the hand?

North remarked that the lay was perfect. The alternate line of play would be to run off all the trumps and then play the diamonds but that play would fail if either opponent held four diamonds and hung onto them. The play of ruffing a diamond was sure to succeed providing that diamonds broke 3-3 or 4-2. Then North wanted to know why South did not try to bid scientifically.

South said that science was a wonderful thing most of the time but freak hands called for freak action. He said: "Had I opened with one or two clubs West would surely have overcalled in spades. East would have raised him. I might have bought the hand at six. Or they could have saved in spades. They would only have been two tricks down at that contract."

We agree with South. Science is fine most of the time. Furthermore, If South had bid scientifically West might have opened a trump and six clubs would not have made.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Stephen

There are bound to be disappointments in the new shows being released this week. Two of these are "Shane" and the "Pruitts of Southampton."

The first-mentioned was a fine motion picture starring the late Alan Ladd. In its original theatre concept it was regarded as a classic in the field of western film-making.

The television version bears no resemblance to the motion picture film. Where the film built suspense upon suspense to a crashing climax, the television version built tedium ad nauseum.

The reason is that a television show can't sustain a slow-building pace as successfully as a motion picture piece.

Shane dragged its feet dismally. It was no fault of the actors, though the lead, played by 25-year-old David Carradine, son of the veteran character actor John Carradine, showed about as much emotion in his emoting as a bowlful of porridge.

* *

The pace has to be set by the writers or the hour-long feature will suffer where it hurts most, the ratings.

It demands action on a grand scale.

The Pruitts of Southampton is one of those series that has had its run in my house. The first, starring raucous-laughing Phyllis Diller, was a dilly. She is a zany character in the Lucille Ball-Carol Burnett mould, a female Groucho Marx type, and the first episode provided the format for her style of humor.

The second seen this week was the usual one-joke half-hour that was so unfunny that even the joke escapes me for all time.

* * *

The series is about a rich family who find themselves on the short-change end of the money tree.

Again, the writing will definitely have to surround the funny side of Miss Diller. She has the potential to carry a successful comedy series but until revisions are made in script the series will continue to be about as funny as a broken leg.

CBC-TV viewers will find themselves on the lucky viewing side. The "ABC-TV Stage 67" series will be seen on the network on a pre-release basis. All are in color. The first goes Monday in "Olympus 7 - 0000," an original musical for TV by Richard Adler, who wrote Damn Yankees! and The Pajama Game. Donald O'Connor will star in the hour-long feature.

ROMEO! ROMEO! BALCONY OPEN WINDING STAIRCASE 4 BEDROOMS 3 BATHROOMS

Colonial charm in the heart of Fairfield is often sought, seldom found. Surrounded by rose bushes and velvety green lawns with a coachmans Driveway drawn under the tall white sunporch balcony supported by the huge pillars and sheltering the broad brick stairs leading to the heavy front door sits this fine bleach white stucco home. First sight of the home started my imagination wandering to a moonlit night with the lovely Juliette in a long white lace gown silhouetted on the balcony with her lover Romeo beneath saying "Oh jealous moon!" Not charming, captivating, is the word for the large foyer into which with a broad sweep descends the staircase from the second floor. To the left three large rooms open to view. The large separate dining room through double glass doors opens into the large fireplaced living room and adjoining den which may be incorporated permanently with the living room or opened occasionally to accomodate a large party of friends. The kitchen, bright and sunny, overlooks the lush rear garden and is only a step from the two-entrance 4-pce bathroom leading to large main floor bedroom. Two or three bedrooms upstairs are large and comfortable and are serviced by full bathroom. Got a Granny? Suite in basement is complete and fully furnished at this price with kitchenette, bath, living room and bedroom. Exciting isn't it. This is simply too good to miss, call me now and view it today.

Talking Stick Presented To New President

John V. Keaney of Portland, Maine, was elected president of the International Association of Industrial Accident Boards and Commissions at its 52nd annual meeting Wednesday night.

He succeeds J. E. Eades of Vancouver.

At the association's annual banquet, Mr. Eades presented a five-foot-long talking stick to Mr. Keaney. It was made by UBC totem carver Doug Cranmer.

The talking stick is a symbol of authority used by the Indians to give the floor to whoever is holding it.

Ralph E. Gintz of Madison, Wis., and Roscoe Lowery of Atlanta, Ga., were elected vice-presidents.

Dr. Donald H. Williams, head of the department of continuing medical education at UBC, said claims for compensation for skin diseases contracted on the job now rival claims for back injuries.

Sir Robert Micklethwait, chief national insurance commissioner for Great Britain, told of the great strides made in workmen's compensation since the 1880s.

Candidate Killed

STANLEY, Idaho (AP) — Idaho's Democratic nominee for governor, Charles Herndon, was killed on a political campaign flight over the wilderness area of central Idaho Wednesday.

Smith's back to the wall. The communique stated Britain would lay down its ultimatum to Smith. If he refused, Britain would drop any possibility of a settlement involving independence before majority rule. It stated that if given the full support of the Commonwealth representatives, Britain would be prepared in sponsoring at the UN "before the end of this year" a resolution providing for effective and selected mandatory sanctions.

LOOPHOLE

Some immediately detected a possible loophole here — Britain backing out of this if it had even support of one other member — but it would mean just about finis for the Commonwealth if tried. These sanctions would include a clamp down on exports from Rhodesia of asbestos, chrome pig iron and other materials.

The communique also stated that Britain would not consent to independence before majority rule unless the people of Rhodesia as a whole were shown to be in favor of it. And this time there was no timetable tied to the processes to be taken, other than the end-of-the-year stipulation for a possible negotiated settlement.

The communique stated the ministers would meet again "soon" if the regime was not brought down speedily.

"Soon" was interpreted by many to mean the spring. The communique also said there was agreement to further help Zambia cut off the imports she still receives from Rhodesia out of necessity, and that similar consideration be given to help Malawi.

Pearson later commented later that the significance of the communique was that it existed at all.

He said he was convinced the British would do everything they could to bring the rebel regime to an end, but in a way that would not ruin the chances of a co-operative, multi-racial future for Rhodesia.

DRIVE AWAY LIBERALS

Wilson had argued throughout the conference that a firm [illegible] of independence before [illegible] would drive away more liberal Rhodesians who could be expected to participate in an interim government in a period of direct rule that would follow the downfall of Smith. Pearson, who acted in the role of mediator throughout, also tried to soften the strident African demand for immediate government on a one-man, one-vote basis.

The London Times today said credit must be given where due to Pearson for "a triumph of drafting." The Manchester Guardian stated: "The personal diplomacy of the Canadian prime minister, Mr. Lester Pearson, appears to have been the lifeline that held the Commonwealth together and produced the near-miracle and agreed communique on Rhodesia in London last night."

First reaation from political observers in Rhodesia meanwhile, was that Wilson's conditions for a negotiated settlement were impossible and that Smith could never agree to abandon the independence he seized and allow British-appointed Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs to appoint a "legal" government and take over the police and armed forces.

Smith has stressed a resolute line in his recent speeches, and warned that the more Rhodesia is threatened the more defiant she will become.

Talk of declaring a republic is growing again, with government supporters claiming cutting the final ties with Britain would make it easier for other countries — and also the Rhodesian courts — to recognize the Smith's white-minority regime.

PREPARING for today's session of the federal-provincial fiscal conference in Ottawa, Quebec Premier Johnson, right, and Finance Minister Dozois are engrossed in French-language newspaper whose front page headlines read "equality or independence".

By DON McLEOD

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Byelections scheduled Monday in two of Newfoundland's seven federal electoral districts, overshadowed recently by the provincial election Sept. 8, will be the first voting test for Prime Minister Pearson's minority Liberal government since the last general election.

The byelections were called Aug. 1 after one of the seven Liberals elected from Newfoundland in the general election Nov. 8, 1965 resigned, bringing vacancies in the House of Commons to four—including two Newfoundland seats.

The first vacancy was created when Clemente Vincent, a Progressive Conservative, resigned in Quebec's Nicolet - Tamaska district to run for the Union Nationale party in the last Quebec provincial election. He now is agriculture minister for that province.

The death Aug. 31 of Alexis Caron, Liberal member for Hull, created a second vacancy. No byelection has been called yt.

Prime Minister Pearson named Liberal Chesley Carter to the Senate in July, after Mr. Carter had held Newfoundland's Burin-Burgeo district since Confederation in 1949.

Charles R. Granger, veteran Liberal member for the geographically - huge district of Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador, quit his Commons seat to become Newfoundland's first minister of Labrador affairs. He was elected legislature member for Gander last week.

Five candidates are in the running for the two Newfoundland seats. Campaigning has been relatively quiet, with only a handful of public meetings, practically no television speeches and an absence of heated issues.

APPEAR TOGETHER

Several joint platform appearances were made by provincial and federal candidates during the three-week campaign that netted Premier Smallwood's Liberals 39 of Newfoundland's 42 legislature seats and reduced the Conservative opposition to three members.

Liberal candidate Andrew Chatwood in Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador, 34, is personnel superintendent with a mining company in western Labrador. He is opposed by Progressive Conservative Thomas Pitcher, 44, of Grand Falls, unsuccessful PC candidate in the same district last November, and Lorne Snell, also employed with a mining company in Labrador, who is running for the New Democratic Party.

Seeking the Burin - Burgeo seat are broadcasting executive Don Jamieson, 44, for the Liberals, and Eric Hiscock, 45, who was defeated in that district last November as a Social Credit candidate and now is running as a Progressive Conservative. He is an insurance underwriter here.

IN VIET NAM

Church Lashes U.S. 'Atrocities'

By NEIL LOUTTIT

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—The general council of the United Church of Canada Wednesday condemned the war in Viet Nam and also approved a motion to use force if necessary to topple the white - supremacist Smith regime in Rhodesia.

On Viet Nam, the council urged the Canadian government to make further statements opposing escalation of the war.

It asked that the three-coun[illegible] Control Commission, of which Canada is a member, be used to seek a Viet Nam peace conference based on recent proposals made by United Nations Secretary-General U Thant.

The council extended its sympathy to the people of Viet Nam and expressed anguish for "atrocities" inflicted by the Viet Cong and by United States use of napalm bombs, crop destruction and defoliation.

A resolution expressed "deep moral anguish" at the use by both sides "of those tactics and weapons which cause indiscriminate mutilation, death and destruction."

HELP BOTH SIDES

The council agreed to send food and medical aid to both North and South Viet Nam through the World Council of Churches, the International Red Cross and the Canadian Friends (Quakers) Service Committee.

On Rhodesia, it called for extension of the United Nations charter to stop South Africa from undermining economic sanctions imposed against the Smith government.

"If all else fails, Canada would support the use of necessary police action under the United Nations," the resolution said.

At a press conference following Wednesday's sessions, Rev. J. R. Hord of Toronto, secretary of the international affairs committee, said there would be a great difference between using force in Rhodesia and the current war in Viet Nam.

"The war in Viet Nam is the dirtiest war in history," he said. "Ian Smith declared an illegal government in Rhodesia which especially irritates some of the black leaders there."

CALLS ELECTION 'SHAM'

Rev. M. D. Boulger of Bella-Coola, B.C., termed Saturday's general election in Viet Nam a "sham" and urged that both sides meet to settle the war.

Rev. B. G. Smillie of Saskatoon described U.S. allies in Viet Nam—Australia, New Zealand, South Korea, Formosa and the Philippines—"economic satellites of the U.S."

A resolution asking the Vatican to help United Church missionaries get into Angola was also approved by the council.

The Portuguese government, which controls the southeastern African country, does not allow missionaries to return to the country once they have left. The council hopes to overcome this obstacle by working with the Roman Catholic Church.

The council passed temperance resolutions reiterating the United Church stand opposing liquor advertising, calling for nationalization of the alcohol industry and urging provinces not to lower drinking ages.

GORDON:

Medicare To Proceed On Time

WINNIPEG (CP) — Former finance minister Walter Gordon said Wednesday there will be pressure within the federal Liberal party to proceed with medical care insurance legislation this fall.

Mr. Gordon said he was certain some Liberal MPs will "urge strongly that it be proceeded with this fall."

He said the legislation should be brought before Parliament this fall and should be passed and put into operation when approved by a certain number of the provinces.

NOT INFLATIONARY

Mr. Gordon said he didn't think medical care insurance would create inflationary pressures.

Mr. Gordon replied with a blunt "no" when asked if he would seek the national Liberal leadership should Prime Minister Pearson retire.

Mr. Gordon said he welcomes U.S. capital for Canadian development, but in the form of bonds, debentures and equities associated with Canadian ownership.

"I just want to see us retain our ownership."

Students on Rampage

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A mob of 600 rampaging Buenos Aires university students pitched rocks and fire bombs at hard-pressed riot police Wednesday night in a fresh outbreak of anti-government violence in troubled Argentina.

No Float For Grey Cup

Victoria will not have a float in this year's Grey Cup parade in Vancouver.

The city's finance committee turned down a bid by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to enter the float in the pre-game highjinks.

Cost of the project was estimated at $4,000—too high a price for the city to pay.

It was noted that the float had already appeared in May 24 parade in Victoria, the Seattle Seafair parade and the PNE parade.

City manager Dennis Young said that on its return from the PNE the float was in such poor shape that it was dismantled and stored in the public works department yards.

"I should point out, however, that it has never been the practice to enter the same float in two parades in the same city," he said.

Cost of a new float would be $?,500 plus the $500 for transportation. The committee dropped the matter.

Beach Log Blaze Proves Stubborn

City firemen took about an hour to douse a beach fire early today.

They were called to the blaze among logs on the east side of Clover Point at 5:30 a.m.

Operation Saturday On Siamese Twins

TORONTO (CP) — An operation to attempt the separation of the McGee Siamese twins will be performed Saturday, the Hospital for Sick Children said in a statement today.

"The general condition of the McGee twins has become less satisfactory," the statement said.

"The steady weight gain that previously indicated continual improvement has slowed down, and they are now more easily fatigued by routine daily functions, such as feeding, baths, etc.

"For this reason it is felt the operation should be carried out without further delay."

Earlier in the week, it was thought the operation originally set for mid-September may be delayed due to the position of the twins' hearts.

"A condition that originally looked correctable may be insurmountable at the time of the operation," the earlier statement said.

"Early in the investigation of the McGee twins it was established they had separate hearts that were contained in a common pericardial sac," the hospital said. "The hearts, instead of lying in the normal vertical axis of the body, are placed horizontally, side by side, the heart of each baby protruding into the chest of the other."

Despite the danger of the operation, neither twin will live if it is not attempted, the statement said.

The McGee twins, Sherry Ann and Crystal Ann, were born in Guelph June 2 and shared a weight of nearly 15 pounds. They are joined together from chest to navel.

AFRICAN TOUR, including a visit to rebel Rhodesia, will be made by British deputy Conservative leader Reginald Maudling. Leaving Saturday Maudling will make a two-week trip "to assess the position following the Commonwealth prime ministers' conferencec."

Skillings May Consider Stepping Down

Victoria Socred MLA Waldo Skillings said Wednesday he would consider stepping down to make way for nomination of Attorney-General Robert Bonner in a byelection.

Mr. Bonner, defeated by Liberal Garde Gardom in Vancouver-Point Grey Monday, has been offered four areas in which to run to regain a seat in the legislature.

"I have always been a team man and if the premier asked me to step down I'd take it under advisement," Mr. Skillings said.

"But after going through the nominating convention I'm rather loath to make any hasty decisions. Meanwhile, no one has approached me."

Skillings' Victoria seat is considered a safe one as he was elected with a majority of more than 6,000 votes.

Provincial Socreds meet here next week after the premier's return from Ottawa to plan strategy.

There had been a suggestion Conservatives would be interested in putting up a strong candidate if a vacancy occurs in the riding.

But Judy Creighton, president of Young Conservative Association, said the Tories have no intention of running in a Victoria byelection.

Ont. Forecast: Dry

TORONTO (UPI) — Toronto beer drinkers are preparing for a dry weekend as a wildcat strike by brewers' warehousing company truck drivers and store employees threatens to close hotel beverage rooms. The company is the sole supply outlet for licensed establishments

Stewardess Had Gems

ROME (AP)—Italian customs police said Wednesday they found $140,000 worth of emeralds and rubies hidden in the baggage of an airline hostess after she stepped off her East Africa Airlines plane from Nairobi. The hostess was identified as Annamaria Kreiger, 37, a native of Dresden, Germany.

Cheque Bounces

Stella Larson, 2541 Empire, was fined $50 on a charge of false pretences when she appeared in central court Wednesday.

She pleaded guilty to getting goods and cash totalling $24 from Canada Safeway, 1600 Hillside, July 22, with a worthless cheque.

Three other charges against her were dismissed.

By RALPH DIGHTON

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — A submarine without engine or propeller — silent as a fish and as hard to detect — is undergoing tests that could change the way men ply the oceans.

The unmanned EMS-1, 10 feet long and 18 inches in diametre, slips through the water of Santa Barbara harbor as if moved by magic.

EMS stands for electromagnetic submarine. The vessel moves forward by pushing the water surrounding it to the rear, employing electromagnetic forces generated by a system of batteries, electrodes and a coil.

EMS-1 belongs to the University of California at Santa Barbara. A group of engineering students built the 9000-pound vessel in less than three months for less than $1,500 under the guidance of Dr. Steward Way, professor of mechanical engineering. Shortly after the EMS-1 made its first successful run in July, Dr. Way left for a post with a major electrical firm.

His successor, Prof. Charles Devlin, says as far as he knows the EMS-1 is the world's first electromagnetically-propelled submarine.

Devlin explained the operation at a recent demonstration, in which the craft moved silently three feet below the surface at a speed of two miles an hour. Only a stabilizer, corresponding to the conning tower of conventional submarines, extended above the water.

Guide Ship

"We can't let this model go any deeper because it has to be turned on and off by swimmers with a manual switch on top of the stabilizer," Devlin said. "submerging all the way would short the switch. If the switch were protected such a craft could go down to any depth its hull was designed to withstand."

Its student-builders swam with the sleek, white craft, steering it by moving its rudder with their hands. Later they plan to install remote controls.

Inside the vessel are five six-volt batteries of the type that power golf carts. They are connected to a four-foot-long coil containing a half-mile of aluminum wire. When the current is turned on, the coil creates a magnetic field, with invisible lines of force encircling the vessel.

The craft also has two metal strips along its sides which act as electrodes. When the current is on, they generate an electrical field around the EMS-1. Its lines of force also are invisible.

At countles points, the two types of force lines intersect in the water surrounding the vessel. A law of electricity states that whenever such lines intersect, thrust is created at right angles to the lines. The thurst pushes against the water outside the craft. The water is forced backward and the submarine moves forward.

Salt Water Better

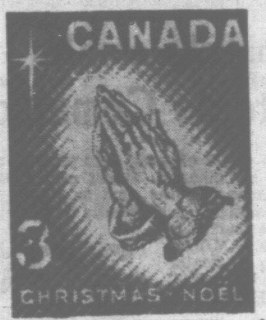
"The EMS-1 works best in the ocean because salt water is a better conductor than fresh water," Devlin said. "The principle would work in any medium that will conduct electricity — fresh water or even air — but the amount of power needed to generate fields of force makes it impractical except in salt water."

Devlin said studies made by Dr. Way indicated that a submarine large enough to be useful as a military or commercial cargo carrier, powered by electricity from nuclear reactor instead of barteries, could cruise at 20 knots under water.

"This could eventually revolutionize shipping," he said. "Submersibles of almost any size could span the oceans, far below the turbulence of surface storms and unseen from the air. They would be much more efficient than conventional submarines because they have no propeller drag."

Craft modelled after the EMS-1 would be hard to detect at effective distances.

Students who have swum beside EMS-1 say its electrical field makes their skin tingle. But since the lines of force are not felt inside the submarine, it could safely carry men.



THIS REPRODUCTION of Praying Hands, a famous drawing by Albrecht Luerer, a 15th century German Renaissance artist, has been adapted by the post office for a special Christmas stamp issue. To be released Oct. 12, the stamp will come in two denominations—three and five cents, rose and orange respectively. The post office expects to sell more than 320,000,000 copies. HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Bill Huff, age 11, of Sarasota, Fla., for his question:

What kind of creature is a sea cucumber?

To visit him at home, you might have to dive 1,000 feet. Down there in the blue-green water, you might mistake the sea cucumber for an overgrown caterpillar. However, he is not a caterpillar or any other insect. Neither is he a cucumber not any other member of the plant world.

When you order trepang soup in a Chinese restaurant, you will be served a tasty brew of sea cucumber. This delicate sea food also is eaten in Malaya, Australia and other regions near warm coastal waters where sea cucumbers abound. The creature's name may mislead you, for he's an animal. He is rich in body-building proteins and also minerals from the salty sea.

The sea cucumber is a marine animal of the Phylum Echinodermata — a scientific term meaning the spiny-skinned ones. The phylum is a small group, divided into only five classes. There is a class for the stubby starfishes and another for the leggy sea stars, one for the graceful sea lilies, another for the sea urchins and a class for assorted sea cucumbers.

We expect an animal to have a right and a left side, a back and a front. It is hard to imagine a sizeable creature that is not a two-sided animal. The echinoderms are a challenge to the imagination — for they are five-sided animals. This unique feature can be seen in the five arms of the starfish. In other echinoderms, such as the sea cucumber, it is concealed in the basic internal structure.

The spiny skins of the echinoderms are not always apparent either. The spikes on the living sea urchin certainly can be seen and felt. But the sea cucumber appears to be free of prickles. However, the microscope reveals that his thick skin is full of spines shaped like graceful little darts and daggers. The length of the cucumber-shaped body ranges from a few inches to two feet, depending upon species. The colors may be muddy brown, violet or crimson, and sometimes a sea cucumber seems to be made of tinted glass. His life is spent grubbing on the sea bed, and as a rule, his color blends with his background.

Lives on Marine Eggs

The sea cucumber lives on a diet of marine eggs, small fish and seaweed. His mouth is a small round hole surrounded by a fringe of tentacles. He uses the tentacles as fingers to stuff food into his mouth and often lies almost buried in the silty sand.

Starfishes and certain other echinoderms are scavengers, eager to eat anything living or dead that floats in the sea. For this reason they may not seem suitable for human food. The sea cucumber, as a rule, is more choosy. When famished, he devours sand, hoping it contains digestible scraps of food. But he certainly prefers to live on a fresh diet of live seafood along with helpings of seaweed salad.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Debora Ranck, age 12, of Van Nuys, Calif., for her question:

How wide is the mouth of the Amazon?

A river is one of the world's most wondrous creations, and the Amazon of South America is one of the world's greatest. Its source in the western Andes is fed icy waters from mountain lakes. It runs down the eastern slopes and then ambles eastward across the plains. Huge tributaries join it from the north and the south. It drains almost half of South America and carries more water than any river in the world.

After its 3,900-mile course eastward across the continent, the mighty Amazon rendezvous with the Atlantic at the equator. Here it is joined by the 40-mile wide Para, and the two rivers share the same outlet. The river mouth is a silty delta, including a flat island the size of Denmark. The total width of the delta is 207 miles, and the fresh waters of the vast river system push 300 miles out into the salty ocean.

Mounties Should Change Their Name!

REGINA (CP)—Royal Canadian Motor Police?

That's what the RCMP should be called if the federal government abides by its decision to get rid of RCMP horses, Mayor [illegible] Tuesday.

The mayor, at a council meeting, said the federal government should be urged to reverse its decision to remove equitation or horsemanship from RCMP training.

He said the RCMP wants to get rid of all horses except those in the force's musical ride.

"If they're not going to have horses any more they should be called the Royal Canadian Motor Police," he said.

Mayor Baker said the force without horses would not be the same.

"Perhaps there is still time to save the tradition and heritage of the RCMP."

Council approved the sending of telegrams urging reconsideration to Prime Minister Pearson, Opposition Leader Diefenbaker and all Saskatchewan MPs.

ASTRONAUT Pete Conrad stands in the raft as his Gemini twin, Richard Gordon, climbs from Gemini 11 capsule after an almost perfect splashdown in the Atlantic this morning. The pair were deposited on the deck of the carrier Guam 24 minutes after the capsule hit the water. (AP Wirephoto)

Near Perfect Splashdown In 'No-Hands' Re-Entry

SPACE CENTRE, HOUSTON (UPI) — Gemini 11 astronauts Charles (Pete) Conrad and Richard F. Gordon splashed almost perfectly into the Atlantic today at the end of one of the most successful space flights yet.

Conrad and Gordon used a new "no-hands" automatic re-entry and floated down under an orange and white parachute, watched by millions of persons on television.

The splashdown was about 700 miles east of Cape Kennedy, about 2½ miles from the recovery carrier Guam, and between 1½ and two miles fom their target point.

A space agency official on the carrier called the landing "the best one we've ever had."

●

"This old world looks good from the deck of this carrier," Gordon told welcoming navy officials. "But I'll tell you it really looks great from 750 miles."

Conrad and Gordon shot to a space altitude record of 850 statute miles—750 nautical miles— early Wednesday.

"We had a very good flight," Conrad said. "With a good night's sleep we'll be ready to go again."

Conrad told newsmen the view from 850 miles was "just fantastic" and their Agena target vehicle "so good I almost hated to leave it."

Then the astronauts walked to the Guam sick bay for check-ups and rest. Their physician, Dr. John Droescher, said, "They look better than I do."

Conrad and Gordon will fly to Cape Kennedy Friday afternoon to begin a long series of first-hand reports on their mission. They are scheduled to return to their homes in Houston Sunday or Monday.

The automatic re-entry and the altitude record were two of the successes of a flight in which almost everything went well. The one exception was Gordon's Tuesday spacewalk, which was cut short when he was partially blinded by his own sweat.

Gemini II also carried out a rendezvous with an Agena satellite in record time following Monday's launch on the first orbit, and crews launched the Gemini in the tightest launch "window" ever—a matter of a few seconds. The astronauts also demonstrated a promising new "cartwheel" technique with the two vehicles on a 100-foot tether Wednesday.

●

Conrad and Gordon also increased the U.S. total of man-hours in space to 1,733 hours and 16 minutes, compared to Russia's 507 hours and 16 minutes.

"We had an excellent flight," said Dr. George E. Mueller, head of the U.S. civilian manned spaceflight program.

"The mission objectives were accomplished, and more."

Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the manned spacecraft centre in Houston, said the significance of Gemini 11 was that it again proved mastery of the rendezvous techniques.

But he said Gordon's trouble spacewalking showed "we still have a lot to learn" about man's ability to work in space.

Mueller also disclosed after the splashdown that the last mission in the Gemini series—Gemini 12—has been lengthened

ANTI-WAR PROTESTS MARK SUB LAUNCHING

BARROW-IN-FURNESS, England (UPI) — The Queen Mother Elizabeth today launched Britain's first Polaris submarine while protestors paraded with anti-war placards.

A stiff breeze blew sprays of champagne and glass on shipyard workers as the Queen Mother smashed the traditional bottle against the side of HMS Resolution and sent the $76 milllon pound ($212.8 million) nuclear submarine sliding into the water.

On her drive to the Barrow-in-Furness shipyard she passed orderly demonstrators bearing placards saying "Work for Peace, Not War" and "Arms Race Over Human Race." Albert Booth, Labor Party member of Parliament for the area, also stayed away in protest.

Column of Pilgrims Mowed Down by Car

DOMODOSSOLA, Italy (CP) — An automobile today mowed down a line of Roman Catholic students walking along a mountain road on a night pilgrimage to a nearby shrine. Five were killed and seven were injured.

Thirty-eight students were walking in single file when their column was struck by the automobile shortly after midnight.

The seminarians, ranging in age from 15 to 23, were all Italian.

Police said they were hit by an automobile coming from the opposite direction which ran into the line of marchers head-on. Reason for the accident was not known.

Police said the 24-year-old driver of the car was in hospital. He was not injured but was described under shock.

Ex-Mayor New Uvic Chancellor

Former Victoria mayor Richard B. Wilson has been named chancellor of the University of Victoria, president Dr. Malcolm Taylor announced today.

Mr. Wilson, who retired from civic politics last December, will succeed Judge J. B. Clearihue when his term expires at the end of this year.

He was elected by acclamation when nominations closed Wednesday for the university's most honored position.

In a tribute to Judge Clearihue, President Taylor said: "His contribution to university development over the past 60 years will not soon be forgotten and its effect will be felt for many years to come.

"His efforts toward enlightenment in the community have been untiring since he was a member of the first class of Victoria College in 1903."

Nominations also closed Wednesday for candidates for six positions on the university senate.

Fifteen candidates have been nominated for the three-year terms.

They are: Mrs. Olivia Barr, a former president of the Alma Mater Society; Canon Hilary

Woman Proves Voters Look to No. 1

By MICHAEL DROSNIN
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Agnes B. Hatfield had a theory: First on the ballot, first in the minds of the voters.

Voters, she reasoned, are "political aardvarks." Many, she believed, enter the polling place with absolutely no knowledge of the candidates and cast their votes for the first name on the ballot.

Tuesday night her name was first.

Mrs. Hatfield:

—Did not make a single campaign speech.

—Did not spend a penny on her campaign.

—Did not want to win.

—Endorsed another candidate in the same race.

But she ran second in the Republican congressional primary in Maryland's fifth district.

The 45-year-old professor of child development at Maryland University, with no political aspirations, received 20 per cent of the vote to edge out the man she supported and swamp another serious contender.

According to election law, the names of candidates are listed in alphabetical order on the ballot. And Hatfield came before Hogan, Martin and Viau, her three primary opponents.

Indeed, Mrs. Hatfield entered the race only to protest the ballot's alphabetical despotism. At the same tme, she hoped to run interference for "peace candidate" William R. Martin by ensuring that Lawrence J. Hogan's name would not head the list.

Martin, who was crushed by winner Hogan anyway, and also ran behind Mrs. Hatfield, commented ruefully, "she sure proved her point, didn't she."

Non-candidate Hatfield, bemused by her coup, said her surprisingly large vote "demonstrates the strength of irrelevant voting."

Her alternative to alphabetical listings: print up a series of ballots, each with a different name first, "to at least distribute the irrelevant votes evenly."

TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT

Sharp Won't Back Down

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The federal government's proposals for revised five-year fiscal agreement with the provinces have been put forward as a package on a "take-it-or-leave-it" basis, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp indicated Wednesday night.

The federal proposals, he stressed at a press briefing, after the first session of the federal-provincial tax structure committee, have been submitted as a package deal to be considered as a whole.

However he objected when reporters suggested that the attitude of the federal government appeared to be "unyielding" or "inflexible."

NO CHANGE

It was not possible for the federal government to go any further than it has in the new proposal in withdrawing from important tax fields, the finance minister emphasized.

Inflation is at the top of the agenda for the finance minister and provincial treasurers, including several provincial premiers, at today's sessions. Mr. Sharp did not anticipate there would be much difference of opinion between the premiers and Ottawa over the measures taken to curb inflationary pressures.

As to Ottawa's position on its new equalization tax sharing formula, Mr. Sharp said he had outlined the proposition to the premiers in his statement. They had been made public with no reason to believe that the new five-year fiscal agreement would be accepted by the provinces at this conference.

Mr. Sharp told newsmen that to the best of his knowledge no federal-provincial conference in Canadian history had produced a fiscal agreement.

ONE-YEAR DEAL

Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba and Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta proposed that instead of the new five-year fiscal agreement the federal

NOTHING SOLVED

Committee To Study Differences

OTTAWA (CP) — The current meeting of the federal-provincial tax structure committee is likely to make only one major decision — to appoint another committee, delegation leaders said today.

The second committee would study wide differences of view between Ottawa and the provinces and report back to the next meeting of the full committee in October.

Federal Finance Minister Sharp and the premiers of Quebec and Ontario reported at a noon break in the session that nothing is being resolved.

Mr. Sharp said "serious differences of opinion" will still exist when the two-day meeting breaks up later today.

The best that might be hoped for was a "clearer understanding" of the disagreements, especially on the sharing of taxes between Ottawa and the provinces.

The committee's job is to negotiate a new set of five-year tax agreements between Ottawa and the provinces. On Wednesday Mr. Sharp summarized federal proposals that would change radically the basis of sharing direct taxes and the costs of major social programs, and revise the formula for redistributing tax revenues through equalization payments.

Hull Splits

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI)—One of Adolf Hitler's last killer U-boats, rebuilt after being scuttled at the end of the war, split open and sank in a North Sea storm Wednesday night with 21 persons aboard for a training cruise.

There was one known survivor, Chief Petty Officer Hans Silbernagel, 23, the cook on the small (282-ton) training submarine Hai (Shark). He reported the Hai sank in seconds like a stone after a storm cracked open her hull.

TWO BODIES FOUND

The bodies of two of the crewmen were plucked out of the choppy seas by helicopter, but a huge sea and air rescue operation was hampered by high winds and squally seas and it was feared the 20 others had drowned.

The U.S. Navy was sending the rescue submarine Kittiwake from Holy Loch in Scotland but it was expected to take 40 hours to reach the disaster scene just south of the Shetland Islands, 200 miles east of Tynemouth, England.

ON SURFACE

Solbernagel said the submarine was on the surface at time of the sinking and that eight or nine members of the crew who were on deck or on the U-boat's streamlined conning tower jumped overboard when the captain gave the order to abandon ship.

The cook was rescued by the British trawler St. Martin today after he had been in the chilly waters more than 12 hours. He was transferred to the German destroyer Barvaria.

Silbernagel said the submarine's hull cracked during the storm and water burst into the engine room. The captain ordered the crewmen to don lifejackets and abandon ship but most were trapped when the U-boat plunged swiftly to the bottom.

CUT HIMSELF LOOSE

Silbernagel was in a group of four men bound together with a lifeline but that he cut himself loose and swam for hours when he saw his shipmates lose consciousness. He said another group also bound together with a lifeline were in the water.

"The seas were very high — about 18 feet I would say — and three of the others had no lifejackets. I don't think they lasted very long. We lost contact in the rough seas and I kept myself afloat for 12 hours before I was picked up."

Canada's Role Praised For Saving Commonwealth

(Special to The Times)

LONDON — Canada is getting the credit for closing the gap that threatened to split the Commonwealth wide open.

A draft communique by Prime Minister Pearson and the Canadian delegation formed the basis of the agreement reached here Wednesday night on future handling of the Rhodesian situation.

While the communique was approved unanimously, there was not unanimity in the views expressed in it. In the compromise reached, Britain gets an opportunity for another try at negotiated settlement with rebel leader Ian Smith.

But it ties Britain to a deadline by the year's end. The rest of the Commonwealth got reinforcement from Britain that there is no possibility of independence being granted against the wishes of the Rhodesian people as a whole. British Prime Minister Harold Wilson was moved by pressure of opinion, headed by the Afro-Asian block, to go further than he intended.

The "last chance" deadline for Smith was not originally in the British scheme.

Britain also agreed to go along with the Canadian initiative of selective mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia through U.N. action, but not until the deadline for a negotiated settlement has passed.

While they signed the communique, the Afro-Asian group, and particularly the majority of the African countries among the 22 represented at the talks, would have liked stronger language.

The communique pointed up their belief that force was the only sure way to bring down the illegal regime. The agreement was reached after seven days of critical talks here at which the whole future of the Commonwealth as a multi-racial organization was in the balance.

Some British editorial criticism is that even the compromise communique puts

FRANCE, CHINA N-TESTS RAPPED

LONDON (Reuters)—Leaders of 22 Commonwealth nations in a surprise move today condemned France and China for holding nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

In a communique issued after a 10-day conference here, the leaders of 750,000,000 people—a quarter of the world's population—called on all countries to ban all types of nuclear tests and urged France and China to join international disarmament talks.

The communique also said:

- The whole Commonwealth should continue to do what it can to get peace in Viet Nam.
- Most Commonwealth members believe the United Nations should revoke South Africa's mandate over southwest Africa and take over its administration until it gets independence.

Arthur Mayse

There are in this town any number of gruff fathers and butter-hearted mothers who realize with a touch of sadness that life's going to be different for them when their children are such no longer.

No more family vacations and picnics, they brood. No Christmas Eves of high excitement, no school open houses with florid artwork pinned on the walls for inspection. Nothing, in fact, but memories of happy days gone by.

Well, we have reached that time at our place and it's wonderful. What at a distance may look like loss turns out to be gain, and life takes on new dimensions. There are, however, certain parental adjustments to be made.

We will, for instance, get a chance in due time to visit the classroom where our son spends his days. But his desk is the big one up front now and the artwork he labors over is the sort teachers use for visual instruction.

★

Naturally, this reversal of the earlier order takes some getting used to. It is disconcerting, at first, to know that the young person you once patiently taught snakes-and-ladders can take you — zip, zip, zip, like that — at checkers.

Contrariwise, you aren't going to get called a meanie or other such at the close of an emotion-fraught argument. What you get instead, is points made with cool and usually unassailable logic.

Then there is the matter of family holidays; and if there's any department of human association in which sentiment tends to mist the view, this is it.

We have had some very fine family vacations and if our young didn't enjoy them they have been polite enough not to let us know. However, in retrospect, I can see full well that our two had their best fun when Win and I were away down at the other end of the beach or off viewing the instructional exhibits.

Excessive togetherness has its flaws. Like most fishermen, I get pretty single-minded when engaged in my sport; a condition which an indulgent wife will tolerate, but children are completely unable to.

For about 15 minutes, or maybe half an hour on the slow days, I did well enough as the kind and attentive mentor. But one brisk tug at my lure and any such childish request as, "Daddy, is this a toad or a frog?" was more than likely to go unheard.

Circumstance has now done in the shared holiday; the juniors in our house can't get away when we do and our mutual regrets are tempered by the increased freedom which the change was brought with it.

★

The nature of Christmas does change somewhat as a family grows older. The stockings may vanish but you can be darn sure that some substitute container will be available for the smaller gifts. We have not found, either, that Christmas morning is robbed of its magic by the fact of a proper night's sleep.

It used to be that we were wakened at spaced intervals from three in the morning on. These golden years, we sleep late, enjoy a leisurely cup of coffee and don't wake our young until curiosity over what they've given us becomes too strong.

One recent afternoon, Ron strolled in and without preamble tossed us a question.

"What about a lined sheepskin coat? They're only $79.50."

You are familiar, I imagine, with that 'only,' the weasel word of the eager juvenile. Parents become so allergic to it that merely to hear it spoken releases an extra jolt of adrenalin into their bloodstreams.

This, however, was no juvenile, not any more, and as we promptly learned, his intent was to give, not get.

We won't take him up on his offer. A new young teacher has plentiful needs of his own to fill. Still, it leaves us with the good feeling which is one of parenthood's ultimate rewards.

They grow up. Even if you would, you can't stop them. But the new horizons are no less pleasing.

Engineer Willey Greeted at the End of the Line

WHEELS GRIND TO HALT

By GLEN ALLEN

Every live-long day for nearly half a century Ernest Willey rode the main line.

Wednesday he pulled into a siding — for good.

A man who wore out railway tracks like a postman wears out shoes, Ernest Willey retired after 49 years on the E & N Victoria-Courtenay run.

Watchman of towns, guardian of rivers and forests, overseer of a whole island, he came to know every backyard, every trail, from here north.

"They could cut down a few trees and I would miss them," said Mr. Willey today, his first day in the roundhouse.

A lot of trees have been cut down and a lot of buildings have gone up in 49 years.

Ernest Willey started his life on wheels at the age of 16. After being a wiper, he was fireman, then, for 25 years, an engineer.

DAYLINER CAB

When he left his Dayliner cab for the last time Wednesday his family, wife Dorothy, daughter Mrs. Shirley Collis and her family (a son Alvin is an RCAF sergeant in France) and friends were there to meet him.

"I didn't want a fuss," he said. "None of this gold watch stuff for me."

He's going to spend his time now at his Hereward St. home in Victoria West and at a Shawnigan Lake cottage.

Both homes are well off the tracks.

"If I'm going to miss anything it will be the old steam engines and they're long gone anyway.

KEEP PUFFING

It was hard work to keep them puffing but they had a music to them."

"Those coal-burner days were the days when kids used to stand and wave."

"Now they just throw rocks."

One Big Chamber Plan Catches Fire

Union of all Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce groups into a single organization is being studied by the incoming executive of Victoria Chamber.

The suggestion, made at the chamber's annual meeting Wednesday by Mayor A. W. Toone, was applauded today by president Courtney Haddock.

"Absolutely excellent. Tops," Mr. Haddock said.

"I think Reeve Curtis of Saanich has been mooting this for some time. It is one of the first things the Chamber of Commerce executive will study," the president said.

It was his view that ultimately the southern end of Vancouver Island might be united by a single chamber, although this has never been discussed and he wanted to have a chance to talk it over with other chamber groups before it becomes a serious prospect.

ACT TOGETHER

"But certainly Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt should act together," he said.

Mayor Toone Wednesday night cited the benefits achieved in Victoria city with Chamber of Commerce support — downtown paint-up, urban renewal programs, Centennial and Bastion Squares and underground wiring.

"Which, incidentally, could be extended to other parts of the city," he added.

"Without such organization as this, the city would stagnate," he told his audience at the Red Lion Hotel in Saanich.

LIKE TEA BAGS

"Am I too bold to suggest you should be the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce?" he said as businessmen from the capital region and the reeves of Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt listened.

"People are like tea bags — they don't know their own strength until they get into hot water," the mayor said.

He looked forward to "many more years of co-operating with the chamber."

Retiring president R. J. Bower paid tribute to the mayor's role in ending a "sort of state of undeclared war" existing for years between labor and the chamber.

After a meeting in the mayor's office early in his term a new line of communication between business and organized labor was established, providing a "new peace or tolerance on the labor-management front which we hope will extend to the community at large," Mr. Bower said.

COMMUNICATION

This had underlined a basic problem in Canada, the lack of communication between people.

He said similar improvement of relations on the national scale would be a fine centennial gift to the country.

Mr. Bower urged the chamber to undertake an in-depth study of the value of tourism to Victoria.

All businessmen pay lip service to the industry, he said, but few facts are known about it.

HONKY TONK

Mr. Bower said proper study would show how tourism could be developed while preventing Victoria "from becoming a honky tonk type of town," and how best to finance a visitor's bureau.

Incoming president Haddock, manager of Woodward's Mayfair, and vice-president William Armstrong, manager of Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, were installed by Mr. Justice Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake.

Ask The Times

Q. When did a Bennett government first get a clear majority and what were the standings? J.C.

A. The vote that gave Premier Bennett a majority government was held in the summer of 1953. Of 48 seats in the house, Social Credit won 28, CCF took 14, the Liberals had 4, and Progressive-Conservatives and Labor had one each. Social Credit had formed a minority government the year before.

Q. My daughter is marrying a man from the town of Macon in the United States. Where is it, how big is it and how is the name pronounced? B.M.N.

A. Macon (pronounced May'con) is a town of 80,000 at the head of the Ocmulgee River in the centre of Georgia, about equidistant from Atlanta and Savannah. It was formerly a cotton centre, and is now of general commercial and industrial importance.

Canopy Pipes Not Playing Council's Song

Merchants on the 700 Block Yates Street will be ordered to remove piped music amplifiers from the steel canopy covering the south sidewalk.

The decision was made this morning by the Victoria finance committee.

It gave W. G. Smith, a retired contractor, at least a partial victory in his fight to ban piped music from city streets.

Mr. Smith picketed Yates Street for several days last month protesting that the continuous stream of music was an infringement of his rights.

But the victory may be only short-lived.

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady pointed out to the committee that though music could be construed as noise and therefore banned from city streets under the municipal act, such a law would be impossible to enforce.

"The prosecutor in such a case would be faced with the responsibility of proving that the music was a nuisance," he said. And it could still be played from doorways.

VISITING Victoria Sept. 27 will be Ronald E. MacBeath, Dominion president of the Royal Canadian Legion. While in the city, Mr. MacBeath will lunch with Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes, then be guest speaker at an all-member meeting of Vancouver Island Legion zones at Trafalgar branch, 7 to 8 p.m. During his week-long visit to the West Coast, Mr. MacBeath will speak at Vancouver, Kelowna, Abbotsford, New Westminster and Surrey-Delta.

Saanich Youth Pleads Guilty To Break-In

A 20-year-old Saanich youth making his third court appearance in three weeks pleaded guilty today to breaking into a city service station overnight.

Terrance Ryan, 647 Ralph St., also admitted causing a disturbance at a drive-in 11 days ago by swearing and using obscene language. He was jailed for a month on this charge and will be sentenced for the break-in Sept. 22.

The accusad was arrested early today after two youths were spotted near the Humber Green B-A Service Station at Douglas and Hillside.

Officers found two panes had been smashed in a door and the cash register had been dumped on the floor but nothing had been taken.

TWO SUSPECTS

The pair fled when they saw the police cruiser. Two suspects were arrested by other officers a short time later.

"It's clearly no use fining you," Magistrate Ostler told Ryan after hearing he had been fined $50 and $75 for two recent convictions for causing a disturbance.

Court was told the accused had taken a hamburger from a counter at the A and W Drive-In, 3335 Douglas on Sept. 4, then swore at a waitress and the manager when questioned. Ryan threatened to return to the drive-in the following week and shoot the manager.

Police also arrested a 16-year-old in connection with the overnight service station break-in and he will appear in juvenile court.

Mt. Douglas Fire Suspects Remanded

Two 13-year-old boys charged in connection with the Mount Douglas fire last week had their cases remanded when they appeared in juvenile court today.

They will face delinquency charges in the closed court next Wednesday.

A bush fire which broke out nine days ago burned about 100 acres of parkland.

TAKES LIAISON ROLE

Mayor Nudges Health Board

Victoria took its second firm step towards an independent public health organization this morning.

The city's health committee endorsed a suggestion from Mayor A. W. Toone that he be appointed to act in direct liaison with the Victoria Medical Society on "matters pertaining to area health problems."

The suggestion came in the wake of a spate of criticism of the operation of the Greater Victoria Metropolitan Board of Health.

Latest critics were members of the Medical Society who claimed that Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread, senior medical health officer, was attempting to duplicate or usurp the services of the Vancouver Island Speech and Hearing Assessment Group.

OBSTRUCTION

In a letter to city council the society said "the active obstruction of this group by public medical health officers is deplored ... the voluntary contributions its members (the Group) should receive co-operation rather than active obstruction from the Metropolitan Board of Health. If this attitude continues in this and other fields a great loss will be sustained by the community."

Several months ago Victoria, Esquimalt and Oak Bay served notice of intention to quit the metro organization in December of this year.

The charges at that time were that the Metro Board was going beyond the bounds of its authority and making a strong attempt at empire-building.

The charges have been consistently denied by Reeve Gordon Lee, Central Saanich, chairman of the board.

But this morning Mayor Toone hinted that the charge still stood and added further criticism of his own.

CO-OPERATION

"It is evident from the Medical Society protest that the board is unable to meet the needs of the community," he said. "We are going to need a great deal of co-operation from the society in the future as we plan for the community's health needs."

The remarks were construed as expressing Victoria's firm intention to withdraw entirely from the metro organization.

Dr. Whitbread came in for a second sharp rebuke during this morning's meeting.

He had applied to council for permission to attend next Tuesday's annual meeting of the British Columbia Associated Boards of Health in Penticton.

Permission was denied.

HEALTH BOARDS

Earlier this week at the monthly meeting of the Metro Board a resolution was endorsed calling for the associated boards to establish a committee to review legislation regarding the establishment and administration policies of health boards throughout the province.

The resolution, to be introduced by Greater Victoria delegates to the one-day convention, is in direct contravention of a request made to the board earlier by Victoria council.

That request ordered the board, financed by Greater Victoria municipalities to concentrate on health work and leave legislative matters to municipal councils.

At that time the board was reminded that it was "the child of the municipalities, not the parent."

"In essence this resolution is doing exactly what the council asked it not to do," said city manager Dennis Young. "We asked them quite clearly not to get involved in matters outside their jurisdiction."

Ald. Clyde Savage asked if Dr. Whitbread would have been given permission to attend the conference if the earlier resolution had not been endorsed by a majority of board members.

"He has not attended these conferences before," replied Mr. Young. "I don't think he could gain too much from it anyway."

Sweet Adelines Form Here

Female barbershop quartets will soon be heard in Victoria.

They will be part of an international organization known as Sweet Adelines—women who enjoy singing for pleasure in four-part barbershop harmony.

Leaving Scene Proves Costly

A 65-year-old carpenter who admitted leaving the scene of an auto accident on Cadboro Bay Road Sept. 1 was fined a total of $450 in court today.

Gordon Roberts, 3915 Cadboro Bay Road, pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the accident scene and to driving while his right to obtain a driving licence was under suspension.

Court was told accused gave a false name and address to the other driver in the accident before he drove off because he had no insurance. He admitted two previous convictions for impaired driving, one of which had resulted in his licence suspension.

Roberts was fined $300 on the first charge, $150 on the second and barred from driving anywhere in Canada for three years.

MOST HUNTERS were bringing home venison but two young Victoria hunters, Larry Parker and Rick Bell bagged a cougar on the Malahat Wednesday. Rick's mother, Mrs. Eleanor Bell, 609 Lambie, posed with the pussycat today. The hunters plan to have the head mounted.

DEER KILLERS BEAT '65 MARK

Between Victoria and Campbell River some 3,000 hunters killed 514 deer in the first weekend of the hunting season.

Figures were released Wednesday by Don Blood, regional game biologist, Nanaimo.

He said the statistics were available from eight island checkpoints.

Mr. Blood said: "Hunter success was much better than last year, and in many areas it was twice as good."

He said: "Hunter success in the order of 20 to 25 per cent in a buck-only season can be considered very good indeed.

Total deer kill on the first hunting weekend was: Campbell River 207; Wolf Lake 24; Alberni 33; Northwest Bay 33; Copper Canyon (Chemainus) 49; Cowichan Valley 137; and Victoria (Sooke) 31.

At the same time the 2,903 hunters who passed through the checkpoints bagged 334 grouse.

Mr. Blood said: "The checkpoints are to assess the buck harvest and collect essential management information.

"And this is what you end up with", explains a mill supervisor to the students.

'CANADA AHEAD OF WEST INDIES'

Visiting Unionist Likes It Here

An international group of union leaders took a peek into the workings of a Victoria plywood plant Wednesday.

And they liked what they saw.

Said Cleve Butler, of Dominica, British West Indies: "The setup in Canada is ahead of our own country — both industrially and unionwise."

Cleve is one of 50 foreign unionists taking advantage of the federal government-sponsored Colombo plan tour.

Twelve of the students visited the B.C. Forest Products plant in Victoria as part of their 5½-month Labor Leadership course.

It was one of many such tours throughout the country, including a copper mine and a logging camp in B.C.

Among the group were representatives from Kenya, Guyana, the West Indies and South America.

Heading the tour is Bill Gauld, general representative of the Canadian Labour Congress.

In addition to studying industry and Canada's union setup, the students spend two months at McGill University's labor college in Montreal.

While they enjoy the pace of Montreal they all agreed on one thing — the weather's much better in the west.

Slicing the Pie

FINANCE MINISTER SHARP'S new tax sharing policy, announced on the eve of the federal-provincial conference in Ottawa, has apparently roused consternation among provincial premiers and has been described variously as "revolutionary," history-making" and "unworkable."

In essence the proposal is based on two main theses: That the government which spends must be prepared to take the responsibility for taxing; and there must be provision for uniform opportunities for all Canadians from one end of the country to the other. In broad outline the federal government wants to collect only sufficient taxes to carry out its federal responsibilities (including the equalization function) while giving the provinces fiscal responsibilities commensurate with their constitutional obligations.

If this is "revolutionary" then it is a revolution which is probably long overdue. The annual pilgrimage of provincial premiers to Ottawa to demand that the federal government give each and every one a larger share of tax receipts has meant that in order to do so the federal government has had to increase its taxes. The provinces have thus avoided the onus of higher taxation by placing it on Ottawa.

The generally unfavorable reaction of the premiers to Mr. Sharp's new plan may lessen as the conference explores more fully all its implications. They obviously had no hint of the scheme and went down to Ottawa with prepared briefs based on the usual method of tax distribution. This left them, unfortunately, looking rather foolish and it could be charged to Mr. Sharp that this was less than tactful. The premiers have to some degree been placed in a position where they seem to be resisting what so many of them have long demanded—greater autonomy in running their own affairs. Perhaps the realization that they can no longer take credit for spending, particularly in certain areas of social welfare, without also taking the responsibility of imposing the necessary taxes, comes like a chilly breeze on a hitherto balmy day.

Mr. Sharp's proposal for maintaining uniform national standards through equalization grants appears to be basically sound although there is no doubt that it is complex. Working out a formula by which all the provinces can be rated on a "prosperity index"—roughly akin to a gross provincial product—will not be easy. But in theory at least it seems more equitable than the present system of simply selecting certain taxes and then attempting to bring all provinces up to the standards of the two wealthiest, Ontario and British Columbia.

One thing is clear: the expanding public demand for services from government, particularly in the field of social welfare, is more and more dominating federal and provincial politics. If it achieves nothing else, the forthcoming federal-provincial conference will remind the public that its calls for services must be paid for—and the basic source of funds for this purpose is the public's earnings.

A Light at London

A COMPROMISE PROPOSAL steered by the Canadian delegation has done much to alleviate conflict in the Commonwealth conference on Rhodesia.

Britain has made two recessions from its earlier stand. It will refuse consent to Rhodesian independence before majority rule is established, unless the people of that country wish otherwise. Since 90 per cent of Rhodesians are Negro, this is tantamount to saying that majority rule must prevail from the beginning. Secondly, Britain signified its willingness to agree to a Security Council resolution for effective and selective sanctions against Rhodesia if the rebel regime does not capitulate. There would have to be full support from Commonwealth members of the United Nations for this step.

The two points seem to go far to meet the requirements of the African members of the Commonwealth. These have been calling for much harsher measures, including military force. But with insistence on majority rule as a prerequisite to granting independence, and the increased effectiveness which economic sanctions could have if enforced by the United Nations rather than merely by Britain, an acceptable procedure may have been established.

There will still remain, of course, some doubts as to whether economic sanctions can prove successful even if given the weight of UN enforcement. The ability of Rhodesia to survive so far—granted numerous leaks in the oil embargo and other measures — suggests that even a tighter ostracism might have to be a long-term project.

But some advance has been made through the latest communique. If accepted it will demonstrate a very statesmanlike job, for continued disagreement over Rhodesia threatened the unity of the Commonwealth itself.

A Careful Approach to Sunday Sport

A WIDE-RANGING EXPLORATION of Sunday sports and entertainment for which admission fees could be charged, may be in the offing for British Columbia municipalities.

A recommendation which, in effect, calls for an informed public survey of the issue has already received endorsement by Saanich Council as it prepares for the annual UBCM convention. This approach to the question appears sound. It is the outcome of a study by municipal affairs department officials and members of the UBCM executive, to determine legislation that would be required.

Involved is a possible Municipal Act amendment which would empower councils throughout British Columbia, after a favorable referendum, to permit fees to be charged for sporting events and other entertainments on Sunday afternoons.

Should the Union of British Columbia Municipalities approve the suggestion, the approval would eventually go in the form of a UBCM recommendation to the provincial government, perhaps in time for legislation in 1968. The procedure, as Saanich understands it, would be a general canvass of individuals and organizations over a period of perhaps a year to determine public opinion for or against Sunday sport and entertainment admission charges.

Only if a favorable public consensus was apparent would action advance to the stage of new legislation. A year should provide adequate opportunity for those who desire or reject Sunday sport and entertainment to present their views.

But, under the plan as it has been prepared in this instance, the eventual jury would be the public at large.

At present Vancouver, through its special charter, has the legislation which might be incorporated, with suitable adaptations including a local option clause, into the Municipal Act. The other organized parts of the province are being offered a chance to decide, without hurry, if they want similar privileges.

"MY BLANKET!"

FROM CALGARY

By JAMES H. GRAY

The Farmer and the Freight Rates

Gray

AS Parliament moves from the immediacy of the railway strike to the consideration of the proposal to take the curbs off the freedom of railways to raise freight rates, the rest of the country better get its ear plugs ready. It is due for another verbal assault from the prairies on an issue on which we think with our blood—freight rates.

The rest of Canada can treat freight rates with casual indifference. Not the people or the governments of the prairies. Alberta, for example, maintains J. J. Frawley, QC, the greatest extant authority of freight rates, in Ottawa just to keep his expert eye on the railways.

Nothing has been investigated oftener in Canada than freight rates and until now most of the efforts to unhobble the railways have foundered on prairie intransigence. So before all the shouting starts and the insults begin to fly, here is what the clamor will be all about.

Caught Both Ways

In a sentence, the prairie people claim that they have to pay the freight for everything they buy and the freight comes out of their income for everything they sell. The farmers in particular become especially vehement about freight rates and when Parliament gets down to business it will be farm consituency members who will be most irate.

The trouble arises from the basing point system both of freight rates and selling prices. The latter is perhaps most important to the west. As a general thing the prices of livestock sold in Calgary are usually about $1.50 to $2.00 a hundredweight less than the prices which prevail in Winnipeg. Winnipeg prices are similarly lower than those in Toronto.

This works out to $12 to $15 a steer less for Alberta farmers than for Manitoba farmers, and $12 to $15 a steer less for Manitoba farmers than for Ontario farmers. It doesn't matter to the stockmen that the railways are not getting rich on what they get for moving cattle. It matters a great deal that they are indisputably paying the cost of getting their production to market.

So what's wrong with that?

Process Reversed

When it comes to westward movement, the system goes into reverse. Then the price of whatever is sold is exclusive of freight. The farm machinery people quote their prices f.o.b. their plants. What it costs to move a combine, truck or car from Weston, Windsor or Hamilton to Buccleugh, Sask., is added to the price. Or if the product happens to be ladies' girdles instead of binder twine, the same facts apply.

Freight is deducted from the selling going east and is added to the cost price coming west.

It can be argued, with some validity, that the problem may be partly one of semantics. For example the end result might be the same if the Toronto meat packers offered a flat price for beef on the cars in Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and Winnipeg and paid the freight charges themselves. Similarly, the price of tractors might be standardized for all Canada to convince the customers that the manufacturer was absorbing the freight charges.

This arithmetic might not fool the prairie farmers for long, but it would disguise the fact that they were paying freight both ways. The trouble today is the freight fact is dinned into them all the time.

Wheat prices are always quoted "in store Fort William or Vancouver." The figure may look pleasantly plump, but it shrinks immediately when the farmer reminds himself he has to deduct 20 odd cents a bushel for freight. If he could just be allowed to forget that for a while, his reaction to railway freight rates might not be as belligerent.

Higher on Prairies

One other factor bugs westerners, and the presentations to Royal Commissions are full of tables to emphasize this point: ton rates per mile are much higher on the prairies than in the east.

Easterners have water and highway transportation to compete with the railways and keep their charges down. On the prairies, there is no competition. This, we argue, militates against prairie industry and adds to the cost of living.

Unhappily for the prairie critics who rely on this argument, it can be turned against them quite effectively. The long freight haul into the west has resulted in the establishment of a lot of secondary industry on the prairies. Some of the examples that come to mind are steel making facilities in Regina, pipe mills in Alberta and Saskatchewan, fertilizer plants in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and the huge garment industry in Manitoba.

Invisible Tariff

It may well be that the long freight haul has created a sort of invisible tariff barrier around the prairie and saddled it with a growing but high-cost industrial development. Nevertheless, the industrialization that has taken place has taken some of the spotlight off freight rates on industrial production.

But that is not true of farm production. There passions are as white-fired as ever, as the rest of the country will be told, ad infinitum, for as long as the transport bill is before Parilament.

BALANCED MAN

In the coming age of automation, I suggest we shall find it impossible to consider anybody as adequately educated if he or she does not understand at least some science. Neither shall we be able to regard as an educated man a technician or a scientist, however distinguished, who has failed to develop a substantial interest in the humanities and the arts, or who shows no evidence of being aware of the significance of society and his part in it. We ought, in other words, to be making a determined effort to produce better balanced people.

FROM WASHINGTON

By RICHARD PURSER

When Santo Domingo Runs the Show

Purser

THE inter-American peace force that has been guarding the Dominican Republic against a relapse into chaos is due to depart by Sept. 28. If it leaves on schedule, the world will will learn the extent of domestic dangers facing the freely elected regime of President Joaquin Balaguer, and from what direction those dangers come.

There is possible danger from the right — from the clique of officers in the country's inflated military who profited under the long Trujillo tyranny and who view social reform as a threat to their status. And there is possible danger from the left — from the scattered possessors of the many weapons stolen and distributed during the revolution of April, 1965, if the country's handful of dedicated Communists can establish leadership over them.

It was the U.S. government's conviction that Santo Domingo's revolutionary street mobs were falling under Communist control which prompted the controversial U.S. armed intervention last year. But whether there was sufficient justification for Washington's conviction, is a question unlikely ever to be settled to the satisfaction of all.

Ammunition for the pro-interventionalists has recently come from an academic, and therefore presumably respectable source. It is contained in a special report from the Center for Strategic Studies at Washington's Georgetown University. The report concludes of the events of April last year that "a coup had been planned for a later date, but was precipitated by a series of unforseen events. Communists were linked with the earlier planning. Although suprised by the timing of the rebellion they quickly assumed a leading role in the disorders that broke out. Progress in the Communist effort to dominate the revolt became increasingly evident."

Claim Objective Attained

Based on this, the report further concludes that the U.S. attained its objectives, which included "the prevention of a Communist seizure of power" and "the opening of an option to the Dominican people to choose their leaders in a free election."

As for the latter objective, the report neglects to stress that the Dominican people had already exercised their option of choosing their leaders in a free election. They elected Juan Bosch as president in 1962. He was inaugurated early in 1963 and was ejected by a military coup seven months later.

Last year's revolution was for the restoration of the legal president. In preventing this from happening and in arranging a new election (in which Mr. Balaguer defeated Mr. Bosch), the United States was in effect formalizing the nullification of a legitimate election.

Mr. Balaguer was elected freely. He is respected and may turn out to be a far better president than was Mr. Bosch. But, and it is almost impossible to find any appreciation of this in official Washington, Mr. Balaguer's qualities are not the point. The point is that the election in which he was victor had no business taking place until after his illegally ousted predecessor had been restored to fill out the term for which he was originally elected. In other words, the U.S. preserved Mr. Bosch's ouster as a fait accompli.

Thin in Detail

On the Communist issue, the report stresses Communist self-insinuation into the pro-Bosch force and the increasing predominance of Communist agitators in crowd leadership as the revolt continued. It is thin on detailed evidence of this, relying largely on opinions and on classified information. But it is at least a counter to the anti-interventionists, whose denials of a major Communist role in the revolt are also difficult to back up solidly.

But Americans on both sides of the controversy neglect another point that appears obvious to non-Americans: that the Communist threat in the Dominican Republic, if any, was purely domestic. The Georgetown University report prints information on all 77 of the Communists said by U.S. intelligence to have been involved in the 1965 revolt. Virtually all of them turn out to be Dominican citizens. Similarly, U.S. pro-interventionist writers have frequently cited an article by two Dominican Communists in last December's issue of World Marxist Review as justification for U.S. action, although the article says that "our party found itself unprepared for uprising and was unable to head it."

Dominican Communists

In any event, the two Communists were Dominicans. They were not Cuban, Russian, Czech or Chinese — neither were the others, who in the two writers' words tried to take "a firm and resolute part" in the revolt they could not lead. Whatever the domestic situation in the Dominican Republic, it was domestic and did not involve foreign Communist aggression of any kind. If the U.S. is henceforth dedicated to prevent forcibly Communist threats of internal as well as external origin, one might hope this policy would be brought into the open and debated more than it has been to date.

DENNIS THE MENACE

"HEY, LET ME HELP YA!"

Looking Back

From the Times of Sept. 15, 1906:

Victoria's welcome to Their Excellencies the Governor-General Earl Grey and his lady yesterday afternoon did credit to the city. It was not a reception of the formal kind, but hearty in all respects. The vice-regal party arrived in the yacht Quadra and were met by a contingent of local militia and the collegiate cadet corps. Earl Grey delivered an address at the Parliament Buildings and was taken by carriage to various parts of the city. The Governor-General, with his arrival here has now traversed Canada coast-to-coast.

Planning

Toronto Daily Star

ONTARIO municipalities today cannot keep up with the demand for services.

One day it's a new school, the next a hospital, then a water main for a new factory on the outskirts of town, or a new road through a housing sub-division.

Where to build them? How to pay for them?

Municipal Affairs Minister J. W. Spooner, addressing the annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Association, has once more shaken a finger at the municipalities, blaming their development problems on lack of planning.

But lecturing the munciipalities is a poor excuse for action. Mr. Spooner should be much more aggressive in leading the way . . .

Instead of waiting for the municipalities to come forward with their own plans, Mr. Spooner should offer some direction. Those areas in southwestern Ontario, where town is meeting country in a clash of land-use priorities, should be tackled first.

We have had enough lectures on the virtues of planning. Mr. Spooner should now take the municipal malingerers by the scruff of the neck and push them into the modern age of planning.

'Get to Bed'

Ottawa Journal

WHO would have thought that early to bed and early to rise could make Jack a dull boy?

Dr. Hugh Jolly, superintendent of the children's department at London's Charing Cross Hospital, doesn't go quite so far but says parents can stop worrying if children won't go to bed early, or do so only after a struggle.

"To parents who complain that their child won't go to sleep and only wants to play, one must explain that a child learns by play and that this is the young child's equivalent of school." He adds that the child who wants to play after dark is usually a bright child. "He's really giving himself the advantage of extra hours of schooling."

Parents whose children dutifully head off to bed at the mere suggestion of the idea needn't fear they are raising a brood of dullards, however. Chances are these children have packed more playing into a shorter period and are weary enough to sleep.

As for the larger varieties of children, there's something about the sight of a gangling body propped up on a chesterfield, fortified with soda pop and potato chips, eyes glued to the late movie, that leads a parent to doubt that the learning process is at work. School days, fortunately, help ease those staying-up problems — or should.

Besides, important as a child's development is, the parent's mind must also be nourished. There's nothing like a bit of evening peace and quiet to keep a grown-up bright and cheerful the next day.

To the Editor

For the Unthinking

The Bennett S.C. Government is undoubtedly popular among unthinking people in B.C. For our Finance Minister has borrowed right, left and centre and particularly from America. He spends lavishly these huge sums on enormously costly projects in the hydro electric field and elsewhere which are distinctly problematic in results. Projecting the present boom into the future may easily prove disastrous wages and prices are at an all time high and still soaring. Columbia, Peace River and the Museum costs are far exceeding estimates. Is it to be boom and bust?

The Premier is quite frank. He wants the opposition parties wiped out. Yet sensible electors know that good government needs capable and wise men in opposition as well as on the government benches. —DISENCHANTED.

RETROGRADE—HEES

Capital Gains Tax Warning

PETROLEUM SUPPLY WARNING

CALGARY (CP)—The North American continent could be facing a crisis in petroleum supply within the next decade, Michael T. Halbouty, president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, said here.

In the next 10 years, he said, the industry will be required to find 55,000,000,000 barrels of oil and 300,000,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas in the United States simply to maintain an adequate reserve position.

Oil discoveries must be doubled and gas discoveries must be trebled, he said. The situation called for new exploration ideas and new incentives and co-operation of efforts by geologists and geophysicists.

Injunction Will Ban Picketing

VANCOUVER (CP) — A court injunction to end the six-day-old pulp mill strike at Prince-Rupert was granted Wednesday.

County Court Judge Kirke Smith, sitting as a local judge of the Supreme Court, granted the injunction to ban picketing by Local 4 of the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada.

The dispute involving six men has tied up an $80,000,000 pulp mill extension project and shut down a $50,000,000 pulp mill.

Two companies, Skeena Kraft Ltd., owners of the extension project, and Celgar Ltd., operators of the pulp mill, sought the injunction after 600 pulp workers and 700 construction workers walked off the job when the six men were sent home.

The union claimed the six men were fired for refusing to do carpenters' work while Celgar Ltd. claims the men are merely suspended.

Judge Smith criticized both the union and companies in granting the injunction to end picketing.

He found that the work stoppage was a true and spontaneous wildcat strike for which union defendants were not responsible and was a "fait accompli" by members of the union.

NOT GUILTY

Judge Smith declined to find that the union and its officers were ringleaders in the illegal strike.

In his written judgment, he also was unable to find that four union defendants, J. L. Miners, John R. Watson, D. L. Peterson and George Gardiner had declared, authorized or consented to the work stoppage.

He said the reverse was probably true and pointed out that Miners, president of the local, had been shouted down when he tried to get members to go back to their jobs.

Judge Smith also found that the companies refused to sit down and discuss the status of the men who the companies said were suspended until the union ordered the pulp employees back to work.

Frmer trade minister George Hees Wednesday warned the federal government not to impose a capital gains tax on business.

The former president of the Montreal Stock Exchange told a meeting sponsored by Victoria Young Conservatives the immediate effect of a capital gains tax would be that the United States businessmen would cut back investment in Canada.

"It would be a retrograde step," he said. "It will slow down Canadian investment."

He said he was "pretty sure" the tax would be imposed under Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp's baby budget this fall.

"What the government should be doing is enticing more Canadian investment by increasing the 20 per cent of common stock dividends, which are deductible from income tax, to 50 per cent.

"Without such an additional incentive, our development will continue to be owned and controlled, to a very large extent, from outside Canada."

Mr. Hees said he was convinced that if the government took this step we could win back a far greater degree of ownership and control of our own development.

OUR OWN PROBLEM

"The responsibility for Canadians not owning and controlling enough of our own development interest rests squarely on our own shoulders.

"Each year we invest more than 500 million in new savings bonds and deposit an additional $500 million in savings accounts.

"These are merely two of many examples of how overcautious we are in investing our savings," he said.

He said it has also become very clear that Canadians generally to not intend to invest without some additional inducement being given to them.

"We are primarily motivated by what's in it for us."

He said foreign capital must receive the same privileges and be subject to the same obligations as Canadian capital so that they will continue to export it to this country.

"It is important that we inform the countries on whom we must rely for outside capital in the years ahead that their money is very welcome in this country."

Mr. Hees said a clear-cut understanding must be made with the United States of how we want to co-operate, and not be dominated economically.

"But when the Liberal government approaches them with a cap-in-hand attitude and indicates that they want to merge our economy more and more with that of the United States, then it is naive to act surprised when they start filling the vacuum and calling some of the shots."

He said if there were some clear-cut guidelines it would have avoided the kind of embarrassing situations which the government has been running into during the past few months. (See also Page 20).

Will Make Trade Trip

OTTAWA (CP) — An 11-member Canadian trade mission to investigate marketing potential for lumber and wood products will make a three-week tour of Israel, Cyprus, Greece and Italy starting Sept. 18.

Sponsored by the federal trade department, the mission will leave Montreal Saturday. It will be in Israel from Sept. 18-21, Cyprus from Sept. 23-25, Greece from Sept. 26-Oct. 1 and Italy from Oct. 2-8.

Members of the mission include E. C. Bragg, Cobequid Lumber Co., Oxford Junction, N.S.; J. F. Brigden, Seaboard Lumber Sales Co. Ltd., Vancouver; J. P. Charpentier, Interior Lumberman's Association, Penticton, M. Gerin, Canexco Incorp., Quebec; R. A. Orr, Engineered Buildings Ltd., Calgary.

LABOR FORCE MOUNTS

Biggest Job Gain in B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — A strong surge of non-farm jobs, particularly in manufacturing, reduced unemployment in Canada to 228,000 in August from 244,000 in July. But it didn't get down to the mark of 211,000 reached in August of last year.

A joint report today by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the immigration department estimated the August unemployment rate at 2.9 per cent, down from 3.1 per cent in July. Last year's August rate was 2.8 per cent.

The continued decline in farm jobs, off 6,000 in the month to 649,000 and 85,000 lower on the year, offset much of the gain made in other industries.

Growth of the labor force continued at an unprecedented clip.

LABOR FORCE HITS RECORD

During the last five years the labor force has shown an average drop of 21,000 between July and August. But this year it grew by 18,000 to a record 7,805,000. That was 315,000 higher than in August, 1965.

The job picture in brief (estimates in thousands):

	Aug. 1966	July 1966	Aug. 1965
Labor force	7,805	7,787	7,490
Employed	7,577	7,543	7,279
Unemployed	228	244	211

Another 40,000 non-farm jobs showed up in the month although there normally is a dip at this time of year. "More than half of the additional jobs were in manufacturing," the report said.

The year-to-year gain was 383,000, more than enough to match the increase in the labor force if farm employment hadn't taken such a dive.

Largest job gains were posted in British Columbia, where employment rose six per cent on the year, and in Quebec, which showed an increase of 5.9 per cent.

The unemployment drop between July and August was almost entirely accounted for by teen-agers, mainly students who entered the labor force after schools closed. Teen-agers as a group normally show the highest jobless rate.

But, conversely, the year-to-year rise in unemployment was entirely among women, usually the group with low unemployment rates.

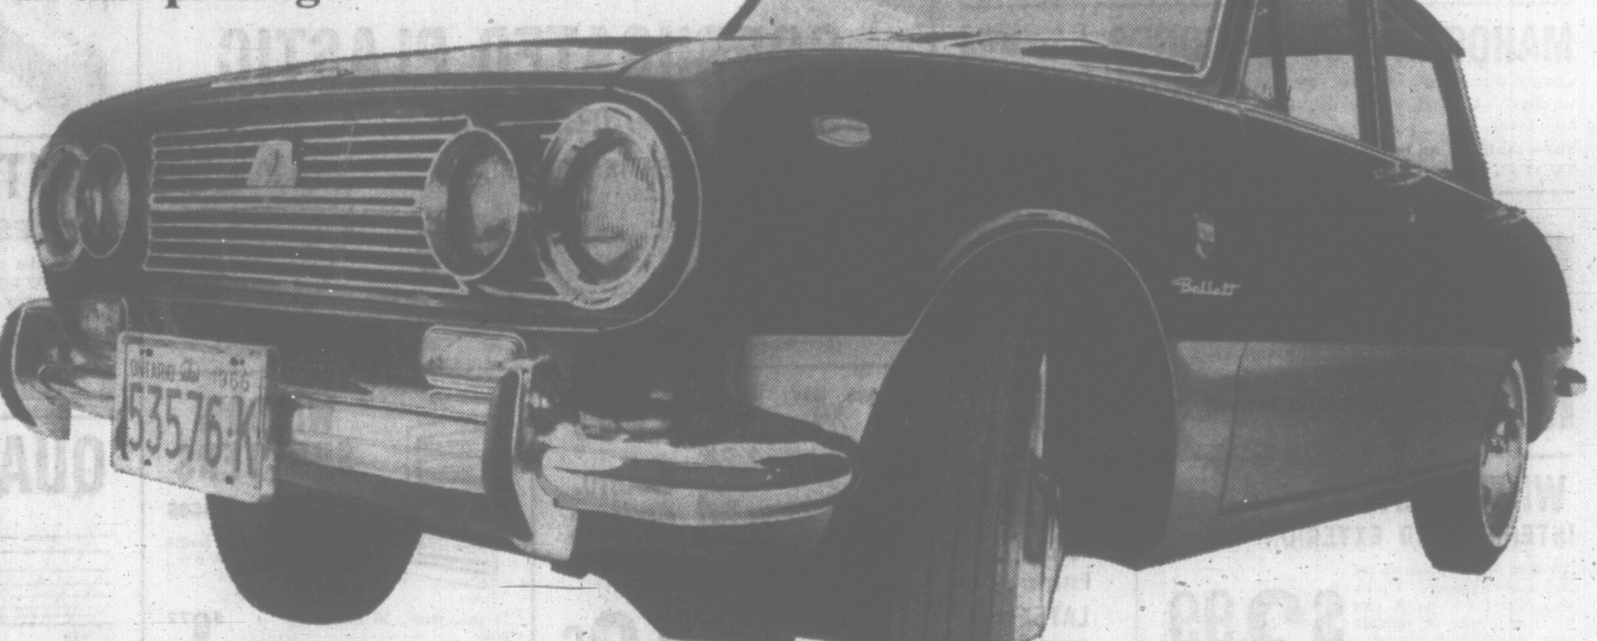
They come beautifully-wrapped in this package.



We're not saying that you can't get these Isuzu Bellett features in other economy cars.

You can.

The only problem is that you might have to buy two other economy cars to get them all.

For example.

The biggest-selling economy car will give you independent rear suspension for better traction.

But it won't give you 71 hp.

The biggest-selling economy car will sell you whitewalls.

But it won't do 90 mph.

The biggest-selling economy car will give you a few tools.

But it won't give you back-up lights.

The biggest-selling economy car will give you a 4-speed shift.

But it won't give you 4 headlights.

So unless you feel like buying a couple of other economy cars to get all these standard, no-cost features, take a look at Isuzu Bellett, the one economy car that has them all.

Isuzu Bellett 1500. The best economy car value you can buy at any price.

French Counterfeiter Executed

ALGIERS (Reuters)—Frenchman Desire Drai, sentenced to death on charges of counterfeiting, was executed by a firing squad today. Death sentences pased at the same trial on two other men, Frenchman Jean Corti and Algerian Mohammed Bouharid, were commuted by Prime Minister Houari Boumedienne to life imprisonment. All were charged with being implicated in the smuggling of forged French francs into Algeria.

TAKE IT OR LEAVE IT

Sharp Won't Back Down

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The federal government's proposals for revised five-year fiscal agreement with the provinces have been put forward as a package on a "take-it-or-leave-it" basis, Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp indicated Wednesday night.

The federal proposals, he stressed at a press briefing, after the first session of the federal-provincial tax structure committee, have been submitted as a package deal to be considered as a whole.

However he objected when reporters suggested that the attitude of the federal government appeared to be "unyielding" or "inflexible."

NO CHANGE

It was not possible for the federal government to go any further than it has in the new proposal in withdrawing from important tax fields, the finance minister emphasized.

Inflation is at the top of the agenda for the finance minister and provincial treasurers, including several provincial premiers, at today's sessions. Mr. Sharp did not anticipate there would be much difference of opinion between the premiers and Ottawa over the measures taken to curb inflationary pressures.

As to Ottawa's position on its new equalization tax sharing formula, Mr. Sharp said he had outlined the proposition to the premiers in his statement. They had been made public with no reason to believe that the new five-year fiscal agreement would be accepted by the provinces at this conference.

Mr. Sharp told newsmen that to the best of his knowledge no federal-provincial conference in Canadian history had produced a fiscal agreement.

ONE-YEAR DEAL

Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba and Premier Ernest Manning of Alberta proposed that instead of the new five-year fiscal agreement the federal

NOTHING SOLVED

Committee To Study Differences

OTTAWA (CP) — The current meeting of the federal-provincial tax structure committee is likely to make only one major decision — to appoint another committee, delegation leaders said today.

The second committee would study wide differences of view between Ottawa and the provinces and report back to the next meeting of the full committee in October.

Federal Finance Minister Sharp and the premiers of Quebec and Ontario reported at a noon break in the session that nothing is being resolved.

Mr. Sharp said "serious differences of opinion" will still exist when the two-day meeting breaks up later today.

The best that might be hoped for was a "clearer understanding" of the disagreements, especially on the sharing of taxes between Ottawa and the provinces.

The committee's job is to negotiate a new set of five-year tax agreements between Ottawa and the provinces. On Wednesday Mr. Sharp summarized federal proposals that would change radically the basis of sharing direct taxes and the costs of major social programs, and revise the formula for redistributing tax revenues through equalization payments.

Canada's Role Praised For Saving Commonwealth

(Special to The Times)

LONDON — Canada is getting the credit for closing the gap that threatened to split the Commonwealth wide open.

A draft communique by Prime Minister Pearson and the Canadian delegation formed the basis of the agreement reached here Wednesday night on future handling of the Rhodesian situation.

While the communique was approved unanimously, there was not unanimity in the views expressed in it. In the compromise reached, Britain gets an opportunity for another try at negotiated settlement with rebel leader Ian Smith.

But it ties Britain to a deadline by the year's end. The rest of the Commonwealth got reinforcement from Britain that there is no possibility of independence being granted against the wishes of the Rhodesian people as a whole. British Prime Minister Harold Wilson was moved by pressure of opinion, headed by the Afro-Asian block, to go further than he intended.

The "last chance" deadline for Smith was not originally in the British scheme.

Britain also agreed to go along with the Canadian initiative of selective mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia through UN action, but not until the deadline for a negotiated settlement has passed.

While they signed the communique, the Afro-Asian group, and particularly the majority of the African countries among the 22 represented at the talks, would have liked stronger language.

The communique pointed up their belief that force was the only sure way to bring down the illegal regime. The agreement was reached after seven days of critical talks here at which the whole future of the Commonwealth as a multi-racial organization was in the balance.

Some British editorial criticism is that even the compromise communique puts

ANTI-WAR PROTESTS MARK SUB LAUNCHING

BARROW-IN-FURNESS, England (UPI) — The Queen Mother Elizabeth today launched Britain's first Polaris submarine while protestors paraded with anti-war placards.

A stiff breeze blew sprays of champagne and glass on shipyard workers as the Queen Mother smashed the traditional bottle against the side of HMS Resolution and sent the $76 millon pound ($212.8 million) nuclear submarine sliding into the water.

On her drive to the Barrow-in-Furness shipyard she passed orderly demonstrators bearing placards saying "Work for Peace, Not War" and "Arms Race Over Human Race." Albert Booth, Labor Party member of Parliament for the area, also stayed away in protest.

20 DROWNED

Storm Splits Submarine Hull

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — One of Adolf Hitler's last killer U-boats, rebuilt after being scuttled at the end of the war, split open and sank in a North Sea storm Wednesday night with 21 persons aboard for a training cruise.

There was one known survivor, Chief Petty Officer Peter Silbernagel, 23, the cook on the small (282-ton) training submarine Hai (Shark). He reported the Hai sank in seconds like a stone after a storm cracked open her hull.

TWO BODIES FOUND

The bodies of two of the crewmen were plucked out of the choppy seas by helicopter, but a huge sea and air rescue operation was hampered by high winds and squally seas and it was feared the 20 others had drowned.

The U.S. Navy was sending the rescue submarine Kittiwake from Holy Loch in Scotland but it was expected to take 40 hours to reach the disaster scene just south of the Shetland Islands, 200 miles east of Tynemouth, England.

ON SURFACE

Silbernagel said the submarine was on the surface at time of the sinking and that eight or nine members of the crew who were on deck or on the U-boat's streamlined conning tower jumped overboard when the captain gave the order to abandon ship.

The cook was rescued by the British trawler St. Martin today after he had been in the chilly waters more than 12 hours. He was transferred to the German destroyer Barvaria.

Silbernagel said the submarine's hull cracked during the storm and water burst into the engine room. The captain ordered the crewmen to don lifejackets and abandon ship but most were trapped when the U-

NEAR-PERFECT SPLASHDOWN

'No-Hands' Re-Entry For U.S. Astronauts

SPACE CENTRE, HOUSTON (UPI) — Gemini 11 astronauts Charles (Pete) Conrad and Richard F. Gordon splashed almost perfectly into the Atlantic today at the end of one of the most successful space flights yet.

Conrad and Gordon used a new "no-hands" automatic re-entry and floated down under an orange and white parachute, watched by millions of persons on television.

The splashdown was about 700 miles east of Cape Kennedy, about 2½ miles from the recovery carrier Guam, and between 1½ and two miles fom their target point.

A space agency official on the carrier called the landing "the best one we've ever had."

●

"This old world looks good from the deck of this carrier," Gordon told welcoming navy officials. "But I'll tell you it really looks great from 750 miles."

Conrad and Gordon shot to a space altitude record of 850 statute miles—750 nautical miles—early Wednesday.

"We had a very good flight," Conrad said. "With a good night's sleep we'll be ready to go again."

Conrad told newsmen the view from 850 miles was "just fantastic" and their Agena target vehicle "so good I almost hated to leave it."

Then the astronauts walked to the Guam sick bay for check-ups and rest. Their physician, Dr. John Droescher, said, "They look better than I do."

Conrad and Gordon will fly to Cape Kennedy Friday afternoon to begin a long series of first-hand reports on their mission. They are scheduled to return to their homes in Houston Sunday or Monday.

The automatic re-entry and the altitude record were two of the successes of a flight in which almost everything went well. The one exception was Gordon's Tuesday spacewalk, which was cut short when he was partially blinded by his own sweat.

Gemini 11 also carried out a rendezvous with an Agena satellite in record time following Monday's launch on the first orbit, and crews launched the Gemini in the tightest launch "window" ever—a matter of a few seconds. The astronauts also demonstrated a promising new "cartwheel" technique with the two vehicles on a 100-foot tether Wednesday.

●

Conrad and Gordon also increased the U.S. total of man-hours in space to 1,733 hours and 16 minutes, compared to Russia's 507 hours and 16 minutes.

"We had an excellent flight," said Dr. George E. Mueller, head of the U.S. civilian manned spaceflight program.

"The mission objectives were accomplished, and more."

Dr. Robert Gilruth, director of the manned spacecraft centre in Houston, said the significance of Gemini 11 was that it again proved mastery of the rendezvous techniques.

But he said Gordon's trouble spacewalking showed "we still have a lot to learn" about man's ability to work in space.

Mueller also disclosed after the splashdown that the last mission in the Gemini series—Gemini 12—has been lengthened

Pilgrims Mowed Down

DOMODOSSOLA, Italy (CP) — An automobile today mowed down a line of Roman Catholic students walking along a mountain road on a night pilgrimage to a nearby shrine. Five were killed and seven were injured.

Thirty-eight students were walking in single file when their column was struck by the automobile shortly after midnight.

The seminarians, ranging in age from 15 to 23, were all Italian.

Police said they were hit by an automobile coming from the opposite direction which ran into the line of marchers head-on. Reason for the accident was not known.

Police said the 24-year-old driver of the car was in hospital. He was not injured but was described under shock.

THANT REBUFFS BID TO HAVE HIM STAY

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U Thant today rebuffed concerted attempts to draft him for another term as secretary-general, declaring that more effort should be devoted to finding his successor.

Ex-Mayor New Uvic Leader

Former Victoria mayor Richard B. Wilson has been named chancellor of the University of Victoria, president Dr. Malcolm Taylor announced today.

Mr. Wilson, who retired from civic politics last December, will succeed Judge J. B. Clearihue when his term expires at the end of this year.

He was elected by acclamation when nominations closed Wednesday for the university's most honored position.

In a tribute to Judge Clearihue, President Taylor said: "His contribution to university development over the past 60 years will not soon be forgotten and its effect will be felt for many years to come.

"His efforts toward enlightenment in the community have been untiring since he was a member of the first class of Victoria College in 1903."

Nominations also closed Wednesday for candidates for six positions on the university senate.

Fifteen candidates have been nominated for the three-year terms.

They are: Mrs. Olivia Barr, a former president of the Alma Mater Society; Canon Hilary

VOTE MONDAY IN TWO RIDINGS

No Issues in Nfld. Byelections

By DON McLEOD

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Byelections scheduled Monday in two of Newfoundland's seven federal electoral districts, overshadowed recently by the provincial election Sept. 8, will be the first voting test for Prime Minister Pearson's minority Liberal government since the last general election.

The byelections were called Aug. 1 after one of the seven Liberals elected from Newfoundland in the general election Nov. 8, 1965 resigned, bringing vacancies in the House of Commons to four—including two Newfoundland seats.

The first vacancy was created when Clemente Vincent, a Progressive Conservative, resigned in Quebec's Nicolet - Tamaska district to run for the Union Nationale party in the last Quebec provincial election. He now is agriculture minister for that province.

The death Aug. 31 of Alexis Caron, Liberal member for Hull, created a second vacancy. No byelection has been called yt.

Prime Minister Pearson named Liberal Chesley Carter to the Senate in July, after Mr. Carter had held Newfoundland's Burin-Burgeo district since Confederation in 1949.

Charles R. Granger, veteran Liberal member for the geographically - huge district of Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador, quit his Commons seat to become Newfoundland's first minister of Labrador affairs. He was elected legislature member for Gander last week.

Five candidates are in the running for the two Newfoundland seats. Campaigning has been relatively quiet, with only a handful of public meetings, practically no television speeches and an absence of heated issues.

APPEAR TOGETHER

Several joint platform appearances were made by provincial and federal candidates during the three-week campaign that netted Premier Smallwood's Liberals 39 of Newfoundland's 42 legislature seats and reduced the Conservative opposition to three members.

Liberal candidate Andrew Chatwood in Grand Falls-White Bay-Labrador, 34, is personnel superintendent with a mining company in western Labrador. He is opposed by Progressive Conservative Thomas Pitcher, 44, of Grand Falls, unsuccessful PC candidate in the same district last November, and Lorne Snell, also employed with a mining company in Labrador, who is running for the New Democratic Party.

Seeking the Burin - Burgeo seat are broadcasting executive Don Jamieson, 44, for the Liberals, and Eric Hiscock, 45, who was defeated in that district last November as a Social Credit candidate and now is running as a Progressive Conservative. He is an insurance underwriter here.

Smith's back to the wall. The communique stated Britain would lay down its ultimatum to Smith. If he refused, Britain would drop any possibility of a settlement involving independence before majority rule. It stated that if given the full support of the Commonwealth representatives, Britain would be prepared in sponsoring at the UN "before the end of this year" a resolution providing for effective and selected mandatory sanctions.

LOOPHOLE

Some immediately detected a possible loophole here — Britain backing out of this if it had even support of one other member — but it would mean just about finis for the Commonwealth if tried. These sanctions would include a clamp down on exports from Rhodesia of asbestos, chrome pig iron and other materials.

The communique also stated that Britain would not consent to independence before majority rule unless the people of Rhodesia as a whole were shown to be in favor of it. And this time there was no timetable tied to the processes to be taken, other than the end-of-the-year stipulation for a possible negotiated settlement.

The communique stated the ministers would meet again "soon" if the regime was not brought down speedily.

"Soon" was interpreted by many to mean the spring. The communique also said there was agreement to further help Zambia cut off the imports she still receives from Rhodesia out of necessity, and that similar consideration be given to help Malawi.

Pearson later commented later that the significance of the communique was that it existed at all.

He said he was convinced the British would do everything they could to bring the rebel regime to an end, but in a way that would not ruin the chances of a co-operative, multi-racial future for Rhodesia.

DRIVE AWAY LIBERALS

Wilson had argued throughout the conference that a firm declaration of independence before majority government would drive away more liberal Rhodesians who could be expected to participate in an interim government in a period of direct rule that would follow the downfall of Smith. Pearson, who acted in the role of mediator throughout, also tried to soften the strident African demand for immediate government on a one-man, one-vote basis.

The London Times today said credit must be given where due to Pearson for "a triumph of drafting." The Manchester Guardian stated: "The personal diplomacy of the Canadian prime minister, Mr. Lester Pearson, appears to have been the lifeline that held the Commonwealth together and produced the near-miracle and agreed communique on Rhodesia in London last night."

First reaation from political observers in Rhodesia meanwhile, was that Wilson's conditions for a negotiated settlement were impossible and that Smith could never agree to abandon the independence he seized and allow British-appointed Governor Sir Humphrey Gibbs to appoint a "legal" government and take over the police and armed forces.

Smith has stressed a resolute line in his recent speeches, and warned that the more Rhodesia is threatened the more defiant she will become.

Talk of declaring a republic is growing again, with government supporters claiming cutting the final ties with Britain would make it easier for other countries — and also the Rhodesian courts — to recognize the Smith's white-minority regime.

No Float For Grey Cup

Victoria will not have a float in this year's Grey Cup parade in Vancouver.

The city's finance committee turned down a bid by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to enter the float in the pre-game high-jinks.

Cost of the project was estimated at $4,000—too high a price for the city to pay.

It was noted that the float had already appeared in May 24 parade in Victoria, the Seattle Seafair parade and the PNE parade.

City manager Dennis Young said that on its return from the PNE the float was in such poor shape that it was dismantled and stored in the public works department yards.

"I should point out, however, that it has never been the practice to enter the same float in two parades in the same city," he said.

Cost of a new float would be $?,500 plus the $500 for transportation. The committee dropped the matter.

Beach Log Blaze Proves Stubborn

City firemen took about an hour to douse a beach fire early today.

They were called to the blaze among logs on the east side of Clover Point at 5:30 a.m.

PREPARING for today's session of the federal-provincial fiscal conference in Ottawa, Quebec Premier Johnson, right, and Finance Minister Dozois are engrossed in French-language newspaper whose front page headlines read "equality or independence".

GORDON:

Medicare To Proceed On Time

WINNIPEG (CP) — Former finance minister Walter Gordon said Wednesday there will be pressure within the federal Liberal party to proceed with medical care insurance legislation this fall.

Mr. Gordon said he was certain some Liberal MPs will "urge strongly that it be proceeded with this fall."

He said the legislation should be brought before Parliament this fall and should be passed and put into operation when approved by a certain number of the provinces.

NOT INFLATIONARY

Mr. Gordon said he didn't think medical care insurance would create inflationary pressures.

Mr. Gordon replied with a blunt "no" when asked if he would seek the national Liberal leadership should Prime Minister Pearson retire.

Mr. Gordon said he welcomes U.S. capital for Canadian development, but in the form of bonds, debentures and equities associated with Canadian ownership.

"I just want to see us retain our ownership."

Students on Rampage

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A mob of 600 rampaging Buenos Aires university students pitched rocks and fire bombs at hard-pressed riot police Wednesday night in a fresh outbreak of anti-government violence in troubled Argentina.

Silbernagel was in a group of four men bound together with a lifeline but that he cut himself loose and swam for hours when he saw his shipmates lose consciousness. He said another group also bound together with a lifeline were in the water.

"The seas were very high — about 18 feet I would say — and three of the others had no lifejackets. I don't think they lasted very long. We lost contact in the rough seas and I kept myself afloat for 12 hours before I was picked up."

Operation Saturday On Siamese Twins

TORONTO (CP) — An operation to attempt the separation of the McGee Siamese twins will be performed Saturday, the Hospital for Sick Children said in a statement today.

"The general condition of the McGee twins has become less satisfactory," the statement said.

"The steady weight gain that previously indicated continual improvement has slowed down, and they are now more easily fatigued by routine daily functions, such as feeding, baths, etc.

"For this reason it is felt the operation should be carried out without further delay."

Earlier in the week, it was thought the operation-originally set for mid-September-may be delayed due to the position of the twins' hearts.

"A condition that originally looked correctable may be insurmountable at the time of the operation," the earlier statement said.

"Early in the investigation of the McGee twins it was established they had separate hearts that were contained in a common pericardial sac," the hospital said. "The hearts, instead of lying in the normal vertical axis of the body, are placed horizontally, side by side, the heart of each baby protruding into the chest of the other."

Despite the danger of the operation, neither twin will live if it is not attempted, the statement said.

The McGee twins, Sherry Ann and Crystal Ann, were born in Guelph June 2 and shared a weight of nearly 15 pounds. They are joined together from chest to navel.

AFRICAN TOUR, including a visit to rebel Rhodesia, will be made by British deputy Conservative leader Reginald Maudling. Leaving Saturday Maudling will make a two-week trip "to assess the position following the Commonwealth prime ministers' conferencec."

Skillings May Consider Stepping Down

Victoria Socred MLA Waldo Skillings said Wednesday he would consider stepping down to make way for nomination of Attorney-General Robert Bonner in a byelection.

Mr. Bonner, defeated by Liberal Garde Gardom in Vancouver-Point Grey Monday, has been offered four areas in which to run to regain a seat in the legislature.

"I have always been a team man and if the premier asked me to step down I'd take it under advisement," Mr. Skillings said.

"But after going through the nominating convention I'm rather loath to make any hasty decisions. Meanwhile, no one has approached me."

Skillings' Victoria seat is considered a safe one as he was elected with a majority of more than 6,000 votes.

Provincial Socreds meet here next week after the premier's return from Ottawa to plan strategy.

There had been a suggestion Conservatives would be interested in putting up a strong candidate if a vacancy occurs in the riding.

But Judy Creighton, president of Young Conservative Association, said the Tories have no intention of running in a Victoria byelection.

Cheque Bounces

Stella Larson, 2541 Empire, was fined $50 on a charge of false pretences when she appeared in central court Wednesday.

She pleaded guilty to getting goods and cash totalling $24 from Canada Safeway, 1600 Hillside, July 22, with a worthless cheque.

Three other charges against her were dismissed.
